bombs and then would swing low and strafe the rebels with machine gun fire. The outlaw bands scattered, and it is believed, suffering numerous casualties, then sought the shelter of the forest, above which the planes still hovered, watching for a glimpse of some group in flight—and then more bombs would be dropped. So successful were the bombing operations that the rebels failed to inflict any damage to the relief column, which reached Quillait late in the afternoon.

Force Nearly Doubled WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(AP)—A slashing drive to quiet Augusto Sandino, the Nicaraguan leader whom the Washington government regards as a bandit, will be started soon by the United States marines.

Casualties Arouse Officials Machinery was put into swift motion at the navy department for a more intensive campaign against Sandino, after President Coolidge had gone over with Secretary Wilbur official reports of the recent clashes in which lives of marines were lost.

One battalion of marines was ordered moved from San Diego to the fighting zone and another from Paris Island, S. C., as quickly as transportation can be provided.

From Nicaragua came the word that the commander of the special service squadron had sent today 176 marines in answer to the call for aid from troops engaged Sandino. The reinforcements are from the warships Rochester, Galveston and Tulsa, and will be landed at Corinto, on the west coast within the next two days.

Washington officials are particularly anxious to stamp out the depredations of the dashing Sandino for fear that he might again fan to flame the revolutionary spirit so recently subdued in other parts of Nicaragua.

we referred to the electorate of the city with our recommendation that they be financed through bond issues. To these we added the proposal that the expense of adequately blanketing the city with fire fighting equipment, and that of proper street and bridge maintenance be financed through special continuing tax levies.

Urges Construction To these proposals the answer of the people of Salem was an emphatic yes, evidencing a confidence in us that I will always cherish, and which I view as a mandate of their desires. The various proposals embraced in this program must be carried out to the best of our ability. Each of these projects has been definitely started and cannot be allowed to lag.

To the bridge committee of this council I commend an earnest endeavor to place under contract for construction during 1928 at least six of the bridges contemplated outlined by this body last spring. I further urge that these contracts be let as early as possible.

Uldine Utley, styled by the Associated Press as America's famous 15 year old evangelist, arrived a few days ago from Cleveland, Ohio, to conduct a series of meetings in the Salem armory.

In connection with both of these enterprises it is imperative that estimates of cost shall be prepared at once and the necessary arrangements made to sell the required amount of bonds of the authorized issues. The market for good municipal bonds is comparatively strong at present, but with a presidential election, always reflected by fluctuations in the bonds and securities, looming ahead later in the year there are reliable indications that the market may not be so favorable.

In the contact I have experienced with city affairs and finance during the past year it has been brought to my attention that many economies and savings could be realized through the application of better business methods to the city's business. The city of Salem is, I am convinced, losing thousands of dollars each year in delinquent improvement assessments, long delinquent taxes on property carried on the assessment rolls but not paying its pro rata, and in uncollected revenues from licenses and other miscellaneous sources.

Among other major projects embraced in the stated policies of our administration is that of a desirable revision of the city charter to provide for a more practical and efficient form of government. A special committee working upon a charter embracing the so-called "Council Manager" form of government has its work well under way, I am informed. It is desirable that this revision be completed as early as possible in order that the council may have sufficient time for its proper consideration before submitting the proposed charter to the people at the regular May election of this year. May I also suggest that it is desirable that the employed department heads of the city be vested with a greater individual responsibility for their departments, and that the council allow to them a maximum of latitude in the conduct of their departments consistent with proper supervision of matters of policy by the various committees, and through these committees by the council.

REVIVAL SERIES ON NOTED CHILD EVANGELIST SPEAKS AT ARMORY

Uldine Utley, styled by the Associated Press as America's famous 15 year old evangelist, arrived a few days ago from Cleveland, Ohio, to conduct a series of meetings in the Salem armory. The services are interdenominational in character, and it was announced last night from the armory platform that the campaign will continue each afternoon at 2:30 and each evening at 7:30 throughout this week. A number of local ministers, as well as some visiting clergymen, were present in last evening's service. A large and attentive audience listened to the child-evangelist logically and with considerable ability unfold her topic which subject was listed on the program: "Glory-Glad."

AGGIES DEFEATED BY CHICAGO QUINT

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Oregon Aggies basketball team lost its second game with a western conference five tonight when they were beaten by Chicago 26 to 23.

The westerners jumped into an early lead with their close shot "percentage" system, while the Chicago guards were chasing them widely around the floor. Before the first half ended, however, Chicago learned to cling close to their opponents and the westerners made but eight points in the second half.

Chicago led by one point, 16 to 15 at the half. Asse, the Oregon center, put the visitors in the lead but Zimmerman recaptured it for Chicago with a long field goal and three successful foul shots in a row. Torson, Oregon guard, brought the score up to 24 to 23 with a marvelous long shot just before the end of the game, but Zimmerman ran in for another close basket just an instant before the whistle blew, giving the maroons a three point victory.

FLOOD FORESEEN HERE AS STORM AFTERMATH

A grip of sleet and ice. Along the Oregon and Washington coasts, especially, the snow was vanishing rapidly, with concurrent rising of rivers and threats of floods. Longview, Wash., reported interrupted telephone service, delayed stage traffic and a rise of 4 feet in the Cowlitz river.

The Pacific highway in Washington and Oregon continued open, as did most of the main arteries of travel. Ice jams in the lower Columbia river threatened for a time to interfere with shipping, but St. Helens reorted flocs of slush ice more than a quarter of a mile in width moving out today. Steamships were able to move without inconvenience.

The storm's backbone apparently was broken in eastern and central Oregon, with rising temperatures reported from all sections. In Portland relief from the more serious aspects of the storm brought other conditions almost as unpleasant. Falling trees, icicles and wires carried with them injury and the threat of injury to pedestrians. Icy, slushy sidewalks continued to take their toll of broken legs and arms. There also arose the possibility of flooded cellars, basements and streets, due to ice-clogged gutters and sewers.

(By the Associated Press) Slowly rising temperatures throughout the midwest brought relief from the season's worst cold wave with more than two score dead reported in its wake. The break in the weather's sub-zero grip began last night. Today and tomorrow, the weather ba-

SALEM HI QUINT SCHEDULE FIXED

Ohio yesterday reported acute suffering from the icy grip with three additional deaths blamed against the weather.

The south, also included in the cold spell with below freezing temperatures unique around the gulf, welcomed the break although evidence of the cold snap remained. Daytona Beach reported thousands of dead fish floating on the surface of the water, victims of the freezing wave. Five deaths from the cold were reported as far south as Birmingham, Ala.

Roads blocked by the snow which accompanied the cold wave were being cleared and near-normal highway traffic was resumed. Prairie sections of western Canada were still held in the sub-zero clutches but immediate relief was promised by weather forecasters. More reasonable weather prevailed along the Pacific coast regions. In Philadelphia, one man was frozen to death and ten city schools were forced to close because they were insufficiently heated. Railroad trains were delayed in many regions.

ACCIDENTS UNREPORTED Sheets Not Available to Inspection Under New Law

Under a new state law which took effect January 1, reports of automobile or other traffic accidents made out at police and sheriff headquarters, will no longer be open to inspection by the public. Also, only one copy is made and this is mailed to the office of the secretary of state.

Heretofore, copies of accident reports were kept on open file at police headquarters and were available to public inspection. The change in procedure will probably not meet with any criticism from the public, inasmuch as accident reports are numerous and as a rule are of a commonplace nature. It is presumed that the reports will still be accessible to inspection at the office of the secretary of state by officers of the law or others who have a vital interest in them.

The new form is limited to one sheet and is printed on both sides. Unless property damage results from an accident the persons involved in the accident are not required to make a report.
