

State Semi-Pro Championship Claims May Rest on Game Here Today

THE DALLES BRINGS HARD-HITTING TEAM

Claims to the state semi-pro baseball championship are certain to be based on this afternoon's inter-sectional contest at Oxford Park, when The Dalles club, champion of the Mid-Columbia league, comes here to oppose the Salem Senators, champions for the first half of the season of the Portland City league.

Indicative of the battle which Manager "Frisco" Edwards of the Senators is expecting, is the announcement that he has selected Wayne Barham to do the pitching. Barham as the starting pitcher and Johnny Beck as the relief man if, one is necessary, has proven to be the best combination in recent games, and it may be necessary today.

The Dalles is bringing an imposing squad as far as the list of players is any criterion, and the team's record is equally impressive, including as it does 15 straight victories, including wins over Pendleton, the champion team of eastern Oregon, and Bend, which has defeated Klamath Falls champion in the southern part of the state.

The visiting club will probably have Bud Greene formerly of M.L. Aves, or the mound, with Drigo, one of the speediest pitchers in semi-pro ball in the state and effective when he has control, to relieve him, Saunders will be behind the bat; he is another promising youngster who is said to be slated for organized ball next year.

Cook, better known over the state as a basketball star, plays first base; Dick Garber, former OAC star and the outstanding singer of the Mid Columbia circuit, is on second; Helms and Mann, two more hustling kids, hold down the other side of the infield and Brouhard, Swick and "Ducky" Drake are in the outer gardens.

FOREST FLAMES SWEEP STATE; 1000 ACRES BURN

ington, less than two score miles from Portland, suddenly burst from its confines this afternoon, destroying fire fighting equipment and causing men to flee for their lives. Some of the fighters were able to retrieve their blankets, nothing else being saved from the advancing flames. For a time it was thought two men had been trapped within the fire, but later it was found they had escaped on the opposite side of the flames from that taken by the others.

Lightning has caused most of the fires ravishing forests of the Pacific northwest during the last six days.

Rainier forest fires were said to be "in hand" but "decidedly critical," with dense smoke crippling the lookout service. One hundred fifty men were fighting a fire outside the Mineral creek section of the western boundary of the forest, the flames threatening to spread into government jurisdiction.

Six of the eight fires in the Olympic national forest had been extinguished today. On Storm creek, a tributary of Lake Crescent, fire covering 40 acres was not controlled.

Nothing to be Done
Telephoning from the Hemlock ranger station in Wind river valley, Supervisor Horton said the men would rest during the afternoon and attack the fire again about dark. "There is nothing we can do now" the supervisor added, "we have done well to escape."

The Rock creek fire, one on Lost creek and another on Silver creek are in the area known as the Yacolt burn, where 300,000 acres were swept in 1902 leaving snags and dead timber, which is said to be "as dry as tinder."

State fire prevention agencies had 35 men fighting a fire on Green river, 15 miles north of Mount St. Helens, Columbia forest. Federal forest service added 20 men to combat this blaze in addition to 25 previously assigned. A forest patrol plane with V. O. Wallace, chief district warden at Chehalis, located this fire.

PORTLAND, Aug. 6. (AP)—Stevenson, Wash., a town of 600 inhabitants was threatened tonight by forest fire, 20 miles northwest of Portland, in the Columbia national forest. A dirt fire line is being hastily thrown up a half mile from town by volunteers.

In its approach to town the fire wiped out the Ryan and Irvin logging camp, killing several horses and mules. A lull in the wind has so far saved a mill one mile from Stevenson, but the property is still in danger.

The population of the town was kept busy all day and late tonight extinguishing roof fires started by embers from the advancing flames.

basement for storage purposes. Every means will be taken to provide the maximum of light and fresh air in the buildings, with a large number of sky-lights.

Other buildings already started on the Valley motor block are the Marion Market, occupying the northwest quarter of the block and the building being constructed for the Goff Motor company, agents for Hudson and Essex, which will be on Center street, just east of the service station.

With the exception of an 80x160 lot at the corner of Marion and Liberty, plans for the development of which will be announced later, building operations have definitely been decided upon for the whole block.

A new mark in building operations in Salem is being set this summer with the development of a whole block at a time, in which building operations will all be completed within less than a year.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6. (AP)—Although outfit Hollywood defeated Portland today 5 to 3. The Stars were held to six hits by Tomlin, but bunched them in the second and sixth innings to score all five runs. Teachout, who started on the mound for Hollywood was lifted in the third inning because of wildness, McCabe taking his place for the remainder of the contest. Portland is leading the series 3 to 2.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 6. (AP)—Sacramento took a one game lead on the series by walloping Seattle in the fifth game, 6 to 1.

OAKLAND, Aug. 6. (AP)—Oakland bunched four hits in the eighth inning today for the same number of runs and defeated Los Angeles 5 to 3.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6. (AP)—The Missions took the measure of the San Francisco Club here today by bunching hits in the second and eighth innings for eight runs to win 9 to 2. The game was featured by home runs by Barfoot and Slade of the Missions and Bode of the Seals.

BUDDING FLIERS LEARN HERE; FIELD NEED NOW

the question of making the field at the south end of the fair grounds a permanent landing field is expected to be taken up. This space is well situated for such a field, with some improvement, Graul said, and with the proposed street leading to the field, will be easily reached from the downtown section of Salem.

Coupled with commercial flying over the city, Graul and Rankin are establishing an air taxi service with Salem as the center. Rates are charged on a mileage basis, and are low enough that when local business men become used to the service, the use of planes will become a matter of course for hurried trips.

The two local aviators are assisting in lining up a list of noted fliers, including Tex Rankin, Oakley B. Kelley, the Howard brothers, and others, for the flying circus which the American legion post in Silverton is planning for August 21, on the occasion of the dedication and formal opening of the Silverton flying field, which, it is said, will be among the best on the coast.

Salem has been lauded as the most beautiful city in the country, by those who have only seen it from the ground level. But until one has seen Salem from the air, with its wide streets and magnificent park blocks, and with its surroundings of miles on miles of checker board orchards and fields, set with dark groves of evergreens and with the Willamette winding like a great snake through the center of the scene, the full beauty of Salem cannot be known.

SILVERTON, ORE. AUG. 6. (Special)—Silverton's big air carnival to dedicate the new aviation landing field here will be held August 21.

The day previous to the carnival, airplanes will fly over valley cities advertising the carnival. Saturday evening an aviation ball will be the feature while Sunday will be devoted to air stunts, sixteen of which have already been slated.

nels. Secret service men mingled with the crowds in and near the building. Postal substations also were under guard.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—The explosion of two bombs that last night wrecked two subway stations, tied up for several hours the two main underground arteries of Manhattan and injured a core of persons provided police today with a mystery as perplexing as any they ever tried to solve.

Hours after the explosions no trace of the two bombs had been found and although one man was under arrest police vacillated between belief that sympathizers with Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, radicals awaiting execution for murder in Boston, has set the bombs or that the bombings were the work of persons with a grievance against the transit companies, finally switching to the latter.

PARIS, Aug. 6. (AP)—The prefecture of police late tonight issued an order prohibiting any parade or manifestation in Paris tomorrow as a protest against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti. Following the government's action, the demonstrators changed their plans and decided to hold a huge mass meeting in the Boisse de Vincennes. Under the prefecture's ruling this mass meeting as well as all other demonstrations is forbidden.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 6. (AP)—Although reports of violence in the interior of Argentina last night growing out of the general strike in favor of Sacco and Vanzetti have been received here, Buenos Aires itself today was quiet. The exterior aspect of the city was almost normal.

One immediate result of the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, it was reported in some circles, would be an attempt to boycott United States goods. A resolution to this effect has been approved by the Argentine confederation of labor with which the railway men and street car men are affiliated.

TRIAL MOTION IN CASE TO BE HEARD BY JUDGE

ducted the prosecution vigorously but not improperly and that the jurymen, impartial and unprejudiced, did as they were instructed, "well and truly try and true deliverance make."

The committee was composed of President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard university, President Samuel W. Stratton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Robert Grant, former judge of the probate court.

The motion for a new trial is based on three grounds: The first is an allegation of prejudice on the part of Judge Thayer. The second is a presentation of what is described as new evidence to the effect the holes in a cap identified at the trial as having belonged to Sacco were made by the Braintree chief of police while he was searching for identification marks. The third is an assertion of additional new evidence bearing on an allegation that a firearms expert who testified for the state that the bullet which killed Alexander Berardelli, one of the victims of the murder for which the two men were convicted, was consistent with having fired from Sacco's pistol.

In the first part of their motion for a new trial defense counsel asserted that Judge Thayer "was so prejudiced against the defendants and their counsel" from the time of the beginning of the trial until he made his last ruling adverse to the defendants, that the defendants have never had a judicial consideration by the said Thayer, during the trial or afterward, of questions involving their life and liberty and have never had such a trial as that to which they are entitled under the constitutions of the commonwealth of Massachusetts and of the United States."

The second part says that Judge

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. (AP)—A telephone threat to bomb the federal building here today aroused authorities to take drastic action to prevent a Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration of violence.

Government agents armed with automatic shot guns began patrolling the building and the police put every known radical under surveillance.

Postal employees were cautioned to scrutinize all packages and vehicles entering the traffic tunnel.

Thayer in his decision of October 1926, refusing a new trial, referred to certain holes in the cap identified as Sacco's as "some of the most important evidence" no move would be made in any federal court until counsel for the defense has exhausted all resource to the state courts.

In the death house at the state prison Sacco completed the 21st day of his hunger strike and Vanzetti, who has refused food for a part of this time refrained from eating today. Sacco received a visit from his wife, Mrs. Rose Sacco, who after a walk over the prison Point Bridge from East Cambridge looked worried and weary.

The petition to the governor asks for a stay of execution on the ground "that it will be impossible with the exercise of utmost diligence to obtain a hearing and decision" on the various motions made in the courts. The petition for a writ of habeas corpus charges that Sacco and Vanzetti are being "unlawfully restrained of their liberty" in violation of their constitutional rights "by reason of the fact that your said petitioners have not yet received a trial by judges" as free, impartial and independent as the lot of humanity will permit, nor have the proceedings whereby your petitioners have been condemned constituted such a judicial determination of their guilt as to be due process of law."

Michael A. Musumanno, lawyer associated with the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee, said that no move would be made in any federal court until counsel for the defense has exhausted all resource to the state courts.
