KILLS COUSIN, REPORT

7 Year Old Girl Slain With Shotgun Accidently, Claim

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Investigation of the murder of Angelina Costanzo, 7, took a new turn when suspicion centered upon her ten year old cousin, William Salvatore, who was said to have confessed to the shooting. Salvatore talked freely after long questioning by police and told how he had accidentally discharged the shotgun with which Angelina was killed Monday while she slept and then ran away to hide while detectives tried to reconstruct the happenings leading up to the crime. The boy told his questioners how he had breakfasted with his father on Monday morning and stayed in his parents' apartment until Angelina's mother told him to go next door and rouse the little girl for school. While he was bringing Angelina's clothing to her bedside, he said, he brushed against the shotgun, which was discharged as it fell, killing the girl.

YOUTHS LAW BREAKERS

Three Portland Boys Paroled at Astoria, Crimes Many

ASTORIA, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Following a hearing in juvenile court here Dallas Strickland, 15; Norman Lewis, 12, and Blair Murrell, 13, all of Portland were paroled to their mothers with the understanding that any further lawbreaking on the part of the boys would result in sending them to the state training school at Salem.

The boys admitted to the following activities in the last week: theft of an automobile in Portland, in a trip to Astoria ending in the total wrecking of the car here, robbery of a store at Svensen, a rowboat at the Lewis and Clark bridge, a filling station at Astoria, a store at Seaside, a shooting gallery at Seaside, an automobile at Vernonia, robbing mail boxes en route. The boys were arrested in Vernonia and brought here for trial.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the community sing led by Mrs. R. Paul, at which a song composed by J. A. Reiber for the local organization was tried for the first time.

Most of the teachers were present and were introduced by Professor Patton upon request of the president.

Light refreshments closed an enjoyable evening. Mrs. R. L. Griswold, Mrs. Dunn and Mrs. Clay Guthridge, with a group of high school girls with Natalia Munyan as chairman served. T. W. Munyan made the delicious coffee.

The meetings will be held on the last Monday night of each month, the same as last year.

BRITISHER MISTREATED

Second Inquiry by Federal Grand Jury in Crowley Case

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Possibility of a second inquiry by the federal grand jury at New York into charges that Michael J. Crowley, captain of the American tanker Manatowy, mistreated a British subject, where it was said it would request further information regarding the failure of the grand jury to indict Crowley.

A letter was to be sent today to United States Attorney Tuttle at New York requesting details of the case, with the expectation that they would be resubmitted to the grand jury.

The British government has interested itself in the case, in which it was alleged that Crowley had refused medical attention to, and had otherwise mistreated Frederick Thomas, an assistant steward aboard the Manatowy.

GLOTZBACH LOSES TILT

Court Denies Motion for Directed Verdict, Held For Jury

PORTLAND, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Floyd Glotzbach, former husband of Mme. Marguerite Matzenauer, diva, using a question of constitutional rights in his defense to a charge of forcing the name of the body, lying on a bed left in the cottage by his last tenant, was found today by Fordson police and Robert W. Ford, a son, who began search when Mr. Ford failed to return to his home from a meeting of the Fordson city council, of which he was president.

The cottage, recently purchased by Mr. Ford, is but a few squares from the Ford homestead, and it is believed Mr. Ford went to the place to inspect it when he was stricken.

Pending the formality of a post mortem examination, the body was held today in an undertaking establishment in Dearborn. It later will be removed to the Ford home where funeral services are to be held Friday, with burial in Grand Lawn cemetery, not far from the spot where William and Mary Litzgo Ford settled when they came to the United States from Ireland, and where Henry and John were born.

Charles T. Earl, deputy county coroner, who inspected the body and Mr. Ford's physician, Dr. A. L. Sherwood, joined in the opinion that death was due solely to heart disease. There were no marks of violence on the body.

Mr. Ford had been prominently identified with state and civic affairs. As a partner in a local real estate firm and an officer of two banks, he became wealthy. Until about ten years ago, he was a dairy farmer with a 40 acre farm adjoining the family homestead and was interested in farmers' problems.

Evangeline Booth Says Liquor Problem Solved in Generation

LONDON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The liquor problem in the United States will be a question of the past in another generation, according to Evangeline Booth of the Salvation army, predicted at Central hall, Westminster, which Salvationists jammed last night in welcoming her to London after an absence of eight years.

"In another generation I believe liquor will have totally disappeared," she said amid applause. Miss Booth, who went to America 23 years ago from London, is visiting her brother, Bramwell, commander-in-chief of the Salvation army, and will spend a few weeks in the provinces prior to taking a holiday in France and then proceeding home to the United States.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the community sing led by Mrs. R. Paul, at which a song composed by J. A. Reiber for the local organization was tried for the first time.

CATCH OF SALMON POOR

Reason Unfathomed By Government Experts and Fishermen

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—For reasons as yet a mystery both to the fishing industry and to government experts, the salmon catch on the Pacific coast this year has been reduced to about 50 per cent of normal.

Henry O'Malley, commissioner of fisheries, has estimated that the Alaska catch had been cut to 3,500,000 cases and on Puget Sound it has been reduced to 675,000 cases, both figures being barely more than one half of the 1926 pack. In British Columbia the 1927 catch of salmon amounted to 374,382 cases as compared with 788,697 in 1926.
