

Salem's Victory in Portland League Recalled When Trophy Arrives

SENATORS' NAMES ENGRAVED ON CUP

Heroes of the Salem Senators' victory in the Portland City baseball league race, in their first year of competition, were heard Thursday when the huge trophy cup offered by the Oregon Journal, emblematic of the championship in that league, was received by Lee "Frisco" Edwards, manager of the Senators, and put on display in a glass case at the High Billiard Parlors.

This handsome trophy is to become the permanent property of the team that wins it three times, necessarily in succession. The city of Portland has won it twice, in 1924 and 1925; Montaville, in 1926; the Commercial lumber company once, in 1923. The first year it was offered, and Salem now holds it for the present year.

Names of the players on all of the teams that have won the trophy, are engraved upon it; and it is the work of engraving the players' names that caused the delay in its arrival here.

The Salem players names are engraved near the bottom of the cup, with those of Manager Edwards and the two pitchers who formed the team's artillery in the later and more crucial games, at the top. These pitchers are Payne Barham and Johnny Beck. Other players whose names appear are Billy Sullivan, Joe Sullivan, Bill Steers, "Red" Ridings, Harold Hook, Gabarina, Jerry Coleman, Vincent Jacobberger, Ed Nelson, Sol Fleury and Faust.

The Senators won the championship after a bad start and an uphill fight, against competition that was rated as the strongest in the state outside of organized ball. They lost two early games, then settled down to business and were defeated no more until near the end of the season, winning the last three of the schedule which was divided into two parts with a new deal for everybody in the second half.

This triumph was made possible, it should be recorded, largely by the good support given the Salem club in comparison to that accorded the other teams in the league, even though the attendance here was not so great as it should be in a city of Salem's size.

Since the City league is reorganized from year to year, it is not certain what clubs will be entered next year, but it is believed certain that Salem will attempt to put a team in the field again.

Trojans Ready For California

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Rain failed to daunt the University of Southern California footballers today in their preparations for the big game here Saturday with California. It gave the Trojans an opportunity to become accustomed to playing under adverse weather conditions should Jupiter Pluvius continue his dampening performances Saturday.

With the Golden Bears expected in town tomorrow, the Trojans were sent through a heavy workout by Coach Howard Jones, who said it was probably the last strenuous drill that would be held before game time.

Gonzaga Plays Saints Sunday

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 27.—(AP)—St. Mary's college football warriors, preparing for their clash with Gonzaga Sunday at San Francisco, finished heavy practice with a whirlwind scrimmage today. The squad will taper off tomorrow with a light workout.

Coach Ed. Madigan is making every effort to bolster the left side of his backfield, weakened through loss of O'Gorman a few weeks ago and lately because of injuries to Bogan. Madigan's latest move has been to shift Haley, a quarterback, to the left half back position.

The Gonzaga team, numbering 23 players, is due to arrive tomorrow from Spokane. They will be quartered in San Francisco and plan workouts at Kesar stadium tomorrow and Saturday.

Last year Gonzaga held St. Mary's to a scoreless tie in the north to slightly mar the record of the Oakland college eleven which went through the season undefeated.

FIGHT TO DRAW

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Doc Snell, Tacoma junior lightweight, and Pico Ramies, Los Angeles Mexican, drew in six sensational rounds here tonight. Ramies had the edge going into the last round but Snell rallied as his opponent tired and took the final by a good margin to gain an even break.

CRIPPLED BEARCATS TO PLAY CHEMAWA

Minus the services of two of his best backfield men, Coach "Spec" Keene will take the Willamette Bearcats to Chemawa this afternoon to battle the Redskins. It will be in the nature of a scrimmage session for the university men, and everyone on the squad will get a chance to play.

French, who was developing into one of the best triple threat men on the squad had the misfortune to break his arm in scrimmage last night and will be unable to play any more this season. Zeller likewise will warm the bench for an indefinite period as the result of a badly wrenched knee.

Since the College of Idaho game, the casualty list on the Bearcat squad has increased at a great rate. Mumford, DePoe, Ackerman, and Rogers all have injuries of one kind or another, and facing the homecoming game against Pacific one week hence, the prospect is dismal.

Coaches Kasberger and Denman will go over to McMinnville today to scout the game between Pacific and Linfield. These two colleges are now holding down the lower berths in the conference percentage table, and the struggle between them to see which goes lower is expected to be close and interesting. Pacific is doped to win.

The Badgers are expected to give the Bearcats a tough game here a week from Saturday in the homecoming fray. Last year, Willamette won by a scant margin, defeating the ancient rival for the first time in several seasons.

AGGIE REGULARS IN GOOD SHAPE

CORVALLIS, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Practically the same lineup that started against Stanford university in Portland will get the call against Washington State college football team here Saturday, Coach Paul J. Schlieser of the Oregon State team said today.

All regulars except Carlson will be in shape for the game, it is now believed. The eleven starters will be Logan, Schell, Badley, Geddes, Millers, Luce and Robbins on the line, with Maples, Scott, Whitlock and Gilmore in the backfield. It is possible Kent may start in place of Luce, and Luby instead of Scott.

Damp weather makes a wet field practically certain, although the footing is firm.

MATCH CALLED OFF

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The title match between Joe Dundee of Baltimore, welterweight champion and the Nebraska "Wildcat" Ace Hudkins, slated today was set for Thursday night, November 3, after its scheduled date of Saturday had been abandoned because of continuing rain, which was not only soaking Wrigley field, but slackening the demand for seats.

LEMON-YELLOW TO WEAR BLUE

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Oct. 27.—(Special)—When the Oregon football team tramps on the Stanford gridiron in Palo Alto Saturday in its annual clash with the Cardinals, the Webfoots will be wearing blue cotton jerseys instead of the regular green, it was announced here.

Heretofore the Oregon gridsters have been wearing a solid green jersey with white numbers. But in the Stanford game the athletes will wear blue with white numbers.

O. S. C. TEAM PLAYS W. S. C. THIS WEEK

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Oct. 27.—(Special)—For two seasons the Oregon State college football teams have maintained an untarnished record in the northwest with 13 wins, no defeats, and no tie games. The game Saturday with Washington State college will determine whether the Orangemen are to hold an undefeated record.

Washington State went through last season undefeated by northwest teams but this year spoiled its record by losing to the University of Washington. Northwest eleven scored 6 points on the Beavers and 12 on the Cougars last season.

From a point of comparative potential strength the Cougars and Beavers seem about evenly matched. Both have outstanding quarterbacks, Butch Meeker of Washington State, and Smiling Howard Maple of Oregon State, easily being possibilities for all-coast if not All-American quarter backs.

The Cougars have a two year veteran at fullback and two one year men at half. The Orangemen have a man from last year's reserves at full, a one year letterman and a two year letterman at half.

The Beaver and Cougar lines are similar. Both have sophomores functioning there, W. S. C. two and O. S. C. three. Each has two double stripe men in the wing berths.

Muscular injuries are healing rapidly in the Orange camp but an epidemic of intestinal flu has laid 10 members of the squad out of practice.

Wednesday the first string varsity scrimmaged with the freshmen eleven for the first time in two weeks. The regulars' line proved invincible against freshmen offense and tore holes in the yearling line on offensive play.

O. N. S. VS. REED CONTEST TODAY

OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL, Monmouth, Oct. 27.—(Special)—The football game scheduled for Friday between Reed College and Monmouth Normal has been called for Thursday instead and will be played on the normal school field. The normal team will be out with a full lineup to meet the Portland boys. Chestnut, Robertson, Le-fever and King, men injured in games with Willamette and Linfield, are back in condition, and the local squad is out to avenge last year's defeat by the Portland team. Since last night's scrimmage with a visiting team the lineup looks better than at any time this season. Previous scores with the team in the past two years show a game a piece and Thursday's contest promises to be a closely fought scrap. In 1925 Monmouth scored 24 to Reed's 0; in 1926

Reed ran up a score of 16 to Monmouth's 8, and Thursday's struggle will be between fairly evenly matched teams.

Tomorrow's game will be first home game of the season and the junior class is sponsoring a big pep rally tonight, with John Lehman of Portland, chairman.
