

Aggressiveness Earns Decision for Phil Bayes Over Portland Veteran

SEASON'S OPENING CARD PLEASING ONE

Aggressive fighting won a decision for Phil Bayes last night over the cool, calculating stic science of his opponent, Ad Mackie, of Portland, in the main event of the first winter season card.

Boxing fans were unanimous in their opinion that the fight was one of the best ever put on at a show here, and fully equalled any of the Portland cards recently.

Bayes was out to demonstrate his ability to win over the Portland man who has challenged him on two occasions here. He put steam into his well placed blows, and forced the fighting throughout. Referee Stanley Frye gave Bayes the third, fourth, sixth, eighth, ninth, and tenth rounds.

Mackie showed his worth as a fighter throughout the entire battle, landing almost twice as many blows as did Bayes. They were counter thrusts, however, and did little damage to the local brawler.

Portland fans at the bout were of the opinion that Mackie put up one of the greatest fights of his colorful career, and that there were many present who thought the decision should have been a draw.

The two fellows did little actual fighting in the first three rounds, merely feeling each other out, and landing light blows. Bayes began some good work in the fourth, but Mackie pounded him all over in the fifth, taking the round by a wide margin.

In the sixth, Bayes and Mackie bumped heads. Mackie was cut badly under the right eye and blood began to flow from the wound. Bayes became more aggressive than ever, and had Mackie against the ropes when the long sounded.

Bayes sank three lefts in succession in Mackie's face in the seventh round, and they didn't help Mackie any. This round was easily Bayes'. He danced around his opponent sinking blows—hard ones.

Andy Joreg and Teddy Fox who were to fight in the semi-windup did not appear. Joreg's father and mother insisted that he not go through with the fight, as he had an extreme case of tonsillitis. As a substitute bout, Matchmaker Plant presented Gerald Wattenberger, of Independence and Pete Willard, of Salem, in a four round mix. They put up a scrappy exhibition and pleased the crowd.

Tony Martel, of Stayton, won a decision over Battling Florey, of Independence, after a bloody battle. The Salmon-Warren fight was a draw, and Eddie Graham, a Salem boy, took the nod over Raymond Snyder, of Monitor.

The fights last night were well attended, much better than were those on the opening card last year. Matchmaker Plant may rematch Bayes and Mackie for the next card, or he may sign Benny Peltz to meet Bayes.

Sport Riticisms by BILL RITT

"I am at the apex of my ring career," says Gene Tunney. A lot of folks won't know what he means but they'll swear he's right.

What this country really needs is a good five cent cigar which can be gotten for a dime.

Harvard scores great victory. First string boys beat the subs, 35 to 0.

Study and application wins fights for him, says Champ Tunney. We'll take the old application every time.

Some college girl teams stand in great need of a bit of plastic surgery. They should have their scores lifted.

Of one thing Boston is sure—pennant winning isn't contagious.

DAC GRIDMEN WORK HARD; SEASON NEAR

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Sept. 29.—Their opening conference game with Southern California in Los Angeles is but a little more than a week away so the Oregon State gridmen putting all their stuff on the ball. The weight losing period is past now and the men have their muscles hardened and are getting used to hard knocks.

Coach Paul J. Schissler sent his men through a passing and punting scrimmage Wednesday. The ground was wet and rain fell up until shortly before practice began. Long, short, lateral and back passes were all tried and a good percentage of them completed.

Completing passes as they did with a wet and slippery ball speaks rather well for what the Orangemen are able to do if the ball is dry. With the well known brand of weather that California puts out awaiting them in Los Angeles they ought to be able to put up a dangerous air attack.

At present the Orangemen seem somewhat stronger on the defense than on the offense. Their tackling and intercepting of passes is particularly outstanding. The forward wall, while comparatively new and inexperienced is big and full of fire.

It looked at first this year as though Coach Schissler was not going to be any too well supplied with reserve material but a number of the men on the super varsity are showing up very well.

George Scott, second string half, is in a fair way to make a name for himself before the season is over.

Ralph Twitchell, shifted from end to half, seems to have found his chosen position and is developing into a triple threat man. A number of others are forming as possible contenders for first string berths.

BEARCATS LEAVING TO FACE 'TORNADO'

With its offensive power shattered by injuries to nearly all of the backfield men and ends counted on for gains, the Willamette university football squad, 22 players led by Coaches "Spec" Keene and Leslie Sparks and Manager Ivan White, will leave on the 6:45 train this morning for Seattle, to seek to stop the "purple tornado" of the University of Washington.

Last year Willamette was considered so incidental a practice game that Coach Enoch Bagshaw's men took the Bearcats on the same day that they met College of Puget Sound; but when Keene's outfit held their team scoreless through two periods and was scored on only after most of the Bearcat first string men were injured, Baggy decided to take Northwest conference teams one at a time or not at all this year.

Willamette is admittedly not as strong just now as it was for the Washington game a year ago, and has not had the advantage of an earlier game as it had at that time; but it may be good enough to hold the Huskies to a low score.

Keene last night announced his starting lineup as follows: Mumford and R. DePoe, ends; Ruch and Vorsteeg, tackles; Emmons and Propp, guards; Rogers, center; Cranor, quarter; Waddill and French, halfbacks; Hoek, fullback.

The others making the trip are Woodworth, tackle; Mort, center; Querry, guard; Haldean, end; Beck, guard; McKenzie, fullback; Eaton, halfback; Kaufman, halfback; Winslow, halfback; Curtis Dietz, quarterback; Raymond Dietz, halfback; Ackerman, end.

In addition to Zeller, Lang, Glass and C. DePoe, who are out with injuries, there are a number of other good men being left behind who are showing up well and will undoubtedly break into the game a little later, Coach Keene explains. One of these is Van Nice, an unusually promising end candidate who is counted on to play a good share of the season but who so far lacks the necessary experience.

The players who didn't get to go but who are able bodied, will work out today and Saturday under Coach Joe Kasberger and "Red" Denman.

Last year the Willamette student body hadn't gained spirit enough at the time of the Washington game to give the team much of a sendoff, but a year of Keene's supervision of athletics has created a marked change, and this was apparent in the "pop" session held Thursday at the university. Practically the entire student body will be at the train this morning to see the team leave.

CARDINALS LOSE PENNANT HOPES

The Cardinals Reds almost sank the Cards pennant hopes when they won the third game of the series from St. Louis today 3 to 2 in a mud and water fracas amid the cheers of the Pittsburgh Pirates who formed a large part of the crowd.

The Reds bunched four of their five hits in the fourth inning off Frankhouse who tasted his first defeat in the Cardinal uniform and, with the helping hand of one error, scored the three runs that meant victory.

Snyder and Maranville singled and Snyder scored on an infield out in the fifth inning for the Cardinals' first score, while Frisch hit a home-run in the sixth inning for the second St. Louis score.

Jackie May allowed St. Louis eight hits but kept them well scattered. The infield was mud, while outfielders navigated around small lakes created by the day and a half of almost incessant rain. Under normal season circumstances the game would have been postponed.

Score:

St. Louis 2 8 2
Cincinnati 3 5 0
Frankhouse and Snyder; J. May and Pientch.

R. H. E.
Philadelphia 7 14 0
Boston 1 11 2
Miller and Jonnard; Greenfield and Hogan.

Only two games scheduled in National.
