

BEAUTIFYING PLAN ADOPTED BY CLUB

Southeast Salem Organization Reflects All of Its 1927 Officers

An active program of beautifying southeast Salem by improving the parking strips; by planting flowers and shrubbery around dwellings, and, as soon as possible, by getting rid of the slaughter houses in that section, was inaugurated by the Southeast Salem club last night, meeting for the last time in 1927.

Members of the club voted to continue the organization during the coming year; praised the officers of the past year for their capable efforts in behalf of the people in that section; extended them a rising vote of thanks; and then re-elected them to serve for another year.

The officers chosen again were Newell Williams, president; John Gray, vice president; and F. O. Breckenridge, secretary-treasurer.

Following an interesting discussion of flowers by Mrs. William Everett Anderson, representative of the Salem Garden club, the members decided to commence their city beautification campaign by improving the campus of Richmond school. John Kluck was named chairman of the committee in charge.

Secretary Breckenridge read a report of the past year's accomplishments, pointing out that active work is being done to correct drainage defects, that engineers are now completing plans for sewer improvement, that re-routing of the street buses better to serve the people has been brought about, and that the city council has been convinced of the undesirability of putting the incinerator in a section destined to be one of Salem's beauty spots.

The club instructed its officers to ask the city council to arrange for more numerous and adequate water mains, especially near the more important buildings. A landing place for the fire department pumper at 24th street and Trade for the better protection of Richmond school house also will be urged.

Percy A. Cupper, special city sewer engineer, spoke briefly concerning the improvement program. A delegation of residents living outside the drainage district attended the meeting seeking information as to what was intended toward aiding the situation outside the city limits.

STEINER FOR SEALS

SENATOR PRAISES FIGHT AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Senator Frederick Steiner stopped long enough in the midst of preparations for the congressional session to write the following letter which was released yesterday by Seal Sale Director White, of the Oregon Tuberculosis association.

"I have noted that you are again undertaking the sale of Christmas Seals for the purpose of financing the future health work carried on by your association.

"The only thing that mitigates the curse of tuberculosis is that it yields to treatment. The fight against tuberculosis is one that invites the best effort because past history shows that such a fight can bring definite results in the saving of human life and the promotion of human happiness.

"I sincerely wish you the greatest success in the annual sale of Christmas Seals and esteem it a privilege to send this word of approval and encouragement. I hope that the effort to stamp out the dread disease of tuberculosis may be carried forward as it has been in the past.

Sincerely yours,
Frederick Steiner."

The senator's statement regarding definite results borne out by the fact that the death toll from tuberculosis has been cut in half since the first Christmas Seals were sold in 1907, and that the disease is decreasing year by year. It is still, however, the most frequent cause of death of young people between the ages of 15 and 40 years.

Terrific Blizzard Sweeps Through Mid-west Section

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 7.—(AP.)

Aided by a mighty blizzard and sub-zero temperatures, winter entrenched itself over a great central area of the country today, with effects of the offensive noted from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico. Loss of several lives was attributed indirectly to the storm and traffic of all kinds was delayed.

Borne from the Rocky mountain region by a stinging northwest wind, the cold wave sent thermometers scurrying sharply downward from balmy temperatures of sixty that prevailed in some middle-west sections yesterday. More than a dozen mountain and midwestern states were wintered, with the storm lashing at the Texas coast where winds of gale force and freezing temperatures were predicted.

Even more severe weather was forecast generally for the affected area tonight, and the cold wave was expected to creep into the south and bear freezing temperatures to southern Louisiana.

The blizzard was the most severe in recent years in some sections and new low record temperatures for the season were set. At St. Paul schools were closed because of the storm's fury.

Three persons lost their lives in a farm house fire in Oklahoma, caused by the explosion of a gas stove because of the cold snap. In Kansas a woman was killed when the automobile in which she was riding skidded from an ice coated pavement into the ditch. Loss of several lives had been reported earlier in the week from Alberta, Canada, where the storm had its inception.

Fear was expressed for livestock caught on the open ranges of western Kansas by the sudden onslaught of the storm. A drop of 70 degrees to 10 below zero was recorded at Garden City in forecast generally for the affected area tonight, and the cold wave was expected to creep into the south and bear freezing temperatures to southern Louisiana.

Lively music makes people feel more active because the heart tends to keep time to any strong rhythm, and a rapid circulation stimulates activity, according to an answered question in Liberty.

Communication was hampered in many sections.

Snowfall was heaviest in the mountain states and in the region north of Nebraska and Iowa. Snowfall apparently was light over Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, western Missouri, northern Oklahoma and the Texas panhandle.

At Lincoln, Nebr., firemen fought a furniture warehouse fire in the teeth of the gale, gaining control after damage totalled a quarter of a million dollars.

Denver, with a minimum of 12 degrees below zero, was the coldest spot in Colorado. Lander, Wyo., reported 22 below and Elk Park, Mont., 35 below. At Santa Fe, N. M., it was four above zero and at Albuquerque an inch of snow was reported.

In the intermountain country temperatures fell to 11 degrees below zero at Idaho Falls, Idaho, while it was 17 above zero at Salt Lake City. Continued cold weather and more snow was in sight for that region.

"He was a young fellow about 20 wearing a toboggan cap. We never found out his name," Stinson explained. "He came on the field this morning and asked a lift
