

$30,000.00 PLANT NOW OPERATING

The Capitol City Bedding Co. are now open for business in their new $30,000 plant. Salem people will recall that this institution was destroyed by fire about four months ago. Today it is bigger and better than ever. Brand new machinery of the latest type has been installed. New selling territory is about to be taken over, more employees have been added and altogether a bright outlook is in sight for this enterprising concern.

As might be understood from the firm name, the concern is a mattress factory, turning out mattresses of all kinds and quality. Their big business, in the sales department, is not the higher priced mattresses, however. The cheaper cotton mattresses form the bulk of their business. This is because of the large number of logging camps, auto camps, rooming houses that buy the cheaper quality.

Renovating old mattresses is also a big department of their business. People who have paid a big price for an all wool mattress do not like to throw it away after the covering has become worn or the wool matted. This firm will take such a mattress, tear out the matted wool, throw away the old cover, and turn you back a mattress identical with the one purchased in the beginning. The charge for this service is about $8.00.

The new building has been built of fire proof concrete throughout and is divided into three units. The front of the building is given over to an office. Next to the office is the main work room where the mattresses are made. From five to six carloads of wool and cotton are kept on hand in the store room all the time. The plant has a capacity of 60 mattresses a day, employing 11 people.

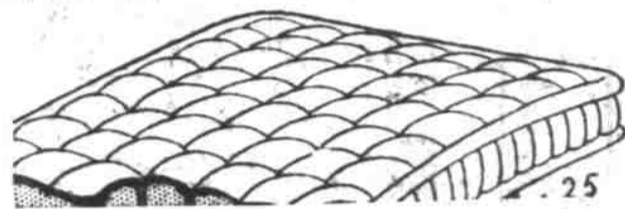

This factory was established in 1919 by its present owners. Dona Paulin, president of the corporation, came to Salem in that year from Spokane where he had been superintendent for the biggest mattress factory on the coast, the Carmen Manufacturing Co. He associated himself with E. W. Muller and these two men own the plant. Mrs. Muller has been taken into the business as vice president.

Their business has been confined to Oregon in the past, but the first of the year will see them established in the states of Washington and Montana. Wenger Bros., local building contractors, had the contract for constructing the plant. The list of those who furnished the materials follows:

All furniture and linoleum was furnished by Stiff's Furniture store; Eoff Electrical Co., installed all electrical fixtures; Nelson Bros., did the plumbing; Cobbs & Mitchell sold the lumber; Spaulding Logging Co. did all the mill work and the Salem Brick & Tile Co. furnished the hollow tile used in the building.
