

Squad of Nearly 100 Turns Out Seeking Places on Salem High Quintet

ANDERSON STARTS WEEDING PROCESS

Almost a hundred athletes aspiring to places on the Salem high 1928 basketball squad answered Coach Lontie Anderson's official call last night. Before six o'clock came, several unlikely candidates had been weeded out, and before the season is over further along the squad will be reduced to a personnel of 16 or 17 men.

Homer Lyons, last year's captain and a two stripe veteran, was the only experienced man on the floor last night. Tom Duffy will be in school next semester which starts February, and he will start practicing some time this week.

Other promising candidates going through the fundamentals drill last night were Shafer, Beecher, Slegmund, Temple, Gottfried, Graber, Marquis, Perrine, and Ka-foury.

Only two games of any consequence will be placed before the second semester begins, so Duffy's absence at the start will not be a handicap on Salem's chances to get into the state tournament. One of the games will be against Albany and one against Dallas.

Contracts already have been signed by Salem high for games against Dallas, Independence, and Albany. Homer Lyons is arranging the schedule.

PORTLANDER-NAMED GAME COMMISSIONER

Charles E. Miller, prominent lumberman, Monday was appointed by Governor Patterson a member of the state game commission to succeed the late I. N. Fleischer. He will serve under his commission until the year 1930.

Mr. Miller is connected with the Western Oregon Lumber company of Portland, and is an enthusiastic sportsman. During recent years he has maintained a boat on the Deschutes river and has conducted a number of fishing expeditions over the dangerous rapids of that stream.

Motion pictures were taken a year ago showing Mr. Miller's daring activities on the Deschutes. Mr. Miller's mother, an eastern woman, also is an ardent angler, and has accompanied her son on a number of fishing trips in Central Oregon.

This year Mr. Miller, accompanied by his wife and mother, made a trip on the Rogue river to Gold Beach.

Governor Patterson said that Mr. Miller had received the endorsement of a large number of sportsmen, and apparently was well qualified for the position.

Other members of the game commission are L. A. Wright of Union, Ben Dorris of Eugene, M. A. Lynch of Redmond and M. F. Corrigan of McMinnville. Mr. Fleischer, who died in Portland last week, was chairman of the state game commission.

PORTLAND, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Harold Clifford, state game warden, expressed himself as pleased today with the selection by Governor Patterson of Charles E. Miller to fill the vacancy on the state game commission caused by the death of I. N. Fleischer. Miller, a Portland man, is vice president of the West Oregon Lumber company of Linnton.

"Matters such as dumping sawdust in streams, slashing of undergrowth, logging off the timbered areas in streams," said Clifford, "have given us problems which must be worked out to the satisfaction of the timber people and the sportsmen. Mr. Miller is familiar with both sides of these questions and should be a valuable man to the commission."

NORMAL QUINTET SHOWS PROMISE

OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL, Monmouth, Dec. 5.—(Special)—Prospects are good for a strong lineup for the basketball season at the Oregon normal school at Monmouth, according to Coach Meador, who has a turnout of 25 men practicing. The new men from high schools of the state offer some promising material, which will be bolstered up by the six lettermen from last year's championship team who will play again this season.

Last year's veterans who will be included in this season's lineup are Cooke, Schunk, Beerman, Price, Lehman and Phillips. Another of last year's strongest players, Russell, has announced his intention of returning to Normal during the winter term.

SITUATION GLOOMY IN BEARCAT CAMP

With two men temporarily shelved on account of torn ankle ligaments, others down in their studies, and the proposed California tour almost gone glimmering because of difficulty in arranging a suitable schedule from a financial standpoint, the situation in the Bearcat camp is what one might call a bit gloomy.

Litchfield and Ledbetter are shooting baskets but need continually to favor their injuries and it is doubtful if they will be in good condition until the first of January. Coach Keene issued an edict yesterday that any man who dropped below scholastic par in two or more subjects would be eliminated from the squad until the deficiencies were corrected. This is expected to hit two or three men.

Two more letters from the south were received by Coach Keene yesterday, and they contained in substance, the word "No." There are several other schools yet to be heard from, however, and there is a bare chance that the trip will yet go through. With injuries and scholastic deficiencies facing his squad, Keene is not so anxious about the trip as he was earlier in the season.

Cardinal is the shining light on the Bearcat squad, and it is quite likely that the team's "rushing offense" will be built around this fellow. He is much faster than Hartley, who was always a bit slow for the speedy forwards, Ashby and Litchfield, on a scoring drive.

Glass, the other outstanding freshman candidate, is one of the best individual players on the floor, especially as a dribbler. There are few fellows who can break up his dribble, and he is also a good basket shot. Being a high school product of the middle west where they play an individual style of game, he has a tendency in that direction which may interfere with teamwork. Hauk, also from the middle west, had the same tendency last year.

Those now on the squad are Fleisher, Litchfield, Tweedle, Min-

More Games on Home Grid Plan for Willamette Team

Four at home and four away from home is the way Willamette university's football schedule next year will read if proper dates can be arranged by Coach "Spec" Keene and Graduate Manager Sparks at the conference meeting next Saturday morning.

University of Oregon will be the first opponent for the Bearcats. The game will be played on Sweetland field, October 6. Other games on the local gridiron will be against Whitman, Puget Sound, and either Monmouth Normal or Albany college, perhaps both in a double header. The homecoming game will be against Puget Sound.

The Bearcats will travel to Caldwell for the College of Idaho clash. Other away-from-home games will be Pacific, Linfield, and University of Washington. Football receipts this season were $4621.90, $512.90 more than last season, when the receipts were $4109.00. An appropriation of $1000 from the student body, and a guarantee of $2150 from University of Washington were the larger items in the totals for both years.

The homecoming game against Puget Sound in 1926 brought in a total revenue of $750 as against $355.56 this year for the game with Pacific. The crowd attending this year was larger but a special rate for alumni in force this year cut down the receipts.

The two home games in 1926 brought in a total of $321.50. This year, the three home games provided receipts amounting to $1221.90, the Armistice day game with Linfield being the greatest money maker.

When the expenses of the 1926 season were deducted from the receipts, a profit of only $175 was shown. The expenses for this season have not yet been figured, but it is expected that a profit of nearly $400 will develop.

The annual Husky-Bearcat game is the saving grace for Graduate Manager Sparks, as it is possible to clear $1000 out of the $1650 guarantee, and still take a large squad to Seattle.

The action of the Amateur Athletic Union in depriving De Hart Hubbard, famous negro athlete, of his somewhat recently established world's record for the broad jump, comes as a blow to Hubbard and his admirers.

The union, however, acted within its rights and privileges so there is no redress. Hubbard's mark of 26 feet 2 and 1-4 inches, made at Cincinnati last September, was disallowed by the Union due to the fact that there was evidence presented that the take off for his jump was an inch higher than the landing pit.
