

SIDE LIGHTS OF THE STAGE AND SCREEN

Elsinore Theater
No more whole-souled appreciation of "The Big Parade" has been found in any other section of the world than across the border in Canada where the celebrated Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture was acclaimed alike by English and French newspapers as the greatest historical epic ever made for the films.

La Presse, Montreal's big newspaper, said "The Big Parade" was deeply appreciated by every friend of France for its portrayal of Mellaunde as a magnificent tribute to the noble qualities of the Frenchwoman in the World War, and the leading English newspaper, the Montreal Star, stated that on the opening night the house "roared with laughter or sat tense with thrills or shaken by emotional memories as the story unfolded. A romance well and gracefully told. Humor of an irresistible kind. A vast panorama of the war as it was fought, some of the other characteristics by the Star, in Toronto also the picture received great acclaim. It will rank in screen history as one of the most popular films that ever toured the 3,600-mile breadth of the great Dominion to the north. At the Elsinore today and Saturday.

Oregon Theater
"The Red Raiders," the first National picture produced by the Charles R. Rogers company, is an authentic phase of the invasion of the west, the most adventurous chapter of the early history of the United States.

It is based on the historical settlement of the northwest and the heroic period which preceded the establishment of the first government Indian reservation, marking the end of hostilities between them and the whites in that region.

A notable feature of "The Red Raiders" is the exciting type of Indians chosen to represent their forefathers. For once the Indian has been expertly cast—made to fit the period of the picture to perfection.

"The Red Raiders" is now showing at the Oregon theater. Ann Drew, beautiful screen film, makes her debut in the leading feminine role opposite Ken Maynard. Supporting members of the cast include Paul Hurst, Harry Shutan, J. P. McGowan, Tom Bay and Chief Yowlache.

Grand Theater
"What Happened to Father," the Warner Bros. farce-comedy which comes to the Grand theater next Saturday, for a run of two days, is uproariously funny, but funny in a "different" way from the usual farce-comedy. In the first place, Charles Condon has built his scenario around a Mary Roberts Rinehart story, and M. R. R. is, as the wide world knows, most adept in writing of love, adventure, mystery or mirth, and in the delineation of character. There is a good story to begin with, funny people, funny situations and "Father," who is a whole show in himself.

John G. Adolph, the director, has missed no opportunity to make the most of people, places and situations, and the photography is superb. But after all it is Warner Oland who makes the picture unforgettable.

Oland brings an oddly Pickwickian blandness to his portrayal of W. Bradberry, the retiring literary man whose hidden hobby leads him to such dire and ludicrous extremes—his hysterical fling into Broadway, his timid buoyancy in the delectable but disturbing company of the ladies of the chorus, his flight, and final rebellion are all done with a unique artistry which is peculiar to Warner Oland.

Others in the large cast are the featured players Flobelle Fairbanks and William Demarest. Vera Lewis as Father's masterful wife, John Miljan, Cathleen Calhoun, Hugh Allan and Jean Lefferty also do fine work.

"What Happened to Father," is the sort of play to please the whole family from Father down—or up!

Capitol Theater
The original Americans are rarely noted for their "hipness" and it is seldom that a genuine American Indian comes to the fore in the theatrical profession. Indians are as a rule comparatively reticent, rare and are more or less of a bashful nature when it comes to acting. Exceptions, however, are to be found in every rule, and the exception to this are Chief Eagle Wing and Princess Ramona. These two people are usually talented and are exceptional entertainers in every way. Chief Eagle Wing being a very good dancer while his charming partner possesses a voice of charming tonal quality and rare beauty.

Eugene Conrad is probably the best known of the very few vaudeville writers. He has reached a degree of success unapproached by any other writer. This is due to the fact that his idea of what the public wants generally meets with its approval. Miss Wanda Ludlow and Fred Wright have been appearing in vaudeville sketches for eight years. Mr. Conrad has provided them with a brand new comedy skit which he has titled "Shiek" of today. The comedy is of the highest order, interpolated with special musical numbers, and an unusual comedy finish brought about by hat king of garden vegetables, he well known onion.

Dover and Soltan, a handsome young man and decidedly pretty girl, both blonde, present a comedy song and dance act that is perfectly delightful. In the first place they "get" you by the strength of their smiles and personalities and they strengthen their hold with mighty clever songs, snappy dances and pleasing comedy.

A scientific and educational act that is not only interesting but entertaining as well, will be offered by Irene Parks and company, entitled "The Electric Revue." Miss Parks is the only woman in the world who can allow 750,000 volts of electricity to pass through her body without ill effects. To prove that the electricity really travels through her body she lights candles, torches and light bulbs simply by touching them with her fingers. Included in the company of four is a pantomime comedian who adds not a little humor to the scientific demonstration. A gorgeous and striking radium scenic drop is carried by the act.

The Mason-Dixon Trio is composed of Jack Stanley, Bob Owen and Don Howe, three polished and clean cut young men with personality and pep, who put over a routine of songs in their own inimitable way accompanying themselves on tenor guitar and banjo. These boys are possessed of excellent voices which blend perfectly. However they are best known for their clever comedy numbers which were especially written for them.

This bill will be on the program at the Capitol today.

FIREMAN JUST IN TIME
Horror Struck Crowd Looks on While Man Makes Rescue

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Horror halted passersby in a Bronx street today when the screams of a woman leaning from a fifth floor apartment window, holding another suspended over the street by her heels, drew their eyes.

The frail woman shrieked frantically for help, in a voice weakening as the minutes slipped by. The passersby soon grew to a crowd of 300 helpless persons, rictic by fear. Then a blue coated fireman sauntered around the corner, took one look and dashed into the apartment house. Appearing at a fourth floor window, he was seen to reach out and knot his fingers into the woman's hair. She swung in his grasp as the little woman in the window collapsed.

McManus, a fireman, returned from a sanitarium and called an ambulance for her sister, Pearl, who had caught her heels as she tried to dive from the window.

mounted troops.

Generals Zepeda and Ricard were said to be leading a large following against the federal troops in San Luis Potosi, far to the south.

In Cuernavaca Generals Humberto Barros, Mier and Teran were declared to have taken the field with considerable forces, their battle cry being "Down with the re-electionists," which term is applied to the followers of Obregon.

Courts Martial Numerous
Summary court martial and swift execution of enemies of the government continue, tonight's advices assert. In the state of Morelos, General Vicente Gonzales and 13 member of the state legislature died before firing squads today.

Several firing squads were reported from Torreón in the state of Durango, where the federal commander, General Jose San Martin, crushed a mutiny in the sixteenth regiment. The federal government, according to advices received here is marshaling its forces, military and financial, to meet the crisis, and has instructed all treasury representatives throughout the republic to rush every available dollar to the capital for use in combating the revolution.

Report Shows Plot
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—(AP)—A prominent citizen of Mexico now residing here, announced receipt of a dispatch from the state of Morelos, Mexico, today, saying that General Francisco Serrano, presidential candidate, who was reported executed Monday, was not captured in open revolt at Cuernavaca, as announced by President Calles, but was arrested in Mexico City Saturday night, spirited away to Cuernavaca and shot to death there Sunday to give color to the statement that he had taken up arms against the government.

These advices further stated that when the news of the execution filtered into the Mexico City garrison Sunday night it precipitated the mutiny led by General Almada, which resulted in several bodies of troops marching out of the capital to join General Gomez, the only remaining opponent of General Alvaro Obregon for the presidency, in Vera Cruz.

It was asserted that Serrano's fate paralleled the kidnapping and execution of Pedro Zamorra in 1922, and of the Carpias, father and son, in 1923.

Angora is an important combining feature in the new sports type frocks. For instance, bright blue velveteen and a lighter blue Angora combine in one model. Pale gray angora is used with black wool crepe in another.

YMCA GROUP FORMS SUBSIDIARY CLUB TO AID WORK

The Membership club of the YMCA was organized last night when a banquet was held by twenty-five members of the association.

The purpose of this new organization according to the plans presented by the committee and adopted by those in attendance was "To vitalize and attach greater significance to the YMCA membership by seeing that each member of the club understands the real purpose of the association—and to see that the new men are well assimilated into the program" of the association.

The emblem of the club is a triangle and it is a requirement of the club that in order to become a member it is necessary to get a new member for the YMCA.

Meetings of the new organization will be held each month at which times various phases of the YMCA work will be discussed.
