Willamette Graduate Returning to Strife Torn Native Province

John Tsai, Chinese student who graduated from Willamette university this spring with honors in sociology, leaves oday to return to his home in China, after a four year residence in Salem. He will leave San Francisco on a Japanese liner on July 5, and expects to arrive in Shanghai in about three weeks, after making a stop at Yokohama and Tokyo in Japan.

Tsal's home is in the northern part of South China, in the city of Kinkiang, in the province of Kiangsi, on the Yangtze river. During the mob excitement following the taking over of the city by southern nationalist troops last winter, his home was looted, before order could be restored by the new government forces.

His father was a teacher of the Chinese classics in an English private school there, he says, until the first of this year, when the school was closed. At one time he was a Methodist minister. Tsai's uncle is the superintendent of the northern Klangsi district of the Methodist church in China.

When he returns to China, Tsai expects to teach in Chung-san university, a new nationalist school which has been established in the city, of Wuchang, across the Yangize river from Hankow, founded in memory of Dr. Snn Yat Sen, former nationalist lead-

A sister, Iling Tsal, came to Willamette from China as a freshman this last year, and will remain here to get her degree, according to present plans.

In China Tsai expects to identify himself with the nationalist movement, he said, for he bes that in it lies the hope of the future for his nation. Chinese young people have generally joined this group, he declared. Sometime later he expects to re-

urn to the United States again to isit his friends in Salem, and to isit also the grave of a cousin, ona Tsai, who is buried on the mpus of the University of Mich-VAL EXPERTS AGREE
