Miss Laura Heist, who has been head of the girls' school at Baroda, India, for the past five years, was the speaker of the evening.

Her talk, which was one of the most interesting ever given before the club, dealt with the different classes of women in India, principally the Mohammedan and Hindu classes.

She also compared the freedom enjoyed by the women of America and those of India, and described the new methods being used to gain more freedom. The educated men and women of India are realizing more and more that the progress and prosperity of their country depends to a great extent on the welfare of the women.

Several parts of India have recently granted women the suffrage, and the country is rapidly becoming more civilized as a greater number of the people receive education. Miss Heist told of several interesting visits which she had made to various Indian homes.

Musical numbers were given by the club quartet.

A lengthy business session followed the program. Miss June Philpott of the legislative committee spoke of the United States congress which is now in session.
