KEEP MISSISSIPPI POLITICALLY FREE

Secretary of War Davis Makes Speech Before Engineers' Group

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Keeping the Mississippi river in its banks and out of politics, is the problem of the war department, Dwight F. Davis, secretary of war, told the conference of the American Society of Civil Engineers meeting here today in the opening session of a four-day conference.

The odoriferous pest, the "pork barrel," has been wisely eliminated Mr. Davis said, and should not be allowed to make a "come back" in engineering matters, such as flood control. Log rolling and the pork barrel have no place in a great national problem involving human lives and vast property values.

FISH COMMISSION FACES BIG DEFICIT

Group Appointed By Governor Patterson $15,000 in Hole, Indicated

PORTLAND, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A deficit of $25,000, faced by the appointees of Governor Patterson when they took over the affairs of the fish commission of Oregon April 22 of this year, will have been wiped out by the end of the fiscal year, November 30, figures and estimates completed today indicate. New regulations concerning the issuance of trap licenses were also announced today.

Expenses in various departments have been cut from 30 to 50 per cent of last year's expenses, it developed today. Yet the work has been carried on with unimpaired efficiency, improvements have been made and this record achieved despite the fact that in the coast district, at least, revenues have been but 80 per cent of what they were last year.

Master Warden Reports—This is the summary of statements made today by H. T. Hoy, acting master fish warden, and Hugh C. Mitchell, director of hatcheries.

Their conclusions were drawn from a statement of actual and anticipated receipts and disbursements from December 1, 1926, to November 30, 1927, for the coast district, and estimates for the Columbia river district. The fish commission's accounts and funds for the two districts are independent of each other.

Nestucca Closed—In connection with the decrease in revenues from the coast district, Hoy pointed out that the Nestucca bay tributaries and the Necanicum river were closed to commercial fishing during this season, and that in other streams the run of fish has been light. The commission's revenues from these two streams, were they not closed, would have been approximately $7,000, Hoy estimated.

Lightness of the run was probably due, Hoy and Mitchell said, to "an enormous amount of ocean trolling for salmon." This trolling affects the runs in the coast streams. Small, young fish are caught by the trollers, the commission said, fish weighing 9 to 10 pounds and which would weigh 25 to 28 pounds if allowed to mature.

Mitchell quoted Dr. C. H. Gilbert, ichthyologist, as saying that silver salmon double their weight.

Distraction Recounted—Besides taking fish when they are too young, trolling results in the destruction of many fish, Hoy said. He said fish often are hooked but not caught and subsequently die of the wounds; that fish shorter than the lawful minimum of 20 inches often are jerked from the hook when their size is perceived, or slapped against the sides of boats to remove them—death resulting.

Disbursements for the coast district fund were $63,600 during the last fiscal year. The statements completed today indicate that they will be 35 per cent less during the fiscal year which ends November 30.

The patrol service disbursement, which were $12,000 last year, will be cut more than 50 per cent. The office expense, $4,600 last year, will be cut 30 per cent. Miscellaneous expenses, covering investigations, expenses of department heads, fish ways and other things, will be cut $10,800 last year, will be cut 40 per cent.

Masked Floggings in Crenshaw County Bring Over 100 Indictments

LUVERNE, Ala., Oct. 12.—(AP)—More than 100 indictments that will result in "at least 100 convictions and sentences" will be returned by the special grand jury investigating masked floggings in Crenshaw county, Attorney General Charlie C. McCall said today. He indicated that the jury probably will report to Judge A. E. Gamble tomorrow.

Today's session of the grand jury was marked by the appearance of four men said to have been members of whipping parties in Crenshaw county. J. P. Williams, Shelby Gregory and Maxie and Phoggy Mills were taken into custody in Montgomery and brought to Luverne today to testify before the grand jury.

Mr. McCall would not verify published reports that the four men confessed their part in a series of Crenshaw county floggings and turned state's evidence, implicating other persons in connection with masked violence.

James Esdale, grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Alabama, who Mr. McCall said had been summoned to appear before the jury today, failed to appear. The attorney general said he understood Esdale was in Chicago. In
