

'SHEPHERD OF HILLS' AT ELSINORE TODAY

'The Shepherd of the Hills' has the approval of the leading citizen of the sovereign state of Oregon.

Governor I. L. Patterson, always conservative, who has refused to endorse a thousand and one movements, yesterday added his word of praise for 'The Shepherd of the Hills.'

"However," it was added by Governor Patterson, 'The Shepherd of the Hills' as a story is certainly a sermon for any one and of the motion picture is anywhere near a portrayal of the book it should be seen by every one.

"I am a firm believer in the production of such pictures, with clean and moral atmosphere, and trust that there will be more of this kind shown."

Besides Governor Patterson, a number of ministers, District Attorney J. H. Carson and hundreds of laymen have approved the picture which may not be seen after today.

The management of the Elsinore was disappointed and surprised today when it received a wire stating that Mary Lewis, singer, who was scheduled to appear here next Thursday, was required to return to the Metropolitan at New York thereby cancelling her engagement.

A substitution, which bookers have promised will be equally as excellent, is promised, and those who have made reservations are urged to retain them.

Don't forget 'Man, Woman and Sin' starring Jeanne Eagels and John Gilbert, which opens next Wednesday. The widely heralded picture deals with 'The Clarion Call of the Press.'

PASTOR USES GUN

NEGRO MINISTER WAVES REVOLVER FROM PULPIT

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Rev. W. V. Eddings, negro pastor of a Duquesne church, was found guilty of carrying and pointing a gun here after members of his congregation testified he appeared in the pulpit and "fanned" the audience with a "big black pistol."

The minister, according to witnesses, was reading a notice that Joe Johnson was ousted as a church deacon when Johnson rose in his seat. Ordered to "sit down," Johnson testified he sat down. Then, it was testified, the minister drew the gun and flourished it, and Deacon Johnson and several of his friends went out nearby windows. Others, loyal to the pastor, in factional difficulties, deserted him and the church soon was empty.

Rev. Eddings, on whom sentence was postponed, pending a motion for a new trial, testified that all he could remember of the disturbance was that someone hit him on the head with a piano stool.

WCTU HEAD COMING

MRS. EDITH JOLLEY TO SPEAK HERE FEBRUARY 22

Mrs. Edith Jolley, state president of the W. C. T. U., will be in Salem, February 22nd, and the local chapter of the organization is arranging with local school officials for her appearance at certain buildings to make addresses on the subject of good citizenship.

Practically all schools in the city will have programs in the morning of Washington's birthday.

Marshfield Reports 2nd Paralysis Case of Year

MARSHFIELD, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The second case of infantile paralysis to develop since Saturday has been discovered. Margaret, 10, daughter of Mrs. Bert May was quarantined. She had attended the fifth grade of Harding school. Health officials went into conference to determine upon the cause, heavily loaded with logs, careened down the incline.

ERIN'S PRESIDENT VISITS IN AMERICA

Cosgrave Passes Through New York In Short Order; Chicago Next

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP)—President William T. Cosgrave of the Irish Free state whirled through New York so fast today on his first visit to America that he was gone almost before it was realized he was here.

Three thousand police were called out to preserve order but they had almost nothing to do beyond watching the parade and listening to the band.

A few very minor disorders were quickly quieted but they did not escape the quick eye of the little blonde Irishman.

Asked as he was leaving if he had noticed the weak attempts at unfriendly demonstrations, he chuckled and replied "Oh, yes indeed."

The liner Homeric on which President Cosgrave came to America reached quarantine late last night but the passengers remained aboard. This morning the Irish leader was transferred to the city by Macom and brought to the battery by the mayor's welcoming committee, each silk hatted member wearing a large badge on which the visitor's name was spelled "Cosgrove" instead of Cosgrave, by what Grover Whalen, the mayor's welcome in chief, called a "stupid error."

It was possible that somewhere on his journey President Cosgrave might easily enough meet Eamonn de Valera, Irish republican leader and his political adversary who is also in America but little was said about that.

"My mission is one of friendship," the president told reporters. "It would not be fitting for me now to a peak of Mr. De Valera."

S-4 BRINGS FIGHT

SENATE PUTS IN STORMY SESSION WITHOUT RESULT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—After clashing intermittently for more than four hours today as to whether a presidential commission or congress shall investigate the S-4 disaster, the senate adjourned without a vote on the house resolution which automatically went back to the calendar.

Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking democrat on the naval committee, demanded a vote but Chairman Hale of that committee objected on the ground but several senators wanted to speak on the resolution.

Then the Virginian served notice that he would object to the resolution being called up again out of order.

"I will not be trifled with this way," he declared. "I got out of a sick bed to come here and it will take unanimous consent to get this resolution up again out of its regular order."

Under the leadership of Swanson the democrats demanded a separate investigation by congress of the disaster with the presidential commission inquiring only into devices to prevent such disasters in the future and for saving officers and men after submarines are sunk.

INDIVIDUALISM LOST

ROY HARDING SPEAKS AT WEEKLY LIONS LUNCHEON

A million hands come to the aid of the individual when he wishes to express himself in this day. Roy Harding, legal adviser for the state highway department, told Salem Lions yesterday. Individualism as it was in frontier times has not survived in the present day competition only so far as relates itself to society.

Harding likened an individual to a rain drop which as a part of the sea might carry vessels to foreign ports, but which a single unit might be translated into vapor by a child.

hop suit and tries to make it pay. The races start, business booms and my what a trick the crazy inventor played by Barney Hagen with a machine that will start the world talking. He gets the hotel in an uproar when he tries it out. Also gets Bozo in on it. There's a card shark who falls in love with the inventor's wife and so does Bozo. Well, it's just one thing after another. We are sure you will like this little comedy. Miss Lowell and Bozo in a mixed trio featuring Barney Hagen, the tenor who possesses a very nice voice.

cradle of mother earth in frontier times, but now with seventy-five million of the country's population "just getting by," and ten to twelve million on the verge of starvation two cries are heard. One comes from the men in whose pockets money is concentrated, and the other from the masses, crying for aid. The ideals of unrestricted competition for the world's goods, and government of the people, for the people, and by the people which came from the frontier, appear thus to be at variance, said Harding.

Harding paid tribute to Benjamin Franklin as the man whose influence brought about the constitution. He had no hand in drafting the paper, but was instrumental in getting recesses of long duration called so that delegates might rub shoulders with one another and bring about harmony. Franklin was thrifty in his relation to fellow men, the speaker said.

Harding was formerly a member of the Willamette university law school faculty.

Leslie Sprinzler sang two numbers for the clubmen, accompanied by Betty Bedford.

DEBATERS TRY OUT

WILLAMETTE TO SELECT TWO FOR WORLD TOUR

Try-outs to determine the personnel of the two man debate team which will travel from January to June 1929 on a transcontinental and European debate tour are being conducted at Willamette university by Dr. John O. Hall, debate coach. The try-outs involve written as well as oral tests and the standing of students in public speaking class work will carry weight in determining the men who will go.

Among aspirants to the trip are Robert Witly, whose oration rated second place in the national peace contest last year, and Charles Redding, three year varsity debater. Both men were members of the team which won the championship of the Pacific Forensic league last season.

Among the schools which have already signified a wish to meet the debate team are Denver university, University of Wyoming, University of West Virginia, University of Alabama, Louisiana state university, Lawrence college and Wheaton college.

The European tour is to be arranged for Willamette by the Institute of International Education, 522 Fifth avenue, New York City.

'SUPERIORS' CHOSEN

ONLY FOUR BOYS IN ADVANCED ENGLISH CLASS

That girls at Salem high school are better English students than boys is indicated in the fact that only four boys were chosen to enter the "superior English class," which will be started next semester and taught by Mrs. Ellen A. Fisher. Seventeen girls were found eligible for admittance.

The average grade was used in determining the class group, but attitude and consistency of effort also were considered.

The class will cover not only regular English work but interesting studies in socialized recitation will be made.

Members of the class will be: Lena Widwick, Eloise White, Lucille Harlan, Jack Routh, Marian West, Lila Cation, Minnie Heaman, Barbara Moburg, Phyllis Oaks, Milo Ross, Aulden Reeder, Floyd Albin, Dorothy Gatekunst, Catherine Mulvey, Ellen Jean Moody, Annabell Toose, Theima La Duke, Irene Blackberry, Harriet Adams, Isabel Childs and Muriel White.

Four students made suitable grades for eligibility but cannot enter the course on account of program conflicts. They are Ray Lotzky, Mamie Hillman, Floyd King and Irma Sawyer.

Two Steamers Formerly of Dollar Line Renamed

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—The steamers Robert Dollar, Esther Dollar and M. S. Dollar, purchased from the Robert Dollar company, San Francisco, by the Canadian-American Shipping company, Ltd., Vancouver, B. C., will be renamed respectively the Chief Captiano, Chief Maquila and the Chief Skidgate, after Indian chiefs famed in the historical lore of British Columbia. The fleet will be known as the Chief line.

BOURBON DEFENDS COOLIDGE POLICIES

Senator Bruce of Maryland Speaks Upon Situation in Nicaragua

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The administration's policy toward Nicaragua was vigorously defended today in the senate by a democratic stalwart, Bruce of Maryland.

Replying to a demand of Senator Dill of Washington, also a democrat, that American marines be withdrawn from the Central American republic the Marylander declared that the only people in this country who opposed the administration's course were "extreme pacifists and radicals."

This aroused Senator Dill who accused Bruce of classifying him as a radical, but the latter entered a disclaimer, explaining that what he had said was that as far as he knew "every radical in this country" was opposed to the government policy.

Wants Thorough Probe

"And in that connection," Senator Bruce went on, "I would like to see the authority of the Mexican committee of which I am a member, extended so that it might determine how far clandestine correspondence has gone on between the radicals and communists in this country and those in Mexico and Nicaragua."

Bruce added that he did not think any secretary of state had been more unjustly misrepresented than had Secretary Kellogg on his intervention in Nicaragua.

"Has he done anything that Grover Cleveland would not have done?" the senator demanded.

Dill Plays Policies

Protesting against "the murder of Nicaraguans" Senator Dill said the real reason why the marines were being kept in the southern republic was to protect the property of Americans there "which was obtained by speculation."

"This is one of the foulest and blackest of crimes," Dill added, "that has been committed against the men who enlisted in the armed forces of this country to protect its flag."

After describing Sandino as a bandit followed by a "gang of irregulars" Senator Bruce said that in addition he is a prohibitionist.

"He found out however, that he could not enforce prohibition even by the rifle and machine gun," added the Maryland senator.

"I have been wondering why the senator from Maryland was opposed to Sandino but I know now that it is because he (Sandino) is a prohibitionist," interjected Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana.

"I don't know anything about Sandino but he certainly is a characteristic one," replied Bruce.

Statesmen are inclined to protest that the Smith-Vare debate holds up proceedings at a time when filibustering is of no practical use to anybody.—Washington Star.

GET STARTED NOW IN GREAT CONTEST

You Can Win Your Way To Front and Keep It, if You Will It

When the management determined to give away over $6,000 in automobiles and prizes in The Statesman's big contest, it was so liberal that scores of candidates would get in and carry on. The fact that one stands to win prizes to the value of over $2,000.00 and that everybody wins something ought to have been enough to "knock everyone cold." Really, that may be the case. Maybe you are "knocked so cold" you haven't yet fully recovered.

You expected everyone in Salem and vicinity to get into this contest, and everyone in Salem and vicinity expected you to get in. The result is but a few are in. So few, in fact, that The Statesman is not satisfied as yet. More nominations are needed.

Should Not Go Begging

There ought to be at least as many candidates working right now as there are prizes offered. Not one of the prizes—the Oakland Six Sedan, the Chrysler, the Ford Phaetons, Trego radios, electric washing machines and the many other prizes—ought to go begging.

The cash commission of 20 per cent offered to all who do not win one of the grand prizes, ought, in this day, to be inducement enough to get busy.

You talk about money being tight. You talk about there not being enough to do to make money. You talk about not being able to do this or that. You cry because of an alleged tightness in financial affairs. Yet here is $6,000.00 waiting for men and women, married or single, to take as gifts without the cost of a cent. And what is the result? Everyone is afraid that someone else has more brains, more selling ability and more friends who will rally around him or her in his or her effort to win.

The response to the contest is slow. Really, it would seem that there are enough men and women in Salem and outlying territory who have ambition enough to grasp this exceptional opportunity. You surely have the ability and the friends. Is it that you need some unknown factor to command you to take hold of yourself in order that you be up and doing? In offering The Statesman you are doing your friends a favor, giving them an opportunity to take advantage of a real newspaper. In fact, "every inch a newspaper," might well be The Statesman's slogan.

These Things Certain

Are you too big to consider real money? Are you too big to have a place for $2,000.00? Can you honestly excuse yourself for not helping yourself? Especially when you know you will benefit financially. The Statesman will absolutely and positively award each and every one of the grand prizes and pay the cash commission of 20 per cent to all the candidates who do not win one of the grand prizes. The Statesman must go through with this contest. The Statesman must do as announced.

REGULAR CLARION STAFF GETS SIX WEEKS VACATION

Editor Lucy Brown of the Clarion, Salem high news publication, will enjoy a vacation for the next six weeks while the three classes engage in a contest to see which can produce the best paper. The seniors have elected Eloise White to edit their edition which comes out February 3.

Julia Creech will be editor of the junior class issue, and David Eyre will direct the work on the sophomore paper.

Audien Reeder will select a committee of town people to judge the publications. The contest counts toward the interclass rivalry cup.

no matter whether there are ten or two hundred candidates. Maybe you have been scared by false rumors. There will be no talk and talk. You can hear anything you want to hear. You can get scared if you want to. If you have been considering entering this contest, you owe it to yourself to know all there is about it. You owe it to yourself to investigate. Come to The Statesman Office and have this wonderful opportunity explained to you. Don't make a snap decision and say when it is all over, "Oh, if I had but known that is all it would take. I could have done it."

Get Started Now

Clip the nomination blank elsewhere in this issue. That gives you 50,000 votes. Then come to The Statesman office and learn all about it. If you prefer and you will phone or write The Statesman, a representative will call on you and explain fully.

If you are already in, carry on. Do something for yourself. You have it in you. You can prosper. You can win. Don't be a quitter. Don't be a coward. Don't be bluffed out. Remember there is some one who would like to see you quit. There is some one who knows you have it in you to win.

Now let's go. Don't let another hour be wasted. Get started. Get a working outfit. Start on the way to make real money for yourself.

Contest department of The Statesman is open every night until 8:30 o'clock, located at 215 South Commercial street. Phone No. 583.

LOCAL GIRL CHOSEN

DORIS LOVELAND CHAIRMAN OF GIOCOSO

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Jan. 20.—Doris Loveland of Salem, junior in the school of commerce, is general chairman of Giocoso, the all-women's annual fun fest, sponsored by the Physical Education club. The event will be February 9 from 7:30 to 9 o'clock in the women's building and is for women only.

Giocoso creates much interest and rivalry among the women's classes, each trying to outdo the other in the stunts performed. An opportunity is given each class to exhibit its special talent in gymnastics, music and the like, both seriously and in sport. Prizes are given to the class making the best showing.

S.P. STARTS A BIG TOURIST CAMPAIGN

Will Advertise Oregon and Coast Attractions the World Over

The scenic and romantic appeal of the west is being carried to the people of the United States through a new national campaign of advertising started this month by the Southern Pacific company.

The 1928 campaign will depict the scenic wonders and the recreational opportunities of Oregon and the whole Pacific coast according to announcement of M. Scott, assistant passenger traffic manager, Portland, but will direct attention to the finer details of the leading scenic spots, whose faster trains now bring the east nearer to the west.

Lure of the West

The first advertisements appearing this month in national periodicals and eastern newspapers, present in the form of an unusual picture map, done in a unique style, an outline of the outstanding scenic attractions of Oregon and the Pacific coast and the chief transcontinental travel routes to the west.

This will be followed up by a series of advertisements depicting the spirit of the best of the coast. Attention will be directed to the fact that over these pioneer trails, today the lines of the first transcontinental railroad, the finest of modern trains are easy and comfortable across the land of charm west of the Rockies, scenic playground of the continent.

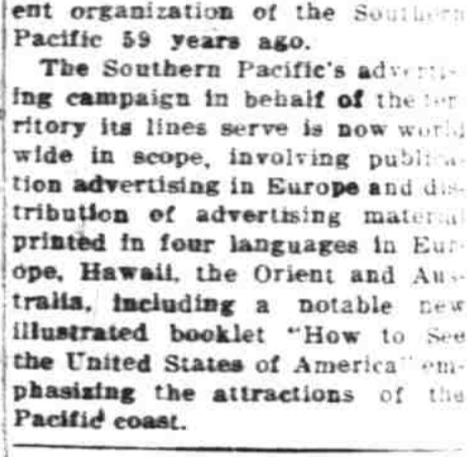

The advertising is to be followed up with the solicitation of Southern Pacific representatives that are located in centers of population throughout the country and widespread distribution of a new publication "How Best to Use the Pacific Coast."

World Wide Advertising

The present campaign of Southern Pacific is a new phase of the railroad's advertising work in Oregon and the west, in which many millions of dollars have been spent since the western branch of the first transcontinental railroad was completed by the present organization of the Southern Pacific 55 years ago.

The Southern Pacific's advertising campaign in behalf of the territory its lines serve is now wide in scope, involving publication of advertising material printed in four languages in Europe, Hawaii, the Orient and Australia, including a notable new illustrated booklet "How to See the United States of America" emphasizing the attractions of the Pacific coast.
