Football season is coming to Salem in dead earnest today. Most of the fans have thought it was a long time coming; six weeks after the training season started, and two weeks after some big, important games have been played on the coast.

But being late, the season is all the more welcome, and with ideal weather forecast, indications are that one of the biggest crowds ever assembled for a gridiron contest on Sweetland field will turn out to see the Willamette university Bearcats battle the College of Idaho, last year's northwest conference champions and favorites to repeat.

The Coyotes, headed by Coach Anse Cornell, will arrive early this morning. After sweeping victories over Pacific university and Linnfield college, Idaho has suffered no injuries to first string men, and is expected to be at its maximum strength today.

The Bearcats on the other hand, have been in the two major games played so far, especially on the wins. This will not be serious unless some of the ends are hurt by the game.

Progressive and modern are a capable pair, but the Bearcat defense may be weakened if either of them is forced to leave the field. There is just a chance that Cranor may be shifted to end if an emergency arises, as he was Willamette's most capable wing man last year.

The lineup given above is only tentative. Rogers has been recovering rapidly from his injury of ten days ago, and may be ready to return to his position at center; Glass, Cardinal or Van Nuyms may be selected to start at one of the ends, and Decker and Zeller might appear in the backfield at the opening of the game. These men are all pretty certain to play at some time in the contest. Others who will probably be used are Beck, Emmons and Quarry, guards, and Fropp, tackle.

PETER DE PAOLO HAS SPEED TITLE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Peter De Paolo of Los Angeles, today was declared winner of the American Automobile Association speedway championship for 1927. The contest, held at the association which announced the award, said it was based on his winning 1440 points in speedway events during the year.

De Paolo was champion in 1925 and is one of six drivers who have won the title twice. Frank Lockhart was second with 1040 points, retaining the place he won last year. George Souders, Purdue university student, who won the Indianapolis race last May, in his first start behind the wheel, won third place, with 1,000 points.

Fourth place went to Leon Durray and Harry Hartz, the 1926 champion, took fifth position, largely because of a run of bad luck during the season.

Lockhart led the others in money earnings on the race tracks, with $43,110. Souders earned $31,890, and De Paolo, $27,080.

MIKE McTIGUE EFFECTS PEACE

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Mike McTigue, recently shorn of light heavyweight title recognition here by Tommy Loughran today made his peace with the National Boxing association and paved the way for another "shot" at 175 pound honors.

McTigue's suspension by the N. B. A. for failure to fulfill a contract to box Larry Gaines at Toronto was lifted by Thomas E. Donohue, president of the N. B. A. after the veteran boxer, thru his manager, Jimmy Johnston, agreed to meet Gaines in the Canadian city, between November 10 and 20.

At the same time McTigue's challenge for a match with Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, recognized light heavyweight champion by the N. B. A. was accepted by President Donohue.

CARDS IN GOOD SHAPE FOR O. A. C.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Thirty Stanford football players, accompanied by managers, trainers and coaches, left tonight for Portland where the Cardinals will tackle the Oregon Argies Saturday.

Coach "Pop" Warner and Line Coach "Tino" Thompson accompanied the players, but backfield Coach Charles Winterburn was left at home to coach the reserves who are not making the trip. All the players are in good condition, so Stanford will be at full strength against the northern eleven.

BAYES TO FIGHT NASH AT ALBANY

Phil Bayes, the local puncher, will meet Jack Nash in the main event on the opening card of the season at Albany tonight. Phil knocked Nash out in the first round on a Salem card last June, and is doped to take the battle tonight.

Bayes has been keeping steadily in training, despite his misfortune in losing his father by death recently, and is preparing for a steady season of fights up and down the coast.

LINDSEY'S VIEW NOT SO RADICAL AS MANY THINK

(Continued from Page One) have a dinner appointment at a sorority house in Eugene tonight to make a great social problem. They leave in ten minutes. He shook hands hastily with everyone and departed.

Ideas Not Radical
 Companionate marriage differs from the present system," said the judge, "only in that birth control would be legalized, information regarding it freely disseminated, divorce made possible by mutual consent of childless couples, and alimony for such divorces abolished."

"Under my plan, every marriage would be a companionate marriage until children came. Society can not have as much interest in the childless couple, as it does with one of a family."

"The term companionate marriage was not originated by me. I adopted it, thinking that a fitted my meaning, and that it would attract attention. One has to make a lot of fuss to get attention sometimes. People have misunderstood it. They would not fear it if they understood."

"Please remember that I am a monogamist. I believe in the old-fashioned marriage. But a new condition has arisen that must be faced, a great social problem developed in which the younger generation held from marriage by economic conditions is vitally interested."

"I am not concerned with the increase of divorce, but with the decrease of marriage. Of 10,000,000 men in the United States, between the ages of 20 and 31, nearly 5,000,000 are unmarried. There are nearly 40,000,000 men and women in this country between the ages of 17 and 35. Not half of them are married, and yet they are in the period of fecundity and marriage."

"My plan serves as a lure to get young people to marry. I tell them—don't have children unless you want them. Nine times out of ten they will want children in spite of previous intentions. But they are urged to wait until they are certain of each other."

Rabbi Newman is not fundamentally opposed to Judge Lindsey's views. He, however, objects to the use of the term companionate marriage as opening possibilities leading eventually to the present system with its triangular and irregular system. He is in favor of the function of the state in the marriage ideal.

"The benefits of companionate marriage can be gained through the present marriage system with substantial modification," the Rabbi declared. "I can see no harm in legalization of birth control knowledge in the right way, in the legalization of divorce by mutual consent for childless couples. But I believe that to tell young men they owe no financial obligations to their 'companionates' is to give them a dangerous and irresponsible attitude towards the duties of permanent marriage."

"Young people should be helped to marry earlier, provided they are absolutely sure of each other. We should hold forth to young people through our own conduct the pattern of good manners, of respect by great and young women of faith and loyalty, of self-discipline, of perfect consecration by two destined souls, each to the other. Let us reform marriage from within, not assail it from without."

The Rabbi and the Judge are very good friends and have the utmost respect for each other's views. They stay at the same hotel and eat their meals together when possible.

Judge Lindsey speaks from 27 years of practical experience in handling youthful mischief makers. He lost his juvenile judge'ship in the recent Denver election and at the present time has no regular job. He will continue for the present on the speaking platform.

Crowd Breaks Restraint At Exciting Murder Trial

PARIS, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Excited murmurs punctuated with frequent volleys of passionately protesting remarks rose again and again today from the spectators who packed the benches at the third sitting of the trial of Samuel Schwartzbard for the murder of General Simon Petlura.

Despite Justice Flory's banging gavel and demands for silence, the spectators apparently were unable to control themselves and the attendants had to threaten to expel several persistent offenders before the crowd got a grip on its emotions. Today's session was by far the most tense thus far in the running oral battle between Henri Torres, chief of the defense counsel, and Cesar Campiche, representing Petlura's family. The duel of words gained in vocal power and acrimony as the two black-robed lawyers stood a few feet apart roaring at the top of their lungs.

Schwartzbard alone among the actors in the court drama maintained calm. Even at the moment when he himself commented on the accusation of a former friend, his attitude was more one of resignation than protest. This accusation was contained in a deposition by M. Dobkovsky, Soviet commissar for Jews in Moscow in 1918, who is now in exile, fighting his former associates. Schwartzbard claims to have killed Petlura in reprisal for Jewish pogroms but the deposition alleges that Schwartzbard was a member of a secret committee organized in Paris by the Soviets to kill Petlura in order to prevent his possible return to power in the Ukraine.

Schwartzbard's only flare of violence came when bloody details of a program were being described. "They cut them down with naked blades," he shrieked. Then he subsided, in apparent anguish, rocking his shoulders back and forth and muttering in Hebrew.

Another similar moment came during testimony of the Ukrainian general, Shapoval, who served under Petlura. Shapoval declared that regular troops never had carried out any massacres of Jews and that Petlura opposed such tactics.

"Petlura was not anti-semitic," said the massively-built Slav. "He was a humanitarian—a friend of the Jews."

"No, no, he lies!" came a chorus in the accents of a dozen different languages from the spectators. The witness threw back his close-cropped head and straightened his shoulders in disdain.

Shapoval told the court an archist named Volodine assisted Schwartzbard in the crime. "At ten o'clock on the morning of the murder he came to my apartment and said, 'Petlura should be killed,'" said Shapoval. "Half an hour after the crime he came back to me obviously elated." Shapoval declared that Volodine stood guard while Schwartzbard fired the fatal shots.

To counteract Shapoval's testimony, Torres triumphantly produced a photograph of Shapoval, who professes to be anti-radical, in company with Volodine. The photograph was certified to have been taken a month after Shapoval made his original deposition against Colodine.

of several hundred have betrayed the trust. He was also author of the contributory delinquency law which held parents responsible for their negligence.

The judge has become internationally known for his books on sex problems. Among some of his works are "Problems of Children," "The East and the Jungle," "The Rule of Plutocracy in Colorado," "The Doughboy's Religion," and "Pan-Germanism in America."

F. R. Berger, of the Monon road told the American Association of Superintendents of Dining Cars here today, is that the dining car meals lose money. Income pays only for food costs and crew pay-rolls, he claimed, the average loss per meal being 32 to 55 cents. The loss is increased, too, he added, by the fact that 98 per cent of the Pullman passengers now eat in the diners.

KANSAS CITY.—A man may go usefully about his work minus a leg, an arm and eye, his tonsils, appendix, gall bladder, one kidney, part of his lungs and brain and as much as 12 feet of his intestines.

Dr. John F. Erdman, New York, is authority for the statement. He told the interstate post-graduate medical association today that the number of organs a human being can afford to lose to the knife is steadily increasing due to better methods in surgery and increased knowledge of the functions of organs.

McINTYRE TO MEET GRAHAM WEDNESDAY

Bobby McIntyre and Eddie Graham, two of Salem's own flat swingers who have been establishing themselves as unquestioned crowd pleasers, will have a place on the boxing card at the armory arena next Wednesday night.

Matchmaker Plant in putting these boys on the card did so at the request of multitudes of fans who know that they are in for a session of good, hard fighting whenever and against whoever the two boys appear.

McIntyre has been nmatched with Charlie O'Leary of Portland in the six round semi-windup event. Eddie Graham takes on Mickey Dolan, another Portland scrapper, who is just two pounds heavier than Eddie, and who is said to pack a mean punch.

St. Flook, of Mill City, and Young Union, of Portland, have been matched in a four-round preliminary mill. One more four round bout will be added to the card in a few days.

Jack Dillon, headliner in a fight against Battling Slim, will work out this afternoon in the armory at one o'clock. He has been taking his "daily dose" every afternoon this week and is in tip-top shape for the mysterious Bellingham bay 165-pounder.

Dillon has moved to Salem and plans to make it his home if he can take the match from the Battler Wednesday night, so that he will be established in the valley here as a real fighter.

Battling Slim is now in Portland preparing for the fight here Wednesday.

RAINIER MAYOR CHOSEN
 RAINIER, Ore., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Dr. J. S. Ditto was elected mayor of Rainier by the city council tonight to succeed A. E. Veach, recalled on August 15, and with this election came the announcement that recall proceedings have been started against Mrs. Florence E. Bowen and M. W. Brown council members.

Those in touch with both sides of the political situation believe the bitter strife of the past few months is settled—only insofar as the question revolved around Veach.

The second recall is set for November 1, but inasmuch as Mrs. Bowen and Brown have withdrawn their support of Veach, no fight against them is anticipated.
