SEVENTY-SEVENTH YEAR

SALEM, OREGON, WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 5, 1927

PRICE FIVE CENTS

STREET LIGHTS CHANGE ASKED BY COMMITTEE

Demonstration Shows Advantage of Smaller Lamps at Each Corner

COST LITTLE GREATER

Illumination to be Improved 100 Per Cent, Promised; Survey of City Planned to Determine Needs

Alderman L. J. Simeral, chairman of the lights committee, will recommend to the city council at its next regular meeting that 250 candle power lamps be placed over each street intersection in the residence districts to replace the 400 candle power lamps now in use at every other street intersection.

Better street lighting in Salem has been suggested by Simeral for some time, and on previous occasions he has suggested to his fellow councilmen some such plan as is now proposed.

Improvement Marked In an endeavor to convince city officials that the change now advocated is a desirable one, a demonstration was arranged last night by the light committee and Superintendent W. H. Hamilton, of the Portland Electric power company, at the corner of 17th and D streets.

Lamps of the smaller candle power were suspended at several intersections along seventeenth street. The large lamps at every other block were then extinguished and the others put on. A surprisingly greater visibility was produced with the smaller, more numerous lamps. Anywhere along the street the figures on a watch could be read, a thing impossible under the old system.

Cost Slightly More The cost to the city of the 400 candle power lamps is $4.40 per lamp each, and the cost of the proposed new lamps would be $3.10 each. When substituted for the higher power lights, the cost of the new ones would be $6.20 against the present $4.40.

As against this additional cost, illumination, 100 per cent better than at present, is promised. At present there are about 246 of the 400-candlepower lamps used at street intersections in the city. The new lamps would be installed only at places now served by circuits. Superintendent Hamilton stated last night that a survey would be made of the city, and a complete report drawn up, with estimates of costs for submission to the city council. The report probably will be ready by

DAVIS SPEAKER AT LABOR MEET

CABINET OFFICER LAUDS IMMIGRATION RESTRICTION

Asserts Less Strife in American Industry Today than Ever Before

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—(AP)—America's chiefs of labor, champions of more drastic immigration laws, heard from the lips of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis today the statement that the present restrictive law was the greatest piece of legislation enacted in 50 years.

The cabinet officer, addressing the convention of the American Federation of Labor, declared that the present scale of wages prevailing in American industries—the highest in history—would have been impossible without it.

Secretary Davis reviewed for the 379 delegates, from every state in the union, Canada, Mexico, Great Britain and other countries, the world situation concerning raw materials and labor conditions.

Never before, he told them, has American industry been so free from strife as it is today. "We have in America only one serious labor controversy and that will always exist as long as the industry remains in its present condition."

Labor's leaders construed the cabinet officer's remarks to pertain to the coal strike in western Pennsylvania. Earlier in the day's activities, the executive council of the federation, proposed that a conference be held in Pittsburgh November 14 at which the council and other labor chiefs would meet United Mine Workers' officials. The proposal, designed to assist the mine workers will come up for action on the convention floor later. Touching directly on national

KLAMATH BONDS DECLARED LEGAL

ISSUE OF $500,000 FOR HIGHWAYS FOUND VALID

Suit Brought by Taxpayer on Ground of Second Special Election

Bonds in the amount of $500,000 authorized for highway construction by the voters of Klamath county at a special election held in June of this year, are valid, according to an opinion handed down by the state supreme court Tuesday.

The opinion was written by Justice Rosman in an injunction proceeding filed by James H. Driscoll, taxpayer, against the officials of Klamath county.

Mr. Driscoll attacked the validity of the bond issue on the grounds that the constitution provides that not more than one special election shall be held in a county in any one year.

It was charged by Mr. Driscoll that two special elections were held in Klamath county during the year 1927.

Justice Rosman's opinion affirmed the decree of Judge A. L. Leavitt of the Klamath county circuit court.

The supreme court modified the decree of Judge Robert Tucker of the Multnomah county district court in a divorce proceeding brought by Mrs. Jean Schaefer against her husband, John Shafer, which involved certain property rights.

The decree of the lower court awarded to Mrs. Shafer one-half of the estate in its entirety, together with one-third interest in the property of her husband.

The supreme court held that Mrs. Shafer was not entitled to any of her husband's half of the estate, and reversed this part of Judge Tucker's order.

The opinion was written by Justice Coeshow.

Other opinions handed down by the supreme court Tuesday follow: State of Oregon, plaintiff and respondent, vs. George McKiel, defendant and appellant; appeal from Columbia county. Appeal from conviction on statutory charge. Opinion by Justice Belt. Judge J. A. Eakin reversed and case remanded.

P. S. Seabrook and F. O. Seabrook an Son, vs. Foley Box factory, appellant; appeal from Tillamook county; action to recover on contract for payment of money. Opinion by Justice Bean. Judge George R. Bagley affirmed.

William vs. Harris dismissed on stipulation.

John C. Austin of Portland admitted to practice law on certificate from state of Tennessee.

PHONE SERVICE SATISFACTORY CITIES REPORT

Three Marion County Municipalities Reply to Clark Questionnaire

ADVANCE CHARGE JUST

Attorney Representing Silverton, Mt. Angel and Scotts Mills Gives Views; Opposes Local Supervision

The towns of Silverton, Mount Angel and Scotts Mills have no complaint to offer regarding the existing telephone service, according to a letter prepared here Tuesday by Custer E. Ross, legal adviser for the three municipalities.

The letter was written by Mr. Ross in reply to a questionnaire received from Alfred E. Clark of Portland, chairman of the committee created at the last legislative session to investigate the telephone situation in Oregon.

Conditions Said Good "The telephone situation in all of these communities is satisfactory," read Mr. Ross' letter. "No complaints have been made to the public service commission in regard to either rates or service so far as I am advised."

"My view is that the practice of the telephone companies in making a charge before connection is made is proper. Installation of equipment and making service connections and listings cost the telephone companies considerable money, and inasmuch as there is no guarantee from any subscriber that the service will continue, it would seem proper that the company should not lose money in giving this service.

Advance Fee Upheld "I think the practice of telephone companies in collecting for service in advance is proper. Quite usually the remedy of the telephone company is solely con-

FIRST DEGREE COUNT BY POLK GRAND JURY

Aged Hop Picker to Be Arraigned Today For Slaying Wealthy Rancher

DALLAS, Ore., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Irving B. Priest was charged with first degree murder in an indictment returned today by the Polk county grand jury which investigated the slaying of George M. Werline, wealthy Independence hop grower, on August 30.

Priest objected to attentions which Werline is said to have paid to Mrs. Priest, and, according to testimony at the inquest, asked a settlement. When this was refused, Priest drew a gun and shot Werline through the body.

The slayer was taken into custody by a deputy sheriff stationed at the hop yard and on the way to the Dallas jail is said to have made a full confession of the killing.

world's baseball championship, the New York Yankees faced the loss of one of their best sharpshooters, Herb Pennock, as a result of severe knee injury to the southpaw star in batting drill this afternoon.

Pennock, who has never met defeat in a world's series and has a record of four triumphs, was hit just above the left knee by a sharp line drive from the bat of Cedric Durst, substitute outfielder.

The blow ruptured a blood vessel and caused a swelling the size of an ordinary fist. Dr. J. R. Shell, of St. Petersburg, Fla., who administered first aid in the form of ice packs and poultices, expressed belief that the pitcher would recover fully within two days but it is considered extremely doubtful whether Pennock will be able to start before the third or fourth game, if at all.

Attorneys for Kelley based the proceeding on the contention that Kelley was detained illegally in the penitentiary and that he was within his lawful rights when he attempted to escape.

Kelley originally was received at the prison to serve 20 years for aiding in the escape of Bert (Oregon) Jones from the Josephine county jail.

"We're going to win," Donie Bush, Pirate manager, declared. "That's not mere confidence; it's a conviction. This club is too strong and game to be licked. Our right hand pitchers will stop the Yankee sluggers. They've got to because they're all we've got. The players are in good shape."

"It looks like a tough series," asserted Miller Huggins, Yankee leader, "but the Yankees figure to win on their hitting. It's always a gamble in a short series, but I expect our pitchers to hold their own. The club is stronger and steeper than last year. The boys have the range at bat and I don't see how they can be stopped."

CALLES FORCES AGAIN CONTROL WITH IRON GRIP

Government Troops Have Situation Well in Hand, Reports Indicate

REBEL LEADERS KILLED

General Francisco Serrano, Alleged Commander of Revolution, Captured and Summarily Executed

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The iron hand of Calles already has fallen upon the alleged instigators of the military revolt.

Less than 24 hours after the uprising started in Mexico City, General Francisco Serrano, candidate for the presidency, former war minister and once close friend of General Obregon, declared to be the main leader in the attempt against the government, was captured, court-martialed and executed. Thirteen of his most prominent followers also paid the supreme penalty.

With the mutiny of three companies of the twenty garrisoned in Mexico City at midnight Sunday and reports of threatened risings in various parts of the republic, President Calles and General Obregon, whose aspirations for another term in the presidential chair are believed to have brought about the widespread movement of revolt, immediately prepared plans for crushing the rebellion. General Obregon declared that he would withdraw his candidacy, if necessary, and take the field against the anti-Calles forces.

Federal Forces Act Loyal troops, aided by airplanes, were sent immediately in pursuit of the mutineers who had proceeded toward Puebla.

How well they succeeded in this task is indicated by an official bulletin issued this morning. The bulletin gives no details regarding the capture and execution of these men, but states briefly: "General Francisco Serrano, one of the leaders in the uprising, was captured in the state of Morelos, together with a group of his companions, by loyal troops commanded by General Juan Dominguez. They were summarily court-martialed and executed."

Among those executed with Serrano were: General Carlos A. Vidal, governor of the state of Chiapas; General Miguel and Daniel Peralta and Rafael Martinez Escobar, attorney and prominent political leader and supporter of General Arnulfo Gomez in the present presidential campaign.

NOGALES, ARIZONA, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The bodies of General Francisco Serrano, Mexican presidential candidate, and 13 of his followers who died before a firing squad yesterday in the state of Morelos, after being accused of inciting a revolution, today were placed on exhibition in the capital city of that state, according to official bulletins received in Nogales, Sonora, late today.

The official communiques, received by General Pablo Macias, commander of the military in Sonora, gave border residents the first detail of the execution.

Serrano and his 13 followers, according to the official reports to General Macias, had gone to Morelos, supposedly to enlist the support of General Juan Dominguez, chief of military operations in that state. He was an old friend of Serrano and the presidential candidate apparently relied upon that friendship to enlist the general and his forces in the Serrano cause.

Instead, Dominguez ordered the arrest of the entire group. They were summarily court-martialed and executed.
