

ADVANCE PLAN FOR MERCHANT MARINE BOOST

War Time Ship Board Head Proposes Half-Billion Revolving Fund

WANTS LOANS ADVANCED

Edward N. Hurley Opposes Direct Government Subsidy as Inefficient and Destructive of Initiative

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Asserting that railroads of the United States are vitally interested in overseas traffic, Edward N. Hurley, war time chairman of the United States shipping board today dispatched a letter to T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the shipping board, outlining a plan for the establishment of a permanent merchant marine.

The need of such a unit in world trade is stressed by Mr. Hurley as a means of meeting increasing competition in foreign trade, and to aid in building up the national defense.

Wants Government Out
The government should not engage in world shipping in competition with the private shipping interests of other nations," Mr. Hurley said, emphasizing the fact that while the government is financing European rehabilitation, much of that money is being used to build up European industries which compete vigorously in world markets.

The merchant marine could be operated out of a $500,000,000 revolving fund which he proposes congress appropriate for loans to shipping companies to build modern passenger and freight ships. The ships are to be built in American yards, with the provision that for every ship built on money borrowed of the government, a given number of the present war built fleet of ships now owned by the government must be purchased by the borrower. Loans would not be made to companies seeking to compete with existing American services.

Asks Railroad Ships
Mr. Hurley would also repeal section 11 of the Panama Canal act which prohibits railroads from owning and operating ships in intercoastal trade, thus opening the way for their engagement in port to port service from any part of the United States. He also advocates long term mail contracts for shipping companies as a means of strengthening their credit.

The war time shipping chief is opposed to a government subsidy because it destroys initiative and breeds inefficiency. American business, he contends, must have at its disposal an American merchant marine to carry up to 50 per cent of exports or suffer in competition with pending European industrial competition.

Midwest manufacturers who have paid their share in building up the Panama canal feel they are being discriminated against in being required to pay an excessive toll on railroad freight to the Pacific coast, as against the Atlantic competitor who ships via the Panama canal at low rates, Mr. Hurley said.

RUM RUNNERS LOSE

DEFENDANTS IN SENSATIONAL LIQUOR CASE ORDERED

PORTLAND, Nov. 9.—(AP)—All defendants in the Pescaha liquor conspiracy case involving the rum runner Pescaha and Captain Robert Pamphlet of the vessel, Jacob Woltte, San Francisco, and others, were commanded today to surrender to the United States marshal here, under a mandate of the United States supreme court. The mandate was entered in the local federal court today.

The case, the largest liquor conspiracy case in this district, followed the capture of the Pescaha off the Columbia river in February, 1925. Included in the case were a group of associates who operated what was termed the "land" group, and alleged to have been headed by Woltte.

Nine of the defendants who stood trial were convicted, sentenced to prison and fined.

license imposed were: Jacob Woltte two years at McNeill Island and a fine of $10,000; Captain Pamphlet, two years at McNeill Island and a fine of $5,000. Other defendants were sentenced to jail terms and fines from $500 to $200.

Captain Pamphlet and his crew are residents of Canada.

HUNDRED YEAR OLD ARGUMENTS MADE

States' Rights Discussed Before Tax Committee at Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Arguments used more than a century ago by Jefferson and Hamilton in their memorable battle over states' rights were recalled today by witnesses discussing proposed repeal of the federal inheritance tax at the house ways and means committee hearings.

Those advocating repeal of the tax called to their support the arguments of Jefferson that the rights of the states, above all things, should be protected. They contended the levy infringed on such rights.

On the other hand, those favoring retention of the tax, while conceding that the rights of states must be protected, referred to the views of Hamilton that in some cases the federal government must act for the states.

Representations of different views, were interrupted frequently by bitter charges that a lobby is maintained in Washington to obtain repeal of the tax. A number of committee members said they had been informed that the American tax payers league obtained much of its financial support from large corporations seeking elimination of the federal levy for purely selfish motives.

An effort was made, principally by Representatives Garner of Texas and Rainey of Illinois, both democrats, to connect the activities of the league with the national council of state legislators. Representatives of the council, all advocating repeal of the tax, constituted a majority of the witnesses heard during the two days' discussion of the state levy.
