

PLOT AGAINST MR. WILSON RECOUNTED

Deep Laid Plans Heard Against Life of President During World War

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—An alleged plot against the life of Woodrow Wilson during the war was disclosed at the state crime commission hearing here by John H. Trevor, representing the state chamber of commerce. He told of the plot as an argument for registration of aliens in peace time as well as war time.

Trevor said he was unable to give details of the plot since all records bearing on it were in government files. The plot was reported to him as head of the army intelligence service in this district at the time by a German who overheard the plotting through a register in the floor of his room.

The informant said that he had been asked to join with the conspirators and that a quantity of explosives was stored on the premises of the east side lodging house where the conspirators lived. Trevor said members of his staff raided the house, but the plotters escaped.

"The point I wanted to make in mentioning the incident," said Trevor, "was that this German was registered as an alien, and while he might have reported his discovery to the authorities in any case, again, he might not have. I believe that registration of aliens is almost as necessary in peace time as it is in war."

"There are some 3,000,000 aliens in this state illegally, and most of them criminals," Trevor charged. He urged that fire arms should be sold to no person who could not identify himself as a citizen.

Provision for new anti-pistol and "fence" laws to be presented to the next legislative session were also discussed.

PIRATE CREW TAKES

twice, in the third and eighth innings, with sufficient power to bring in three runs each time and move the Yankees into a commanding lead as the battle swung tomorrow to the home field of the American league champions in New York.

Vic Aldridge attempted the task of checking the Yankees and putting the Pirates back in the fight but met the same fate as Ray Kremer. Outside of the bad innings the Hoosier school master did a fairly job but these two lapses were enough to convince him as well as the board of strategy that curve balls are not as much poison to the Yanks as they had figured.

The Yankees, whose play yesterday was nearly as spotty as that of the Pirates, settled down today to give an exhibition in all departments that was up to their American league championship standards. They were spiky in the field, supporting Pipgras perfectly, good on the bases and powerful at bat when opportunities arose. The all-around snappy play of the New Yorkers was in sharp contrast with the shaky work of their rivals.

Corsairs Still Shaky
The Pirates do not appear to have regained their stride or recovered from the reaction of defeat of their terrific National league pennant fight. Unless they steady down and recover their batting crests they are not likely to extend the Yankees, who now have visions of rattling off four straight and equalling the record of the Boston Braves in 1914.

The Yankees haven't struck their home run stride but that is about the only feature of their batting attack that has been missing so far. Ruth and Gehrig, big guns yesterday, had a meagre day at bat this afternoon but the other Yankees, especially Koenig, Meusel and Lazzeri, figured heavily in the collective attacks on Aldridge.

Where yesterday's rankee victory was won in a "battle of errors," today's came in a "battle of flies," all twirlers involved forcing 'em up to such an extent that the outfielders, all told, had 23 put outs.

Notice of Assessment for the cost of improving the alley in block 7 of the original plat of the city of Salem, Marion County, Oregon, from the north line of Ferry Street to the south line of State Street.

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council of the City of Salem, Oregon, will, at or about 7:30 p. m., on the 17th day of October, 1927, or any subsequent meeting of the said Council thereafter, in the council chamber of the city hall of Salem, Oregon, proceed to assess upon and against each lot or part thereof or parcel of land liable therefor, its proportionate share of the cost of improving the alley in block 7 of the original plat of the city of Salem, Marion County, Oregon, from the north line of Ferry Street to the south line of State Street.

All persons interested in the said assessments are hereby notified to appear before the said Council at said time and place and present their objections, if any they have, to said assessment, and apply to said Council to equalize their proportionate share of same.

NEW WESTERN AUTO STORE ON COMMERCIAL AT COURT OPENS TONIGHT

Invitations to everybody in Salem to attend the formal opening of the new Western Auto Supply Co. store this evening from 7 to 10 o'clock. Entertainment, refreshments and prizes are offered as special attractions.

first inning to score on Barnhart's sacrifice hoist and scooted home in the eighth on brother Paul's sacrifice fly after he had walked, and raced to third on Barnhart's single.

Outside of these brief sorties, the Pirates' attack was chiefly conspicuous by its absence. The Bucs got no more than one hit in any inning. Outside of the first and eighth they didn't get a runner beyond second base.

George Grantham reached second in the second inning on his single and Joe Harris' out but was stranded by Gooch. Grantham opened the seventh with a rattling double up against the right field wall—barely three feet short of a home run—but Harris was thrown out by Koenig after which Lazzeri broke up the rally by grabbing Gooch's drive and doubling Grantham at second. Traynor also doubled in the fourth, with one out, but neither Grantham nor Harris had the punch to bring him home.

Crowd All for Cuyler
The eighth inning spurt of the Pirates was punctuated by another and so far the loudest demonstration in behalf of Kiki Cuyler, "banished" outfielder, when Earl Smith was sent in to bat for Cuyler. The crowd of 42,000, or most of it, yelled for Cuyler in no uncertain terms and let loose a chorus of boos and cat calls as Smith bounded weakly to Lou Gehrig.

In some irrigation districts in the state the tax delinquency runs as high as 60 per cent. The cost of operation of the Talent project is only 12 per cent of the value of the crops. In 1926 the value of the crops produced in the district was $360,000.

OPPORTUNITIES ARE NOW PASSING

Systematic Work in Contest Gives Gains; Many Fields Are Untouched

Honor Roll Today
Leon Mickenham, No. 1.
Howard Elliott, No. 2.
Floyd Maddy, No. 3.

(By Radio Contest Editor)
The beginning of the end is approaching. This is one of the weeks when the winners will be made, and every effort known in vote getting will be employed in one grand rush for honors and the award for the efforts of the past weeks.

There are many who can win one of the capital prizes if they do their duty now. In fact, they will have to protect their various positions this week and next or go down in defeat for the lack of energy to stick to the race during these final days.

There are a few who are near the top of the list who would stop work this week and content to rest upon their laurels, confident in their own minds that their position is one of security from which they look down in decision on the candidates whom they think are less fortunate than they. But there is a day of reckoning coming and that day is set for Saturday, October 22nd.

Many candidates have several people in mind whom they haven't yet called upon. It is this week or never, for next week votes decrease.

It is work that counts from beginning to end. That is a steady, persistent kind. The busy bee keeps at it and is never discouraged. It is a real race, not one sided at all, neither in or out. It grows in interest to the public as they get on the home stretch.

Floyd Maddy turned up again yesterday after having been lost in the contest for a few days. His explanation was that he had been moving and now has located out on Route 3, Salem. Floyd expects to get all his neighbors and friends subscribe for him and help him in the contest. Floyd is a real consistent worker and is bound to be a serious contender at the close if he maintains his speed.

Merice Kelsey, 1230 Ferry, is a new candidate in the contest and if he works as hard for the next few days as he has started in on the race, he will make them all step aside to beat him.

Mace Morford called in to see the editor. Every once in a while Mace gets a tired feeling and slows down. However, he has got his second wind now and he believes he will be able to maintain his speed until the close of the contest, and if he does, he is bound to be a serious contender because Mace is a hard worker and a wonderful new-business getter. He has discovered that new subscriptions get about three times as many votes as old subscriptions, and he has set his plans accordingly.

Leon Mickenham has a wonderful mother who takes a keen interest in his contest work, and sometimes when Leon gets tired working, his mother puts him on the back and Leon takes fresh courage and goes right ahead and another subscription.

RECEPTION PLANNED

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION COUNCIL MEETS

The council of the Salem Teachers' association met Wednesday for the first time this fall. President R. W. Tavenner, was chairman.

Several matters of interest were discussed, foremost among which was the annual teachers' reception which will be held at the new Leslie school Wednesday, October 12. A short business meeting will be held after the reception.

It was pointed out that American education week occurs November 7-13. Credit for establishing the American education week is largely given to the American Legion, members of which were appalled at the number of young men serving in the world war who could neither read nor write. Provision was made in the legion charter for an Americanization committee to pay practical attention to the education of foreign born and do away with illiteracy in the nation.

Since the objective of the national association is the same, it was found of mutual advantage to hold conferences of officers and committees from the two groups. The idea of American education week for the improvement of schools grew out of these conferences.

The committee in charge of activities for education week consists of R. W. Tavenner, Mrs. Clara Thompson, chairman, and Mrs. Mildred Daly.

The state of Oregon claims title to the lands under the federal swamp act, while the government claims title to the lands under the bird refuge proclamation issued by President Roosevelt.
