

LOCAL CAPITALISTS DEVELOP RESOURCES

Pacific Health Ore Company Mines Valuable Mineral Near Nestucca Bay

Another of Oregon's natural resources is being developed by the Pacific Health-Ore company, Salem corporation financed with local capital and promoted by local men.

Dr. George E. Lewis, the vice-president of the company, is a local dentist who has made Salem his home for a number of years.

The company was incorporated in May, 1926, and the first product was marketed two months later, since which time steady progress in the distribution of Pacific-Health-Ore. Sales have been confined principally to Oregon.

The product is distributed by over four hundred dealers, a large number of doctors and seven sanitarians.

The shale formed in this way contained most of the minerals essential to health, but the minerals were retained in such a form that water could not wash them out.

The liquid form, of which one teaspoonful is used in a glass of water to make a pleasant tasting mineral water, is prepared by soaking a pound of ore in two quarts of warm water and filtering.

The water extracts most of the valuable minerals from the ore, and holds them in solution in easily available form.

It is found that one pound of Health-Ore contains as much iron as is present in 810 cups of raisins (280 lbs); as much calcium as is found in 32 glasses of milk; as much magnesium as there is in 42 pounds of potatoes; as much sulphur as there is in 45 dozen eggs, etc.

During the past year the company has received numerous reports of remarkable benefits effected by the use of their product in the treatment of many ailments.

This product remedies this deficiency when used regularly for a period of time, supplying iodine for the glands, chlorine for stimulation, calcium for the bones, iron for the blood, phosphorus for the brain and nervous system for purification, magnesium for the cells and secretion, etc.

Many of these elements are lacking in the refined and fancy foods of to-day, and the explanation of the wonderful results obtained by Pacific Health-Ore is that it provides these building and working materials and enables the body itself to effect a natural cure, thus deserving the slogan "Results Beyond Belief."

SEVERE TREMOR SHAKES EUREKA

15 SECOND QUAKE HELD WORST SINCE YEAR 1906

Several Women Faint When Buildings Sway and Chimneys Topple Over

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Severe earth shocks were recorded tonight by the Georgetown university seismograph. They began at 7:01 p. m., reached a maximum intensity at 7:44 and were continued half an hour later.

EUREKA, CAL., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Eureka and other towns in Humboldt county were rocked shortly after 12 o'clock today by the most severe earthquake felt here since 1906.

C. C. Fiske, linotype operator for the Humboldt Standard, was slightly injured when his machine careened forward. Several women fainted on down-town streets while buildings swayed and the noise of toppling chimneys and breaking dishes could be heard.

Reports from Scotia, Fortuna, Arcata and Ferndale, stated merchandise had been shaken from shelves; glass dishes and chimneys broken and some plaster knocked down.

Tank racks of the Shell Oil company in Arcata, holding large drums of oil, sank six inches into the ground. In Eureka plaster was knocked from several rooms in the courthouse and from the ceiling of the city hall. Walls of the county jail holding 40 prisoners, remained intact.

THE NUT GROWERS TO TOUR NEXT WEEK

To Visit Marion and Polk County Groves Wednesday and Thursday

The Western Nut Growers association has scheduled its annual observation tour for August 24 and 25, reports C. E. Schuster, secretary of the association and nut specialist of the Oregon Agricultural college horticultural department. It will begin near Dallas Wednesday morning and end at the Skyline orchards near Salem Thursday afternoon.

Wednesday in Polk The topworked filbert grove of V. R. Brown near Dallas will be the first objective, and the Franquette walnut grove of Mrs. Sarah J. Hammel, both near Dallas, the second. The 20-year old walnut and filbert groves of J. C. Powell near Monmouth will be inspected in a special study of pollination problems and methods of working over walnut seedlings. The results of interplanting will be studied at the Ira Powell grove of walnuts interplanted with filberts 20 years ago. The relative merits of close and wide planting of filberts will be observed in the numerous groves of John Stump, ranging from 21 years down to three or four years, both walnut and filbert.

Thursday in Marion The second day tour will start at Aumsville and go to the plantings of A. Wolfe to study walnut management. The effect of good and poor filbert stock will be studied at the groves of J. A. Smith where walnut plantings will also be inspected. The caravan will then move on to study the effects of low gravelly soil on walnuts and filberts at the farm of Henry Crawford. Demonstration of control of mushroom root rot and walnut blight will be observed at the Skyline groves southeast of Salem, where the tour will end.

Many leading growers make these tours, Professor Schuster says, in numbers ranging from 50 to 170. Explanations of the various phases of production studied are made by specialists and owners, from which growers learn the best known methods of producing high quality nuts economically.

OLD PIONEER DIES

MRS. STUMP, ONE TIME WILLAMETTE STUDENT, DIES

OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL, Monmouth, Ore., Aug. 19.—(Special)—Mrs. Mary Stump Campbell, beloved pioneer woman of Polk county, passed away at the family home at Monmouth on August 19, 1927, after a brief illness. Mrs. Campbell was born on the David Stump donation claim near the Luckiamute river six miles south of Monmouth on the twelfth of March, 1851.

As a girl of 16, Mary Ann Stump entered Willamette University, later attending Christian college, graduating from that institution with the class of 1872. Her classmates were the late Judge Charles E. Wolverton, W. D. Fenton, Bruce Wolverton and Sarah Churchill Knox. From 1879 to 1881, she was publisher of the Christian Messenger, official publication of the Christian church, of which church she was a life-long and devoted member. In 1882 she attended Wellesley college, Mass., being one of the first to enter an eastern college from the Pacific coast.

On April 9, 1885, she was married to T. F. Campbell, who was later president of Christian college for many years. Since her husband's death in 1893 Mrs. Campbell has lived continuously at the family home in Monmouth.

Mrs. Campbell is survived by a sister, Miss Cassie B. Stump of Monmouth, a brother, John B. Stump, also of Monmouth, another brother, John B. Stump, also of Monmouth, another brother, John B. Stump, also of Monmouth, another brother, John B. Stump, also of Monmouth.

NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT FOR THE COST OF IMPROVING SOUTH 19TH STREET FROM THE NORTH LINE OF BELLEVUE STREET TO THE NORTH LINE OF LEE STREET.

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council of the City of Salem, Oregon, will, at or about 7:30 p. m., on the 6th day of September, 1927, or at any subsequent meeting of the said Council, proceed to assess upon and against each lot or part thereof or parcel of land liable therefor its proportionate share of the cost of improving South 19th Street from the north line of Bellevue Street to the north line of Lee Street, in the City of Salem, Oregon.

All persons interested in the said assessments are hereby notified to appear before the said Council at said time and place and present their objections, if any they have, to said assessment, and apply to said Council to equalize their proportionate share of same.

By order of the Common Council August 15, 1927. M. POULSEN, City Recorder Date of first publication hereof August 21, 1927. Date of final publication hereof August 24, 1927. a-21-23-24.

brother, Solomon Stump has been a resident of Nome, Alaska, for many years. She also leaves a daughter, Agnes Dorothy Campbell and one son, David Beasley Campbell of Portland. Another daughter, Catherine Elizabeth Campbell died in 1921. Besides her immediate family Mrs. Campbell leaves a large circle of friends. She spent much of her life in Polk county and as a neighbor she had the respect of all who knew her. Tolerant in her beliefs, generous in her acts of charity and kindness, none who knew her but loved her.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Christian church at Monmouth.

Bits For Breakfast

Pretty fair, for the dullest week of the dullest month in the year.

After the new press is installed, next month, the Sunday Statesman will carry 28 pages and up, and the pages will be an inch longer, making what will amount to over a page and a quarter more, compared with the present size. Some of the pages will be in color.

Oregon is taking in $15,000 a day in gasoline fees, and the states of the Union as a whole are taking in $1,000,000 a day.

The motor vehicle licenses for this year in Oregon will foot up $6,500,000, and the gasoline fees $4,000,000. That department is bigger than all the rest of the general departments of the state combined. This means more and better highways.

The Marion county cow testing association should fill quickly with the planned membership, making room for the second one, and so on to still more and more.

All the flax is in but perhaps less than 50 loads, making up a total of about 4000 tons. The warehouse room is all full, and some of the flax is stacked. This is being worked up as fast as possible; threshed and retted. Heavy rains now would make a lot of extra work, and do some damage to the stacked flax at the penitentiary.

The Salem Y free employment office for the week ending Friday night had 245 applicants for work, and found jobs for 150 of them. Those sent to jobs were mostly agricultural and common laborers.

The lady at Newberg writing to the Salem postmaster to have him deliver a letter to some descendant of James K. Wood, in which quest The Statesman was appealed to, was accommodated very soon after daylight Friday morning; before the ink on the paper was fairly dry. Of course, Everybody reads The Statesman as the first duty and pleasure of the day.

FAREWELL TO BE SAID

Rev. R. L. Putnam Preaches Final Sermons Here Today

Rev. R. L. Putnam, pastor of the Court Street Christian church for the past eight years, will deliver his farewell sermons today. At the 11 o'clock services his subject will be "Forgetting and Pressing On," and at 8 p. m., "The Call of God."

Rev. Putnam and his family will leave late this week for La Grande, where he has been elected pastor of the Central Christian church.

Evergreen Blackberries Bought by Silverton Firm

SILVERTON, Ore., Aug. 20.—(Special).—The Silverton Food Products company has begun taking the evergreen blackberries. Just how many this company will handle has not been given out.

There seems to be very little call and but a small price for the berries. The crop is unusually good in the Silverton country.

KELLEY HEARING PUT OFF AGAIN

ARGUMENT DELAYED AT REQUEST OF DEFENSE

Willis Stay of Execution Plea May be Heard at Albany; Case Waits.

Hearing of the application for a permanent writ of habeas corpus in the case of Ellsworth Kelley, scheduled for Saturday, was continued until Monday. The delay was requested by Martin L. Pipes, attorney for Kelley, because of important business matters requiring his attention in Portland.

It is probable that arguments also will be heard Monday on a petition filed by Bradley Ewers, Portland attorney, requesting a stay of execution of James Willis until he had been examined by a sanity commission. The petition involving Willis will be heard by Judge Percy Kelly.

Willis and Kelley were convicted of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of Milton Holman and John Sweeney, guards during a break at the state penitentiary here in August, 1925. They were under sentence to be hanged last Friday, but the executions were halted by the filing of legal proceedings.

Postponement of the hearing on the writ of habeas corpus was made after an agreement between Willis S. Moore, assistant attorney general, District Attorney Carson and his associates, and Martin L. Pipes, Kelley's attorney.

Pipes indicated yesterday that he was ready to proceed with arguments at once if the state insisted, but that his arguments would extend over into Monday.

He said if the case were deferred, however, he would have more time to prepare his data. Moore agreed that it would be better to have the whole case presented at once, than to have a Sunday interruption.

Willis' insanity hearing may be taken to Albany for hearing before Judge Percy Kelley, who has occupied the circuit court bench in all the previous action in the case of the State of Oregon against Tom Murray, James Willis and Ellsworth Kelley.

Chief points on which Kelley's attorneys base their petition for a permanent writ of habeas corpus are that Kelley was committed to the state penitentiary from Josephine county, January 10, 1923, on a charge not known to law. The defense answer, however, admits that Kelley pleaded guilty to a charge of feloniously conveying hack saw blades to Bert O. Jones to aid an escape from the Josephine county jail.

That Kelley had knowledge of the crime for which Jones was held, was not charged in the indictment under the statutes, the answer further alleges, thus raising the constitutional point on which the plea is based, it is contended.

Kelley's attorneys allege that his commitment was unconstitutional, and that the circuit court for Marion county had no jurisdiction when he was tried on a charge of first degree murder for the death of John Sweeney, penitentiary guard who was killed in the prison break of August, 1925.

"ARREST THEM" ADVICE

Warning Not Enough for Illegal Handbill Distributors

"If the police will arrest the boys who throw handbills and other matter into automobiles, instead of merely warning them, the practice will be quickly stopped," says E. B. Flake, local licensed distributor.

Mr. Flake is using every effort to cooperate in the enforcement of the ordinance against such distribution, and has a strict rule in his organization against it. The illegal distribution is being done by boys who are employed at random, without references, he states.

The police have caught some boys throwing handbills in cars parked downtown, but have let them off with a warning. Mr. Flake stated Saturday evening.

RADICALS CONTINUE TO SPURN RELIGION Sacco and Vanzetti Expect to Enter Death Room Without Priest CHARLESTON STATE PRISON, Boston, Mass., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, from their cells in the prison here, tonight faced the last forty eight hours of life before the end of the respite which ten days ago saved them from the electric chair, with no apparent modification of their extreme views toward life, death and religion.

For nearly an hour today Vanzetti sat on a bench outside the steel-barred door of his cell and talked with the sister whom he had not seen for nineteen years. The sister, Miss Luigia Vanzetti, arrived in America yesterday with the announced hope of trying to induce her brother, a professed atheist, to return to the childhood faith to which she has adhered. They conversed in their native tongue, Italian, but beyond the normal exchange of news of themselves and their relatives and friends little of what was discussed was disclosed.

As Miss Vanzetti left the prison it was apparent, however, that she was depressed and that she had found little in the words of her brother to cheer her. Sacco, like his companion, Vanzetti, long ago renounced religion. None has attempted to induce him to return to his faith. The prison chaplain, the Rev. Michael J. Murphy, has talked with the men, but his visits have not dealt with spiritual affairs. Today he conversed with them for a short time, but it was said neither man expressed any desire for the solace of religion. Unless they request it themselves no clergyman will accompany them from their cells to the electric chair. Although both were within a half hour of death when a respite saved them on the night of August 10, neither at that time gave any intention of changing of views.

Accompanied by Mrs. Rose Sacco, wife of Nicola, Miss Vanzetti arrived at the prison shortly before noon. Warden William E. Hendry went with them. On arriving at Vanzetti's cell, the warden unlocked the heavy door and called the condemned man into the corridor. It was the first time in many years that a prisoner awaiting execution has been allowed to meet a visitor without bars between them. As the election laws which provides that 40 days is the minimum time in which candidates have to file their petitions with the secretary of state for certification to the county clerks.

There also is a provision of law which requires the county clerk to close the registration books 30 days prior to the election. After the registration books are closed, it is incumbent upon the county clerk to copy the registration into the poll books and voters' list. In view of these legal requirements officials said that at least 40 days would have to elapse between the time of issuing the call and the date of holding the election.

Although both the republican and democratic county central committees of the third district have indicated that they will hold conventions and nominate candidates bearing the party labels, this would not prevent other aspirants from entering the contest. Two other methods were said to be available under which candidates may file. One of these is by certificate of nomination by an assembly of 100 or more voters and the other by certificate of nomination by independent electors. The secretary of state made it plain that he would accept certificates of nomination filed under either of these classifications. A prediction was made here yesterday by persons purporting to know that Governor Patterson will call a special election in Multnomah county within ten days to select a successor to the late Maurice E. Crumpacker, representative in congress from the third congressional district. Assuming that Governor Patterson issues the call immediately following his return from southern Oregon next week, officials said it would not be possible to hold the election until early in October. This assertion was said to have been based on that section of
