

BUDGET FOR YMCA SERIOUS PROBLEM

Only About Half Raised, and Activities for Next Year Threatened

A meeting of the board of directors of the YMCA was held yesterday at a noon luncheon. This meeting was called for the purpose of discussing ways and means of raising the remainder of the 1927-28 budget outlined some time ago and which volunteer workers have been endeavoring to raise for the past two weeks. To date only a little over $12,000 has been pledged and almost twice that amount is needed if this institution is to function properly for the next year.

It is no secret that the campaign has not gone over this year. Where the fault lies is hard to say definitely. Everyone admits that the Y has functioned the past year in a manner highly pleasing to all concerned. More work and better work has been done the past year than was ever dreamed of when the project for the new building was launched two years ago.

The total budget outlined for this year calls for an expenditure of $35,475. In this connection it might be interesting to compare this budget with other cities having a larger population than Salem. Without mentioning names, a city is cited that has a population of 22,000 people, which is about 7000 in excess of Salem. This particular city has a YMCA that has a reported membership of 1125. Salem has 1242 members. The other city's Y spent $41,000 last year; Salem spent $31,000. In another instance a city of 130,000 population has a YMCA membership of 1213, less than Salem, and its expenditures last year were in excess of $72,000.

In both of these comparisons it was found that more work is being done in every single department in the Salem Y than in those cases where there was a bigger city population and a larger budget.

The board of directors will meet again Wednesday noon to continue their discussions of what to do and how to do it with regard to getting in the extra needed money. Unless it is forthcoming Salem people are going to see their YMCA go glimmering in 1928. There is no other answer.

ELECTRICITY USED

PLANNING MILL AT SPAULDING'S RESUMES OPERATION

The planing mill of the Chas. K. Spaulding Logging company at the foot of Ferry street again having been shut down since last Tuesday, due to the blowing up and wrecking of the steam cylinder of the big 400 horse power engine which drove the planing mill.

After a hurried investigation, Mr. Spaulding decided to discard the engine and replace it with several electric motors, as this was in line with the plan of replacing the steam engines with electric motors that his company has had in mind for some time. This plan would also facilitate the starting up of the planing mill at an earlier date.

Through the cooperation of the General Electric company, the Fobes Supply company, Vibbert & Todd and the Portland Electric Power company, the installation of the necessary motors to replace the engine was completed Sunday night, and the planing mill started up yesterday morning as usual.

The big engine was replaced with one 300 horse power motor, one 75 horse power and one 25 horse power. Vibbert & Todd, local electrical contractors, had a large crew of men working steadily since Wednesday installing the necessary wiring in the mill, and the Portland Electric Power company also had a large crew running a special 2300 volt circuit from their power house on Mill street to the planing mill at the foot of Ferry street.

It would have required at least two or three weeks to have replaced the engine with another engine, or to have repaired the old engine, and it was necessary to get the planing mill running for lumber which the Spaulding company had on file.

In order to remove the old engine quickly so that the big 300 horse power motor might be installed in its place, Mr. Skeels, the superintendent of the mill, resorted to the use of oxy-acetylene torches and dynamite to cut the engine in pieces and to break up the big fly wheel and other large parts of the engine.

These explosions were heard all over the business sections of town on Thursday and many people wondered as to the cause of the explosions. It was rumored that they were blasting for foundations for a new planing mill building, but the truth of the matter was that they were blowing the old engine in pieces so that they might remove it quickly.

BAD FIRE AVERTED

OFFICER'S VIGILANCE RESULTS IN QUICK ALARM

While making his rounds about 3 o'clock Sunday morning Police Officer Kuykendall took a stroll down an alley leading south from State street. By so doing he probably was responsible for preventing a disastrous fire. When about half way down the alley he noticed smoke pouring from a bedroom window over the White House restaurant. A hurried investigation showed that the room was in a mass of flames, probably started by someone leaving a lighted cigarette in the room.

The fire department responded promptly and spent about ten minutes extinguishing the flames. No one was in the room that was on fire. Occupants of the adjoining rooms were awakened by the management of the place and made a wild scene as they scrambled, helter, skelter from the building. No one was injured.

OLD CHURCH RAZED

FIRST BAPTIST BUILDING IN OREGON REMOVED

DALLAS, Ore., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—The First Baptist church of Dallas, which stood on the corner of Church and Court streets is being razed to make way for a modern building of stucco being constructed by members of the Apostolic Faith. This was the first Baptist church built in Oregon and the first church built in Dallas. It was built in 1858 on a lot deeded by Isaac Levens from his donation land claim "No. 51" for the sum of $1.

Among the early pastors was David Hubbard, and also the Rev. T. F. Campbell, father of Dr. Prince L. Campbell, both deceased, as the building was shared with members of the Christian church.

Among the early trustees were T. J. Hayter, David Hubbard, James Holman, and George Brown and here many of the oldest residents of Dallas attended church, some of them under protest.

The church did not incorporate until 1919 as a considerable indebtedness had been incurred and was left by David Hoffman.

The membership grew less and less until June, 1925. It was decided to discontinue holding services and in October of this year the property was sold for $2000 to the members of the Apostolic Faith.

DEATH NOT SOLVED

DAWSON POSSIBLY HOBO BUT HAD FUNDS, LEARNED

Melvin Dawson, who was killed Saturday night when struck by the Cascade Limited, Southern Pacific crack train, may have been hobnobbing it at the time of his death, but if he was there certainly was no need of it. A letter from a trust company found near the scene of tragedy showed that he was receiving a monthly income of $100 a month from an estate in Columbia, Tennessee. Besides that a bank book showed two deposits of $400 and $200 in a Seattle bank, made on September 29 and October 10.
