

Big Auto Racing Program Slated At Fair Grounds Independence Day

FAST COAST RACERS WILL ENTER EVENTS

Salem will be the scene of one of the finest auto racing programs shown in the Northwest since the last Tacoma speedway race of 1922, when some of the fastest racers on the coast appear at the state fair grounds July 4.

For the number of race cars assembled on a northwest track all records will be broken, as there will be between 30 and 40 cars entered on the day of the big classic.

The program will include one fifty-mile sweepstakes race free for all cars classifying and two other races of 20-mile duration, one for class A cars and the other for class B. There will also be two matched races between lady auto drivers and motorcycle riders.

In order to eliminate any delays the time trials will start at 12 noon and the races proper will start at 2:30 p. m.

The program will start off with a 20-mile race for class B cars.

Then a special feature, a three-mile race between lady Motorcycle Riders namely Margaret McKern of Portland and Izzetta Hilderbrand also of Portland on two special Super X Excelsior Motorcycles will be held. This is the first time the public has been treated to a race of this kind.

Then there will be a 20-mile race for class A cars, all cars entered according to time classification.

The second special feature will be a three-mile race in racing automobiles by two lady drivers. They will be announced at the track but the fans can be assured they are both snappy drivers and will put on a real thriller.

The last event will be the grand sweepstakes, a 50-mile race which will give the race fans a chance to see a miniature Indianapolis race with plenty of mileage and all the risks and thrills that only a long race can have.

For this race meet the Northwestern Automobile Racing association under whose direction it is held has promised to have as judges only men who have had a varied experience in the racing game so as to have the race go over as smoothly and promptly as scheduled.

The officials will be chosen from the following well known race fans:

Big, handsome Kiminki, with perfect support from his fellow Hansen-Liljequist players, held the P. E. P. company batsmen to one lone hit in the Industrial league game last night. At the same time the lumbermen were pounding Marriott, PEP pitcher, for enough hits to score a 13 to 0 victory.

The PEP club still retains leadership of the league, but with the redoubtable Kiminki to rely on in the closing days, Hansen-Liljequist may step into the top position before the season ends.

Eighteen men faced this pitcher in five innings last night. Of the 18, two got bases on balls and young Arnold got a lucky hit. The others were struck out.

MYSTERY CLOAKS PLANS

When Richard Grace Will Leave Honolulu on Flight Unknown

HONOLULU, June 28.—(AP)—Plans of Richard Grace, civilian aviator, for hopping off the island of Kauai on a non-stop flight to San Francisco, were cloaked in mystery late tonight, as newspapermen there failed to penetrate the cloak of secrecy thrown up at the take-off point. Grace, who is being aided by the naval forces, here, arrived at the runway at 4:45 p. m. Honolulu time (7:15 p. m. Pacific time), after a flight from Honolulu. On leaving here, he expressed the desire of taking off as soon as possible.

TWINS SWIM DOWN THE HUDSON

In an effort to break the record set by Mrs. Lottie Schoemmel last year, Bernice and Phyllis Zitenfeld, 13-year-old twins, started down the Hudson river, from Albany, N. Y., for the Battery, New York City, stopping at night. The distance is 150 miles. Photo shows twins receiving grease coating from their trainer.

CALIFORNIA BEARS FAVORITES IN RACE

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 28.—(AP)—The pick of the country's college crews, primed for a spectacular climax to the rowing season of 1927, meet tomorrow on the Hudson, with the eastern oarsmen again arrayed against a formidable challenge from the west in all three championship races.

The University of Washington's Huskies have provided the thrills of the Poughkeepsie regatta by winning three of the past four varsity races. They are back this year to defend their title with a crew still rated high, although somewhat below previous standards, and the far western threat is doubled by the presence of California's Golden Bears, giants of the varsity race, conquerors of Washington, and favorites among many close observers.

If any of the five eastern eights in the varsity race is to stop the onrush of the Bears or Huskies, it will be the naval academy's stalwarts, in the opinion of most critics.

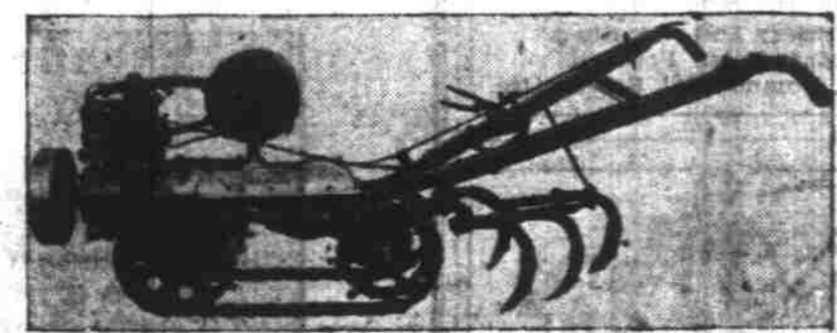

The sailors, stroked again by the indomitable Tom Eddy, rated by coaches as "the greatest college oarsman today in America"—have been constantly ranked as favorites.

It is the given view that the Middies will fight it out with the powerful, yet smooth stroking Californians in the stretch. At the same time the chances of other contenders are not being overlooked.

Miss Helen Wills chalked up the second American win, but Francis T. Hunter went down with colors flying before the French ace, Henri Cochet.

The victory of Miss Wills was just a day's work for the business-like Berkeley girl. She disposed of Mrs. Peacock, of South Africa, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1.

SALEM WATER FIRM GOES TO NEW HANDS

Plans for Turning Over Company to Federal Corporation Completed

Final plans for the taking over of the Salem Water company by the Oregon-Washington Water Service corporation will be completed today, it was announced last night by local officials of the water company.

According to tentative plans, the new company will assume possession on Friday, when J. W. Helwick, district manager for the new company, will personally take over the plant for his corporation. Few changes in the personnel and in the immediate policies of the company in Salem are expected, it is said.

However, the new corporation, which is a branch of the Federal Water Service corporation, has an expert engineering staff in its employ and expects soon to make a survey of the water needs of the city of Salem, looking toward a development which will follow the growth of the city, authoritative sources declare.

For the present, headquarters for the new corporation will be maintained in Portland, it is said, although the maturing of present plans for the acquisition of other water systems in southern Oregon may make it desirable that Salem become the district headquarters for the company in the near future.

Notorious Sycan Wolf Caught at Silver Lake

PORTLAND, June 28.—(AP)—The big white wolf of Sycan Marsh which slew $17,000 worth of cattle, sheep and horses, and which for 12 years was feared and expected in Lake county, has been trapped.

Those who denied the existence of such an animal have been proved wrong, Elmer Williams of the United States biological survey had him at Silver Lake, Ore., last night to prove it.

Long has been the dispute waged about the brute. That he was a wolf is correct. That he was white is true. The dispute over these facts has been long and heated.

One of the disputants was Stanley G. Jewett, the biological survey's leader of predatory animal control in Oregon. Jewett and Williams argued to the end.

"Williams believed all he heard about that wolf," Jewett said today, "while I never believed more than a third of the wild tales I heard. I would say those fellows who talked about a white wolf were all wrong. That's why Williams put that word 'white' in his telegram."

Williams' laconic telegram was sent from Silver Lake yesterday. It said: "Sycan wolf trapped today. White male."

The Sycan wolf was a source of mystery. More weird stories of devastation surrounded it than any other animal Jewett has known. His tracks were the size of an average cougar's, the largest wolf tracks Jewett ever saw in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, or Montana. His howl was described as a sound like the baying of a hound. And he was white.
