BOYS AND GIRLS WILL HAVE BIG PART AT FAIR

highest in all projects at this year's state fair will be guests of E. L. King, superintendent of the Southern Pacific lines in Oregon, at a banquet to be held in his private car. The banquet will be held on Friday night during the fair and will be attended by Governor Patterson and other state officials. These boys and girls will also enjoy a week's sojourn at Crater Lake Inn, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Price. Mr. Price is manager of the Lithia Hotel at Ashland and the Crater Lake resort.

Reports received by Mrs. Ella Shultz Wilson, secretary of the state fair board, insure the success of this year's horse show. The half-mile race track has been recently won a large number of top prizes in California and other states. Among the animals to be shown to Salem by Mr. Frank is a team for which he paid $30,000.

Virtually all of the space in the automobile and machinery departments has been sold and tents will be secured to house many of the belated exhibits. It is also probable, Mrs. Wilson said, that it would be necessary to provide additional accommodations to care for the livestock and poultry exhibits. The concessions will be more numerous than ever before, while the free attractions will be above the average. The American Legion band of Sheridan has been engaged to furnish music during the week of the fair.

The half-mile race track has been completed and will be ready for use at this year's fair. With a half-mile and mile track available the speed events will be staged without any tedious delays such as have been experienced in past years. Automobile races will be held Monday afternoon, while the remainder of the week will be given over to harness and running events. All of the races have been filled and it probably will be necessary to arrange a number of special events to take care of the large list of entrants. Horses have been entered in the speed events from many sections of the west and Canada.

The state fair board will hold a special meeting here August 19, when all arrangements for this year's fair will be completed. One of the problems that will confront the board is that of providing space for the county exhibits. Twenty of thirty-six counties in Oregon already have reserved space and other counties probably will file their applications within the next few days. Exhibits also will be featured by the several state institutions and educational centers.

PACIFIC FAILS DELIVER UP COURAGEOUS FLYERS

has been waiting—the actual sighting of the wave tossed machines. No military or commercial radio stations have intercepted such messages.

Station Becomes Active
After an all night vigil, following reports that Pilot William P. Erwin and Navigator A. H. Eichwald might have plunged into the ocean in their plane Dallas Spirit 600 miles off the California coast last night, the Pearl Harbor naval station was snapped into sudden activity at dawn. An amateur radio operator at Luke field reported having intercepted a part of a message from an unlocated ship stating that the Dole flight plane Golden Eagle had been picked up. A few minutes later a second message was intercepted saying that the Golden Eagle was "being picked up."

Efforts to confirm or trace the messages were futile. The Luke field radio set is not an official army station. It is an amateur station built and operated by men stationed there.

The fourteenth naval district extended the search today for the missing Dole planes, sending aircraft and submarines to comb the huge triangular area north of the island of Hawaii which previously had been less searched than other regions. Two patrols of two planes each left the Pearl Harbor air station before 7:30 a. m., fueled for flights of approximately 400 miles each.

Crowds Watch for Erwin

WHEELER FIELD, Honolulu, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Several hundred persons, including a number of army men, waited under a sweltering sun at Wheeler field this afternoon, hoping that Captain William P. Erwin might arrive in the airplane Dallas Spirit. Despite reports indicating that the plane may have crashed into the sea the crowd refused to give up hope and maintained its vigil until a late hour.

Erwin had enough fuel to last him 30 hours or until 6:15 p. m. Honolulu time (8:45 p. m. Coast time). Several times the excitement of the crowd was intensified by the appearance of an airplane, but each time it proved to be an army plane, scouting the sky in search of the Erwin machine.

LEGAL TWISTS TO SAVE SACCO, VANZETTI FAIR

night next Monday were unsuccessful. Justice James M. McHugh, Jr., of the U. S. district court, refused to grant a writ of habeas corpus or a stay of execution and Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the U. S. supreme court refused to grant a stay of execution.

Before going to Beverly Farms to make their application to Justice Holmes at his home there, defense counsel sent a letter to Governor Alvan T. Fuller, asking that he grant another respite. The governor was at his summer home in Rye Beach, N. H., and it was said at his office that he probably would not consider the matter until his return here on Monday.

Sees Justice at Home
The application to Justice Morton was made by Elias Field of defense counsel. He saw the justice at his summer home in Westport last night and again this morning at the Bristol county court house in Fall River.

While legal steps were in progress Vanzetti received in the death house at the prison, a visit from his sister, Miss Luigia Vanzetti, who had journeyed from her home in Italy at his request that he might see her once more. Both were deeply affected at their first meeting in 19 years. Miss Vanzetti was given an exceptional privilege by Warden William Handry when he unlocked the cell door and permitted the two to embrace. "It's nothing more than humane," he said.

of the herd which cattle are producing.

All Dairymen Invited
Membership in the organization will be open to every dairymen in the county who wishes to take advantage of its service, with a basic membership fee of $24, and an additional fee of $1.50 for each cow in the herd. These fees will cover the $1600 budget which yesterday's meeting drew up.

In case two herds are close together, so that the testing can be carried out simultaneously, the basic fee may be split between the herd owners. It was declared, costing each only $12.

The origin of herd testing associations is found, it is said, in Denmark, where they have been in existence for many years, with very beneficial results. A similar organization was started in the southern part of Marion county several years ago, and the dairymen who took part in it are among the most enthusiastic for the new organization which takes in the whole county.

Several other similar organizations exist at present in the state, with one in Tillamook testing over 1700 head of cattle. Three or four associations are doing good work in Coos county, according to leaders of the work who spoke yesterday.

Plans for cow testing associations are being worked out at present, or have recently been completed in Baker and Deschutes counties, with Polk and Yamhill counties expecting to follow suit this fall.

Professor N. C. Jamison, head of the extension dairy work at the Oregon Agricultural college, spoke at yesterday's meeting, giving suggestions on the organization of the work, and promising the help of his department in every way possible.

Cow testing has proven successful in all the outstanding dairy sections of the country, Professor Jamison said. In Wisconsin, he pointed out, there are 169 organizations for this purpose, with over 5,000 cows being tested each month by experts. Minnesota and Michigan are also testing most of their herds.

About fifteen dairymen of the county were present at yesterday's meeting, representing the following sections: Ankeny Bottom, Marlon district, Aumsville and Stayton district, Salem district, Silverton, Mt. Angel, and St. Paul districts.

A few herds in the northern part of Linn county will be included in the organization, because of their proximity to herds in this county, it was announced. In the northern part of Marion county, some herds are already included in the Clackamas county association.

SAYS SHIP PLUNGED FAR
Radio Engineer Declares Dallas Spirit was 2,000 Feet Up

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Deductions reached by studying the increased and decreased pitch of radio waves sent out last night by the missing plane Dallas Spirit, indicate the ship went into a tail spin at the altitude of 2,000 feet and plunged 200 miles per hour into the ocean. This conclusion was reached today by J. O. Watkins, radio engineer of the Federal Telegraph ship station at Daly City, near here.
