FALLING WALLS KILL HUNDREDS

CHINESE WOMEN AND CHILDREN ACCIDENT VICTIMS

Total of 125 Crushed by Debris and Splintered Beams in City of Shanghai

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Trapped within falling walls and crushed by debris and splintered beams, 125 of more than 500 women and children in a three-story building perished in the native quarter of Shanghai when the structure collapsed today. At least 200 more were seriously injured.

The disaster came in the midst of a meeting held on the third floor of a picture palace in the Chapel district where women textile workers had gathered to form a new labor union. A local labor leader, Yen Hsin, who was attending the meeting, is the only man known to have been killed.

The workers, after discussing various problems of the new organization had just elected their officers and were standing up to applaud when the floor beneath their feet began to sway. Bearing its burden of 500 or so humans, the floor gave way and crashed down on the second floor of the structure. This floor in turn yielded under the enormous strain and collapsed while the walls on every side tumbled in, showering down bricks and splintered timbers, burying the mass of victims underneath.

As soon as word of the disaster was received, Chinese troops surrounded the area and with polesmen went to work extricating the dead and injured.

A truckload of spectators overturned on its way back to the city. Seventeen were injured.

Cooperative Associations Officials Give Interviews

PORTLAND, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Officials of dairy, apple, prune, cheese and wool cooperative associations in Oregon and Washington were interviewed during the past two weeks by Chris L. Christensen, chief of the division of cooperative marketing, bureau of agricultural economics, United States department of agriculture.

About November 15 his division will begin a business study of the Pacific Cooperative Wool Growers' association at the request of the association directors. A. W. Shwartzout, will have charge of this survey.

Results of these interviews and surveys are not released until they are published in government bulletins. The government, Christensen said in announcing the discovery of the principles and practices of successful cooperative marketing.

REPORTS CHECK UP

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Through army sources it was reported tonight that 28 persons are dead and many homeless in Waterbury, Vt., northwest of Montpelier. The information was contained in a radiogram to the army base from Colonel Frank Hopkins, in command at Fort Ethan Allen, which said:

"First information from refugees from Waterbury states that 28 were drowned there and many were homeless. Food and medical supplies are badly needed. Routes through Smugglers' Notch, possible. An incoming train was stopped by a landslide that way with a pile."

At Waterbury is situated Vermont state hospital for the insane.

Boston Not Hard Hit

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—C and hunger stalked the hills of New England tonight in the wake of the most disastrous floods of this section's history.

Substantial reduction in the parent loss of life furnished to one bright spot in late reports today. Apprehension over the fate of Montpelier, capital of Vermont was removed by the establishment of direct communication.

Large Area Inundated

Although 30 square miles and near the city had been completely inundated only one known death had resulted.

Crashing through power dikes made obstacles, scores of ordinarily peaceful mountain streams now are raging toward the valleys, leading with them tons of mill and store and cottage.

The crest of the flood and the crisis in the cases of scores of towns will not be reached before tomorrow noon, but already there has been recorded a toll of two score and more known dead and property loss which will run into many millions.
