the total tonnage of warships as low as possible, and has been backed up by Japan in its endeavor.

The Americans and Japanese have taken this stand because they are convinced that a genuine move toward disarmament and economy can be achieved only by a treaty which limits total tonnages and establishes levels beyond which the nations agree not to go.

The British demand is for the right to maintain and replace cruisers whose totals tonnage would far exceed the limits suggested by the United States and Japan. Acceptance of this, it is contended, would force both the United States and Japan into an increased, instead of reduced buildign program.

As one Japanese said today, "t would nominally be a treaty of limitation, but really would be a treaty of expansion."

CHIROPRACTIC CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

Dr. N. S. C. Checkos, who delivered on of the main addresses Thursday morning, holds the degree of M. D. He is the dean of the Pacific Chiropractic college in Portland, the official school of the association. He has been in Portland since 1911, and with the school since 1922. He is responsible for many of the improvements in curriculum and standards of the school, which at present requires a high school certificate for entrance, and 28 months of attendance for graduation. The standard of the school is being raised steadily, so that in the near future, he says, the entrance requirements will include one year of liberal college work. Much new equipment, and a new laboratory has been added recently.

Dr. Roy A. Peebles, president of the association, is a practicing chiropratic in Portland. In recognition of his outstanding work overseas during the World war, he has been elected surgeon general for the chief of staff of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Dr. Peebles has been prominent in Kiwanian activities in Portland.

The Honorable B. F. Mulkey, who spoke at the noon luncheon Thursday, was for eight years a member of the state legislature, most of the time in the senate, and has acted as legal counsel for the Chiropractic association for some years. He is now a practicing attorney in Portland.

Dr. Miles D. Warren and Dr. O. G. Fisher, who conducted lectures on chiropractic adjustments Thursday afternoon, are both members of the faculty of the Pacific Chiropractic college in Portland. Dr. Warren is a newly appointed member of the Chiropractic examining board.

Dr. Lenore B. Elliott, president of the Pacific Chiropractic college in Portland, was an attendant at the sessions of the convention Friday. Dr. Elliott has been president of the college since the death of her husband, Dr. Oscar W. Elliott, former president, last December. Dr. O. W. Elliott took over the school in its infancy, and built it to its present condition, with seven instructors, 150 to 200 students, and a fine modern plant which is being added to yearly. A number of the students there are older practitioners, taking postgraduate work.

Dr. Etta H. Breach, secretary of the Oregon Chiropractic association, is a Portland practitioner, having been there for over five years. Her husband, Dr. Charles O. Breach, is a licensed practitioner, but is best known in Portland through his work as teacher of violin. He is a member of the Portland Symphony Orchestra. He is past secretary of the association and will speak this morning.

Dr. H. Lee Fording, who spoke on "Accommodation of the Human Eye," is a professor of anatomy and pathology at the North Pacific College of Optometry, and brought the greetings of his school and profession to the convention.

Dr. David E. Long, of Portland, is the newly appointed secretary of the state board of chiropractic examiners. A group of about 25 applicants will take the examination next week, according to Dr. Long.

DEATH TOLL IN CANADA FIRE KNOWN TO BE SIX

its source on the fourth floor, but it also worked to the lower floors through ventilating shafts. The damage to the building and its furnishings was variously estimated at from 100,000 to $200,000 tonight.

The blaze, starting on the fourth floor, rapidly spread to the fifth and sixth stories of the seven-story building and trapped men, women and children, while police and firemen fought desperately to save them.

Within three minutes after the alarm was turned in, the upper flors were choked with smoke, fire and fumes. Panic stricken, the occupants of the apartments grouped their way to open windows to the blazing roof where many were lowered to the ground.

Fears were expressed that the death toll would run higher than six when a complete check up is made. Several of the score or more in hospitals were not expected to recover.

The sixth body was recovered from the smouldering building shortly before 7 o'clock tonight. It was that of a young girl, burned almost beyond hope of identification. Firemen believed at that hour that several other bodies were still in the building.

The manslaughter charge filed against Henderson alleges that the fire started when sparks from a cigarette he was smoking ignited a can of liquid with which he was removing paint from the floor of the fourth story corridor. Henderson was said to have stated to police that the flames suddenly enveloped the hallway and drove him to safety.

The Royal Alexandra was built in 1911, at a cost of $250,000. Many visitors from other cities were occupants of the suites.

ROCKEFELLER 88 FRIDAY

Standard Oil Head Attends to Business, Golfs, Motors

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—His four-score and eighth birthday found John D. Rockefeller, Standard Oil king, attending to business, playing a little golf, and enjoying a motor trip over the countryside, with nothing by way of celebration to make the day especially significant.

Arising early at his Pocantico Hills estate, near Tarrytown, Mr. Rockefeller spent an extra hour at breakfast, chatting with members of his family and a few friends, before settling down to work.

With a foursome of business and social associates, the oil king went the round of his golf course for more than two hours, and after luncheon, took a fifty-mile motor jaunt through Westchester county.

WORLD RECORDS FALL

Duration and Distance Marks Broken by Air Lieutenant

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 8.—(AP)—At least six world's records have been smashed and two new marks established for two-engined flying boats, carrying pay loads of 1000 and 2000 kilograms, according to unofficial check after the landing at the local naval air station of Lieutenant Byron Connell's plane at 6:24:35 p. m. today.

Lieutenant Connell, piloting a naval seaplane, had been in the air 11 hours, 7 minutes and 18 seconds, the unofficial check showed.

In addition to duration and distance records broken or established by Lieutenant Connell, he succeeded in bringing back to the United States from Italy, the duration record for the load carried. The Italian record in the air was five hours and 41 minutes and Connell's time almost doubles the former mark for duration.

GREAT INCREASE OF BANK BUSINESS

Salem's Debit Checks on All Banks Here More Than Doubled in 3 Years

The current bulletin of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, dated July 7, has the following, showing that Salem's bank business more than doubled in June of this year over the same month three years ago. The report follows:

Babson's Report

Every month the Babson Statistical Agency of Babson Park, Massachusetts, publishes a report of business conditions. Business is estimated not on bank clearances, but on the total of debit checks on all banks in a city.

How Business is Growing

Let us compare Babson's monthly report on Salem for the first six months of 1924 and the first six months of this year. Here are the figures:

	Year 1924	Year 1927
Jan. ...	$ 7,348,631	$12,931,022
Feb. ..	6,469,295	10,687,773
Mch. ..	10,112,541	13,276,905
Apr. ...	8,720,204	14,712,542
May ...	7,421,790	14,866,270
June ..	7,104,076	16,717,227

What Babson Says

No wonder that the Babson Statistic Agency writes the Chamber of Commerce under date of March 28, 1927:

"Salem conditions are fundamentally sound and the tendency is vigorously upward. The city has made a most impressive showing and is likely to continue its forward strides."

HAIR DYE LEAD CAUSE

John Paulson Believed Victim of Tonic Ingredient

TWIN FALLS, Ida., July 8.—(AP)—Lead, used as a principal ingredient in the manufacture of hair dyes and tonics that in recent years have taken a marked popularity on account of their alcoholic content, is a possible cause of the death of John Paulson, Bend, Ore., 42 years old whose body was taken from the shallow waters of Rock Springs creek, near here, on June 15.

LIVESTOCK HEARING ENDS

Mass of Technical Data Remains For Examiners' View

PORTLAND, Ore., July 8.—(AP)—A mass of technical and statistical evidence featured the concluding session of the hearing today on western livestock freight rates. The hearing took place before Chester E. Stiles and Arthur Parker, examiners for the interstate commerce commission.

Voluminous exhibits were introduced by both the livestock interests and the railroads. The roads submitted reports and figures covering costs of operation, investment, revenue and all phases taken into consideration in the computation of freight rates and tariffs.

MILL HAND CONFESSES TO HAMMER SLAYING

for a small sum of money he had. Then he stood outside the house for half an hour—"just standing."

"I don't remember very much about that," he said.

At the end of thirty minutes he again went into the house, and in a wood box he crunched up a bundle of papers and applied a match. The fire caught soon and the house was in flames.

That is McCurdy's story. Officers have added to it. They find not long ago Mrs. McCurdy made a six weeks' visit with relatives in Corvallis. The man complained. Twice the woman complained to her son that the husband had threatened to kill her.

Atracted by the blaze this morning—the death pyre of the woman, neighbors found McCurdy in a shed behind the house in a puzzling stooped posture. "Oh, my God, what have I done," he exclaimed as they asked him why he made no effort to extinguish the fire. "Yes, I think my wife got out," he answered weakly when they asked if Mrs. McCurdy had escaped.

McCurdy will be charged with murder in the first degree, Sheriff Mass and District Attorney Stipp declared tonight. He was arrested immediately after the fire.

CRUSHED UNDER TRUCK

Little Vancouver Child Falls Under Wheels of Heavy Car

VANCOUVER, Wash., July 8.—(AP)—Grace Evelyn, 13-months'-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bottomiller, was crushed to death today under the wheels of a heavy truck driven by Carl Tetz. The baby, unnoticed by the family, was standing behind the truck when Tetz backed it up after having unloaded his machine at the house.

VOLCANO SEARCHER REPORTS SUCCESS

Investigation Made in Hawaii for U. S. Geological Survey Completed

DUTCH HARBOR, Alaska, July 8.—(AP)—With a report of having seen 20 large volcanoes, Dr. T. A. Jaggar, volcanologist, from Hawaii, in charge of volcano investigations for the United States geological survey, has returned here from a cruise in the western Aleutian islands at Atka on the coast guard cutter Unagla. Both the Bogosloff and Gareloi volcanoes are active now, Dr. Jaggar said.

He, with Commander Perkins of of Unagla, landed on Bogosloff island where they found a new steaming inner cone of oht rough lava in the volcano surrounded by a ring-shaped lagoon of warm salt water. Outside of this was a complete ring gravel with beaches inside and outside and no open channel anywhere between the two older peaks which lie at the two ends of Bogosloff island.

Dr. Jaggar is of the opinion that a new spell of intense activity has started on Bogosloff closely resembling the eruption of 1906.

The volcano had apparently eroupted in December, 1926. The surrounding ground is pitted with recently fallen bombs, covered with big pumios blocks, gravel, sand and ash. A herd of almost 400 sea lions was found living on the beaches close to the active lava dome ad millions of sea birds were nesting in the cliffs and sand banks. There was sulphurous steam, but no noxious gas was encountered.

The western Aleutian region is impressive in the extent of unexplored coast line. There are 600 miles of Pacific shore unknown, and 160 uncharted harbors.
