

SIDELIGHTS OF THE Stage and Screen

Capitol Theater
Bligh's Capitol will offer an exceptionally fine bill for the Friday's Association vaudeville, consisting of five real high class acts. Ned Haverly is a blackface single with a good monologue, a couple of tuneful songs and a dance which is said to bring loads of applause every time it is performed. The dance is on the order of Eddie Leonard's "Roly Boly Eyes" and dance. Ned puts his numbers over in typical darky fashion for he is a real Southern boy and has made a first hand study of his character. Admirers of dancing will find much to please them in Dance Whirls. Some remarkable stepping in ultra-finished style will be seen in this sumptuously staged revue. There are three young women and two personable young men in the company. Dance Whirls is an act of more than usual attractiveness and novelty, in which will be seen a series of whirlwind dances so gracefully and perfectly presented as to typify the expression, "the poetry of motion."

Described as a "sure fire" comedy act, Bogert and Mitchell will appear in a little offering entitled "The Kid," consisting of songs and talk. Miss Mitchell does an interesting kid character who engages in conversation with a vaudeville performer, portrayed by Mr. Bogert. The dialogue is up-to-the-minute, and the songs are of the special variety.

Music can be served with or without the trimmings, trimmings in this instance meaning songs and dances. Jimmy Holton and Pearl Brough however, will entertain with music and harmony singing appetizer, and, and closing with a Violin Courtship. In between there are acrobatic dances, violin numbers, imitations and songs. Their Violin Courtship is an original conception, and is copyrighted in Washington, D. C.

A laugh a second is promised by Hubert Dyer, one of the foremost silent comedians. He will extract his laughter with the aid of his partner, merely by his peculiar and eccentric manner of doing things. Mr. Dyer and his associate are artistic in their style of work, which is of the aerial variety. However, they have long since discarded doing straight performances and indulge in a variety of buffoonery which proves exceptionally taking.

"SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS" AT ELSINORE

Carson Approves Wonderful Film and Urges Patrons To Attend

This story concerns itself with John H. Carson and "The Shepherd of the Hills," which is being shown at the Elsinore. It scarcely need be said that Mr. Carson was some time ago returned to the office of district attorney of Marion county, that he might uphold the laws which the good burghers felt should be enforced.

"Every citizen of Salem and vicinity should see Harold Bell Wright's film version of his masterpiece, 'The Shepherd of the Hills,' Mr. Carson said. It is beautifully portrayed—pardon my being trite—and it holds to the original tale. Everyone, I believe, will be benefited by visiting the Elsinore and seeing the picture." Mr.

Two hundred thousand extra votes for every $12.00 worth of subscriptions turned in during the first week of your entry. These may consist of one two-year subscription, two one-year subscriptions, or six months subscriptions, or any other combination making a total of $12.00 on subscriptions. These votes are in addition to the regular schedule and do not interfere with them in any way. This is your opportunity to get into the race good and strong with one stroke.

Easy to Start
The best time to enter the campaign is now. The time that your start is now, while this greatest of extra vote offers is in force. Your participation in the campaign will be pleasant. The ease with which you will accumulate votes will surprise you. Merely part of your spare time is all that is needed to win. It only requires a little effort on your part to get started.

Simply clip the nomination blank from the campaign announcement appearing in another part of today's Statesman and send it in and you will be supplied with all necessary forms for use in securing subscriptions.

HOTELLING PUT AT HARD LABOR FOR LIFE TERM

the immobile countenance of the slayer, Hotelling was shaken and left back.

After Judge Brennan had pronounced sentence, Schneider walked to the bench and extended his hand. The judge took it.

"Thank you," Schneider said.

The court proceedings were brief. Hotelling and his guards arrived from Ionia a little after 3:30 o'clock. A few minutes later the arraignment took place. No extra guards around the courthouse were needed as there were few persons in the building and none who threatened to interfere.

Slayer Closely Guarded
The prisoner was shuffled to a place before the judge between two officers.

"You are charged with first degree murder," the judge declared. "Do you plead guilty or not guilty?"

Hotelling looked dumbly back at William Seegmiller, his attorney, for a second. Then he breathed "guilty."

Leslie Schneider, the girl's father, was the first witness. He formally identified her, Dr. W. H. Marshall, the physician who conducted the autopsy followed. Seegmiller offered no objection nor did he enter a single word in behalf of his prisoner.

"Does that end the proof?" the judge asked the prosecutor, William Roberts.

Roberts and Seegmiller nodded. "Stand up!" barked Judge Brennan at Hotelling, who had sunk into a chair as though even at this hour was too indifferent to pay attention. The defendant arose and faced the stern judge.

"What have you to say?"

Regret Expressed
"All I have to say is that you take the family into consideration," the murderer replied.

"You appear to have no regret. You did not take this family into consideration," the judge continued.

"I have the deepest regret in the world."

That was Hotelling's one animated reply. He pitched his voice high, swung his head up from the downcast pose he maintained the rest of the time and gazed at the judge as though to challenge the claim that he was not sorry for what he did.

"How many times have you done this before?" the judge went on.

"I never done it in the world before."

Admits Former Crime
"You assaulted two other little girls over there near Oswosso, didn't you?" the judge asked.

"Yes sir," came the mumbled reply.

The judge then pronounced his wish that capital punishment could be ordered and pronounced sentence.

That was all. The crowd was ordered to remain in the courtroom. Sheriff's deputies hustled Hotelling's side and marched him out through a door at the side of the room. As he slouched along his course again passed within a few feet of Schneider. The fatalist's eyes still blazed angrily. Two deputy sheriffs placed restraining hands upon his arm.

Guards and prisoner climbed down the stairs to the waiting automobile. A roar of the powerful motor and they were away, not more than a half hour after they arrived.

SEARCH FOR FLYER GROWING HOPELESS

Efforts Made To Obtain New Clues In Wide Hunt For Fred Hoyt

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 18.—(AP)—A careful check of all Associated Press reports received from southern Idaho and northern Utah towns was made by aviators searching for Fred Hoyt, missing flyer, in an effort to find some new clues upon which to press the search tomorrow.

Four planes, two operating from Salt Lake and two from Burley, Ida., today combed the entire section near St. Revell, Ida., where Hoyt's plane was last seen Saturday afternoon when he headed into a blizzard as he was flying from here to Boise, Ida.

Lieutenant Russell Maughan, army aviator in charge of the search declared that not a trace of the missing flyer was found though even the flimsiest rumors had been run down.

Observation conditions were exceptionally good, the fog that has held up the search for the last two days having dissipated.

In view of the careful but fruitless search made, aviators said they were very dubious of ever finding Hoyt alive. Weather permitting, however, the search will be continued tomorrow both by plane and by posers of ranchers organized from southern Idaho towns.

WICHITA, Kas., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Marie Hoyt, wife of Fred Hoyt, missing sales manager and test pilot for the Stearman Aircraft corporation here is in a state of nervous collapse from the uncertainty of her husband's fate. Friends are in constant attendance at her apartment. The Hoyts were married shortly before Christmas at Denver.

BOURBONS CLASH OVER SMITH AND CATHOLICS

SENDING WRITERS DOWN THERE FROM NEW YORK TO TRADUCE MY STATE." In opening his reply Robinson said and other members of the special committee which investigated the Hearst documents agreed with him that there was no suspicion that the Roman Catholic church had anything to do with the documents. Then the Arkansas expressed "amazement" that Senator Hefflin had called attention that Mrs. William Randolph Hearst was a Catholic, as if that had any connection with the publication of the documents.

Leadership Challenged
Hefflin was in his feet immediately, demanding the discharge of Robinson from the committee but when the democratic leader asked unanimous consent for an immediate vote on the proposition the Alabamian objected.

As the Arkansas senator then denounced Hefflin's attack on the Catholic church and Governor Smith, the Alabamian challenged his leadership of the party in the senate.

Hefflin dared any democratic senator who would rebuke him to stand up. None did but shortly afterwards Reed of Missouri, arose and walked from the chamber.

Plea Dramatic
Again Hefflin called upon every democratic senator who approved of the attack made on him to stand up. Again his colleagues remained seated and the Alabamian declared that this showed disapproval of Robinson's leadership. A roar of laughter swept the chamber and galleries alike.

Senator Robinson said that it was "with peculiarly bad taste, without justification in the conscience of a single one of his colleagues, the senator from Alabama was lugged into this debate the name of prospective presidential candidates."

Declaring that he had heard Hefflin "denounce the Catholic church and the pope of Rome and the cardinals and the bishops and the priests and the nuns," Senator Robinson said he was "sick and tired of it as a democrat."

"I would like to have the senator make that speech in Arkansas," Hefflin said.

BUREAU CHARGED WITH ATTACK ON ASSOCIATION

missioner showing that Miller and Tracy had contributed $85 to the advertising fund. Mr. Mount alleged that only $100 was raised for advertising purposes.

The further charge was made by Dr. McMillan that at a meeting of the undertakers association and Mr. Mount held in Portland January 9 it was decided to broadcast certain propaganda in hope of defeating the plans of the Union service corporation.

Evidence was placed before the state corporation commissioner today to show that the Union Service association had purchased an undertaking establishment in Portland and that it was ready to begin operations as soon as the permit to seal stock was forthcoming.

The plan of the association is to take care of the funeral needs of its members over a period of years at cost plus 10 per cent. The association was promoted by Charles Merrill and A. Smith Nelson. Charles Yates is now in charge of the affairs of the service association.

Mr. Mount, in one of his letters to the state corporation department said:

"When Messrs. Merrill and Nelson left this city they turned over the business to Mr. Yates, a disbarred attorney who has been guilty of various violations of law."

Regarding other officers of the association, Mr. Mount said:

"I can't find that they have even been connected with the undertaking business. Dr. McMillan and Dr. J. W. Hamilton, president, are both dentists. R. W. Casebeer is manager of a tire company while Fred H. Parrish, treasurer, is a painter."

Mr. Mount said the association offered him the job of local manager at $20,000 a year.

The application for the permit to seal stock in the service association has been taken under advisement by the corporation department. Mr. LaRoche is attorney for the association.

HOW TO FIGHT EXCESS FAT

There are hard ways, like starvation, but fewer and fewer employ them. There is a pleasant way, modern and scientific, which combats the cause. A vast number of people now use it. And the slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.

That method is embodied in Marmola's prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. And everybody, in almost every circle, sees the change. New beauty, new health, new vitality.

Each box of Marmola's contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Learn the facts about Marmola, because of the good it has done. Ask your druggist—now—for a $1 box with the book. Then decide.
