NORMAL SCHOOL START WAITS LEGAL DECISION

Albany and C. I. Starr of Portland expressed themselves as favorable to proceeding with the construction of the school. They later joined with other members of the board and voted to defer action until some future meeting. It was indicated that clarification of the supreme court opinion would be sought through an application for rehearing of the case in which the opinion was written.

The supreme court opinion was written in an action brought by Peder Pederson and others to restrain the state board of control from borrowing $600,000 from the state industrial accident fund for the erection of a state office building. The supreme court held that in borrowing this money the state would create a debt in excess of the constitutional limitation of $50,000.

Persons who attended today's meeting of the regents expressed the opinion that the action of the board means that construction of the Eastern Oregon normal school would be deferred for several months and possibly until after the next legislative session. The appropriation for the school was $175,000.

CHECK "KITING" CHARGE FACING BANK OFFICIAL

edge and consent of the bank or of its board of directors, with intent to convert the money to the credit of the McCormick Lumber company, "and other persons and firms in a large sum, to wit $796,514.45."

The McCormick Lumber company, it is alleged, was without deposit or credit in the Pennsylvania banks equal to the face value of the checks which were cashed at the Northwestern National bank upon endorsement of Olmstead.

This alleged "kiting" of checks is said to have reached the figure of $11,000,000, it was reported tonight.

Olmstead and Wheeler have long been prominently identified with business activities in the Pacific Northwest. Olmstead began his banking experience in Minneapolis and in 1907 moved to Seattle where he was associated with the National Bank of Commerce. In 1911 he moved to Portland and became vice president and general manager of the Portland Trust company and continued in the same capacity with the Northwestern National. In 1919 after the death of Henry L. Pitcock he became president of this bank.

During the war he was chairman of the third and fourth liberty loan drives and he has served as president of the Portland Clearing House association.

Wheeler has been identified with the lumber industry of the Pacific Northwest for many years and since 1905 has had his offices in Portland. In the timber business he has been associated with his brothers, and with his brother, L. R. Wheeler, he purchased the Portland Telegram 13 years ago.

"I'LL WIN" SAY BOTH FIGHTERS

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP)—Statements of principals in the heavyweight battle tomorrow night and predictions of their managers follow:

Jack Dempsey: "There are no 'soft ones' in the fight game. Sharkey is no easy mark. But I'm prepared to take anything or everything he's got and still win. It's either him or me for the championship shot and I'm out to get him as quickly as possible."

Leo P. Flynn, manager of Jack Dempsey: "The fight shouldn't go over six rounds and it is liable to end any time within that period. If Sharkey thinks Dempsey is going to chase him all over the ring he's mistaken. He'll have to do his share of the fighting. If the fight goes 15 rounds Dempsey ought to get him anyway for he will be just as ready to knock the Lithuanian out then as in the first round."

Jack Sharkey: "I'll lick Dempsey sure and then 'take' Tunney. I never was in better shape in my life. This is a big chance and I'm going to grab it. I know I can take everything Dempsey's got and give him a little better. Don't think this is bunk. I told you what I would do to Wills and Maloney beforehand and I did it, now I'm calling this one."

Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager: "Jack will beat Dempsey and do it quickly, in my opinion. He will be ready for any kind of stuff Dempsey lets loose. The only thing he has to worry about is a possible 'sneak punch.' But they don't come any cooler or smarter
