

STARTLING CHARGES
DUE IN GRAFT CASE

Indiana Governor, Congressman Said Involved in Political Corruption

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 12. (AP)—Uncertain whether the time has arrived when the authorities should be given what he called the "real evidence" to substantiate D. C. Stephenson's charges of political graft in Indiana, in recent years, Lloyd O. Hill, attorney for the former Ku Klux Klan leader, will go to the state prison at Michigan City, tomorrow, for instructions from his client. Stephenson is serving a life term for murder.

Publication by an Indianapolis newspaper of photostatic copies of checks Stephenson alleges he wrote in favor of Governor Ed Jackson, during his campaign in 1923, for the gubernatorial nomination on the republican ticket, and other so-called evidence, are mere "drops in the bucket" compared with what is being held back, Hill said today.

"The attorney declared he was the custodian of agreements forced into by Stephenson and politicians, who now hold state, county and city offices. The evidence, he intimated, would show the power of the former klanism wielded in Indiana, and how the office seekers courted his support and signed papers granting him the right to tell them how to conduct a portion of their official business when elected. Hill said the evidence he referred to had not been mentioned heretofore.

On Monday, Hill turned over to an Indianapolis newspaper, thirty-two different pieces of alleged evidence to support Stephenson's charges of political corruption, which he told Marion County Prosecutor William H. Remy, recently, he was going to expose.

In addition to naming Governor Jackson, the so-called evidence, Hill said, also involved Harry E. Rowbottom, of Evansville, Ind., congressman from the first district, and Claude M. Worley, inspector of Indianapolis detectives. Both Congressman Rowbottom and Worley, have declared their names were forged to the alleged compact.

Hill conferred, late today, with Thomas H. Adams, Vincennes publisher, whose activities, last fall, started an investigation into the political situation by the Marion county grand jury. Neither would explain the purpose of the conference.

Adams said he believed the time was not far distant when the newspaper publishers of the state would be called together in Indianapolis for the purpose of starting a campaign to bring about the calling of a special session of the Indiana general assembly to "clean house" in state politics.

Throngs of Flower Lovers Visit Gardens at Jonebere

Flower lovers, from the surrounding towns, as well as Salem gathered in large numbers last Thursday afternoon and evening at the attractive gardens surrounding the home of Miss Jessie Jones and Miss Mabel Creighton north of Salem for their annual garden "at home."

The gardens of Jonebere presented a scene of striking beauty at this season of the year. Roses: rambler, American Beauty and Dorothy Perkins, climbing in a riot of color over a low English fence, encircle the entire garden.

In addition to this garden of roses there are gardens of blue, flaming scarlet, purple, brilliant yellow; in fact, every variety of flower in an infinite variety of shades.

A wide border of pansies was particularly pleasing to the garden enthusiasts but, because it is primarily delphinium time, perhaps the "blue" garden was the source of the greatest admiration.

The hostesses, Mrs. Jones and Miss Creighton, were assisted by Mrs. Milton Meyers, Mrs. H. H. Olinger, Mrs. Edwin Baker, Mrs. Jack Dancy, and Mrs. Homer Goulet, during the afternoon and evening. The punch bowl was in charge of Miss Rosalie Jones.
