ARDAN MOR

As I was climbing Ardan Mor
From the shore of Sheelin lake,
I met the herons coming down
Before the water's wake.

And they were talking in their flight
Of dreamy ways the herons go
When all the hills are withered up
Nor any waters flow.

Mary Lewis Has Spent Entire Life Studying to Achieve Present Fame

Opportunity, luck, whatever you may call it, has undoubtedly had much to do with the phenomenal rise to fame of Mary Lewis, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, the goal of so many thousands of singers, but no matter what opportunity may be offered if the person isn't ready for it, that opportunity goes for naught—at least that is the opinion of the soprano who will be heard here on January 26th at the Elsinore theater.

"I have had success and good fortune, just to be at the Metropolitan Opera House means so much," Mrs. Lewis says quite frankly, "but when people think, if they think at all of how I got there, they just remember the two years I spent abroad in the span from musical comedy to grand opera. They don't know the many hours, months, years, that I spent studying the piano, violin, and voice, ever since I was a wee child just able to climb on a piano stool. I have worked harder than anyone would believe, so that when the opportunity came, I would believe, so that when the opportunity came, I would be ready for it."
