Additional reasons why hange may be necessary in the Oregon constitution's provisions which prevent the state government from incurring obligations in excess of $50,000, were seen Wednesday by state officials when it was pointed out that the supreme court's ruling, holding unconstitutional the act of the last state to borrow $600,000 from the gon supreme court. industrial accident commission to office building, may also have the effect of curbing other governmental activities.

The law authorizing the state board of control to erect the proposed new structure with funds borrowed from the accident commission was held to be unconstitutional on the grounds that it would create an obligation of more than $50,000 in violation of the state constitution.
