The real south American Chinchilla; in no way connected with the so-called chinchilla rabbit. There are only two captive herds of the Real Chinchilla in existence.

Facts:

Real Chinchilla fur is the most sought after, the most expensive and by far the most beautiful in the world. Pelts bring from $100 to $250 each. Wraps of Real Chinchilla retail for $30,000 to $80,000.

These are the easiest of all animals to raise. They are vegetarians. Three Chinchillas consume no more food than one chicken. Can be raised in small space. No disease or parasite is known to them and they live to be 30 to 35 years of age. They breed three times a year, producing one to four pups to a litter. The young breed when three or four months old.

A Money Making Opportunity

Today there is no fur bearing animal in captivity that can rival the Real Chinchilla as a money maker. Use the coupon below to get our plan and methods based upon eight years of experience in breeding these rare animals.

Three people own all the Real Chinchillas in existence in captivity. It can be easily seen that the world supply must come from us. When you figure the low cost of feed and care, the rapid increase in herds, and the high market price of pelts, you can readily understand why fortunes will be made in this new industry. You can participate in this business.

A real opportunity is open to you, if you will only investigate the past and future of this rare animal. Write today for the complete information. Sign and mail the coupon below:
