

CONSERVATIVE GARB FAVORED FOR WORK

Right Kind of Business Men Want Women To Dress Suitably For Office

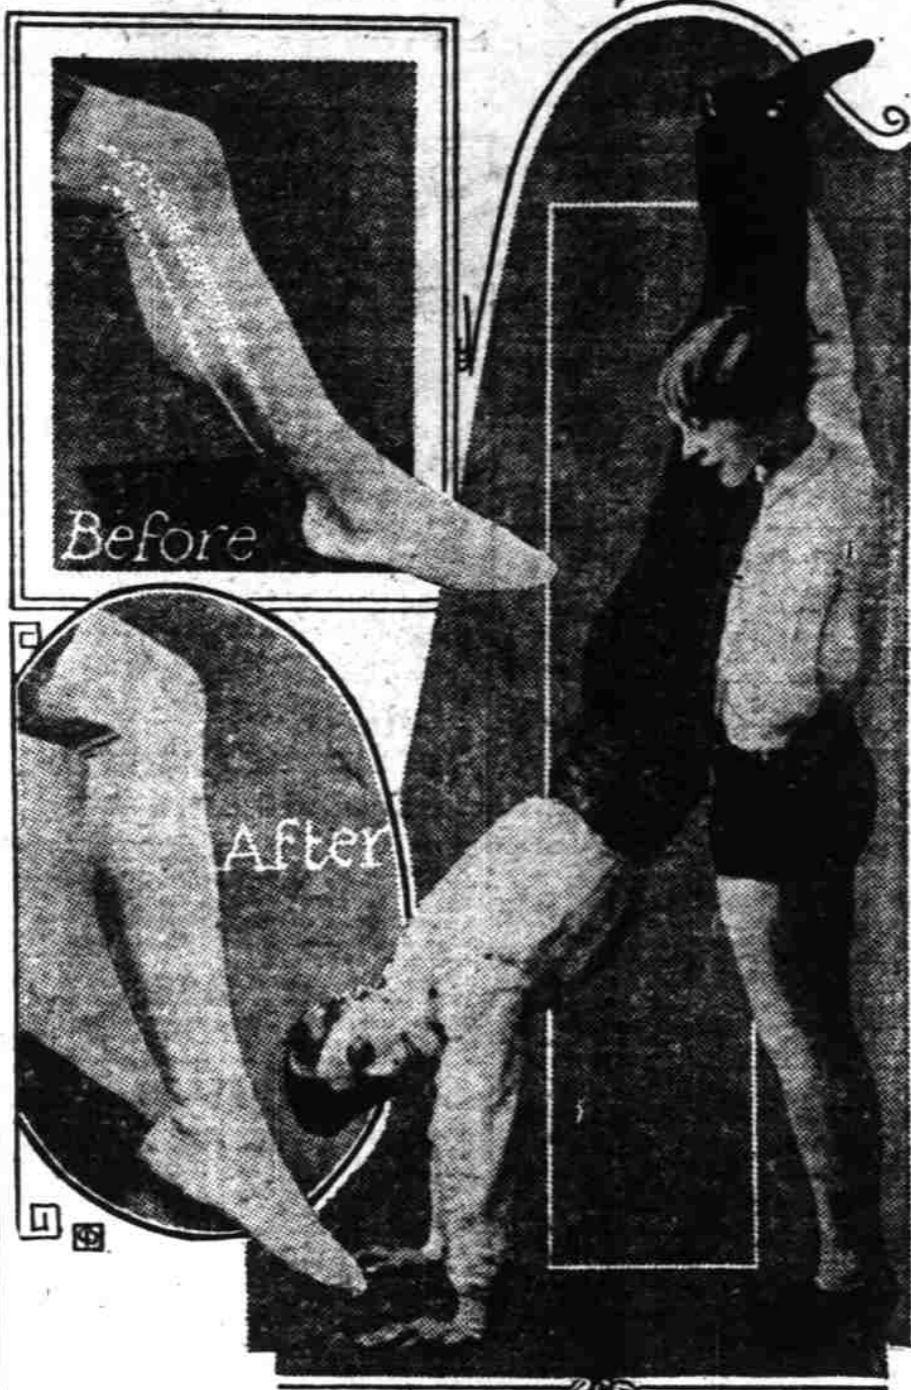

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Proper clothes and courage to express judgment are important aspects to the woman who would succeed in business, believes Miss Lena M. Phillips, president of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs and herself a successful New York attorney.

"The right kind of business men want women in their employ to dress suitably," she says. "A thin blouse over pink ribbons may prove attractive to some men, but the women who have made good wear conservative clothes—the kind that look simple, but cost much."

"The responsibility of making their way in the business world rests first of all on the women. Business men are willing to pay for judgment and for decision. They don't want to employ women that 'yes, yes' to everything they say. They could get phonographs to do that and much more cheaply."

Miss Phillips believes women must learn to show greater independence, self-confidence and courage. The time will come, in her opinion, when virtually every girl will be given a business or professional training.

HUBBY KEEPS HER HOSE MENDED

"Why that child can't keep Anita in silk stockings," said society last year when Miss Anita Card left a fashionable finishing school to elope with young William Van Dyke, of Chattanooga, Tenn. Undaunted, William proceeded to invent a needle for invisibly mending silk hose and formed a company for its manufacture. PSYCHOLOGY AID TO YOUNG GIRLS

"Growing Up Business" Under Complicated Conditions Considered

That this business of growing up under the complicated conditions of modern life is eased up a bit for the girl interested in the activities of Girl Scouting was the conclusion reached in a group of conferences held by Dr. Elizabeth Kemper Adams, secretary of the Education Department of the Girl Scouts at Camp Edith Macy, the national Girl Scout training school for leaders in Briarcliff Manor, New York recently.

"It was pointed out," said Dr. Adams in an article in the Girl Scout Leader regarding the conferences, "that the years from ten to sixteen are an insecure period emotionally, when a girl is treated now as a child and now as an adult, and when she particularly needs to establish happy and active social relations without the element of authority and compulsion other than that imposed by the voluntarily chosen group."

The conference emphasized the opportunity given through Girl Scouting for a girl to explore her world and herself as a means of growing up emotionally and socially as well as intellectually and chronologically. Discussions on the differences between "escape running-away" and "renewal running-away" were held and showed how "running away" to camp should give a girl perspective, self-control, ability to get along with others, and new sources of happiness that would send her back to her family loss of a child and more of a companionable and responsible person.

"That Girl Scouting should guard against duplicating school work for the girl between ten and sixteen was emphasized," said Dr. Adams, "for they are too often working under extreme pressure although their physical and social growth is making heavy demands upon their energies."

The general aim of the course was to keep the discussion as untechnical and concrete as possible, Dr. Adams asserted, and to emphasize the point of view that Girl Scouting provides an invaluable aid to girls in a rather complicated business of growing up under the conditions of modern life.

BOND PURCHASES CAUSES EXCHANGES

Department's tentative supervision over foreign financing, caused delays here and there, notably in large advances to the Polish and Prussian Governments, but on the whole the foreign issues went through with comparatively little friction.

American capital went into many countries, including Germany, Italy, Poland, Austria, Australia, Canada, Irish Free State and Latin America. While the majority of these loans were governmental, large amounts were tendered for foreign industrial, railway and banking securities.

One of the most interesting of the foreign financing programs was the unique plan to retire some $30,000,000 outstanding 3 percent bonds of the French Government. France agreed, in exchange for a cooperative arrangement with the French State Match Monopoly, to sell $75,000,000 new 5s to the Swedish Match Monopoly, $50,000,000 of which will be passed on to its American subsidiary, the International Match Corporation. The deal will not be completed until some time in 1928.

Of domestic financing, the largest single transaction was the $95,000,000 issue of the Missouri Pacific, marketed in February. Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company borrowed $75,000,000, while issues of $30,000,000 or more were floated on behalf of the Erie, Chesapeake Corporation, Rock Island, Burlington, Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Shell Union Oil Company, Public Service Gas & Electric Company and Alabama Power Company.

U. S. MAKES SHEPHERDS OF WARLIKE APACHES

ments have been made to determine whether the Apaches are best adapted to farming, cattle raising or sheep raising, and they have indicated their greatest capability at raising sheep and goats.

Fifteen hundred sheep were purchased by the Indian service for them in 1925 and 1926, and all ewe lambs have been retained since 1923. Last fall $55,000 received from cattle sales was re-invested in sheep and goats, $100 being allotted to each man, woman and child under the head of the family was able to care for the stock. There are now about 25,000 head of sheep and goats on the reservation.

Sales of livestock from the reservation this year have totaled $121,492. Supt. O. M. Boggess says. In addition the Indian grain crop will average $10,000 a year, and among the aged Indians $10,000 is received annually in pensions for service with the government. The Apaches also will receive an income for many years from their timber lands, estimated to be worth $3,000,000.

CANCER CURE PRIZE GOAL OF HUNDREDS

ly, however, we have been getting long and rather carefully prepared articles from European students giving theories as to cancer causation.

"Nearly all the writers have skin cancer in mind, and yet this form of disease takes less than three per cent of the cancer death toll. It is the easiest to cure, but it calls for good surgical or radiological treatment.

"It is true that some skin cancers can be cured with a red hot poker, yet nobody would think of using such a method today. However, some of the cures have been quite as crude."

Ten or fifteen prize contest letters are received by the society daily.

CLUBS PLANNING JOURNEY TO TEXAS

Many Stops To Be Made In Various States While Delegates Make Trip

WASHINGTON — (AP)—New England club women are nothing if not forehanded in planning their activities. It is revealed at headquarters of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Although the biennial convention of the federation is to be held in San Antonio, Texas, does not convene until May 29, next, New England has its excursion planned its itinerary arranged and printed matter circulated throughout the six northern states.

Besides visiting several cities in Texas the club women will make stops in Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana and Tennessee, and a side trip to Mexico also is announced.

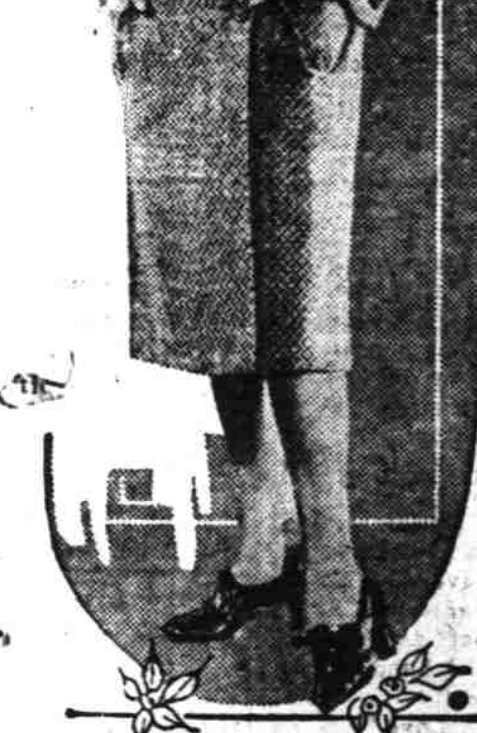

"Singing Massachusetts" is the name chosen by that state for its delegation. A singing rally will be held early the coming spring and in this a choral contest will be featured. The winner of the contest will head the "Singing Massachusetts" delegation in its march south under the slogan, "On to San Antonio."

Massachusetts has a special interest this year, as it is presenting the only candidate yet announced for the office of first vice president. Mrs. Grace Harrison Poole of Brockton, now recording secretary of the Federation.

LIVING and LOVING

BY FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

What Can the Poor Girl Do?

What's to be done if a girl is in love—or thinks she is—with a boy and he doesn't know where she is and so cannot make love to her if he wants to?

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am in great distress and am writing for help. Before I went away on a visit this summer I was traveling around with a number of boy friends. I used to enjoy going out with them, but since I came home I am always making excuses so as not to accept their dates. I care only for girl friends' company. I met a young man whom I think a lot of. I have never been in love, but do you think this is my trouble now? Would you advise me to write to him? He doesn't know where I live."

"IN DISTRESS"

Gracious yes, write to him and tell him where you live. He may be suffering, even as you are, and it is up to you to let him know where he may find you. You may not be in love, but it does look as if you were a bit interested in this boy, doesn't it?

And now come a couple of "babes in the woods" who want to know whether they should get married.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am 17 and have been going with a certain party for about one year, he being 18. We are greatly in love with each other and understand each other quite well. We have been thinking of getting married at Christmas. Would you suggest waiting when we know we will be happy right now?"

"Bright Eyes." I think you are both very young my dear. Few boys of 18 are financially able to support a wife, and few young persons of your age are stable enough in their affections to be sure they have met their right mates. What do your parents say?

Always glad to welcome newcomers to our circle, even when they want something I can't supply.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I'm a newcomer to your circle and hope I am welcome. I'm looking for a real pal. I'm 21 and enjoy all kinds of sports, such as hiking, dancing, skating, etc. Have gone about with quite a few fellows, but have not met one I could call a real pal. Are all the fellows the same? Do they all believe the only way to enjoy themselves is by getting? Real Pal.

even to the pastels, and the white jade kid shoe was invented, it would seem, entirely to be worn with them.

Black Satin Good
Black satin is especially good for Palm Beach, as well as for spring and summer in the north. The central photograph shows one of the new black satin ensembles, sparingly trimmed with white and gold braid. Note the feminine handling of the frock which crushes at the waistline and drapes in an irregular hemline at the side. The jacket is very short, in fact almost a bolero. With black satin, of course, one must always wear black kid shoes to be at the height of chic. Black kid shoes are also worn with the gray costume, except when the gray of the gown is matched in the footwear, and with the new lake blue. It looks also quite the thing. It looks as though black shoes were going to play a more important role in our spring and summer costumes than they have for several seasons.

Satin Pull-Overs New Blouse Form Favored

PARIS (AP)—All-satin costumes are Paris' newest and brightest sports suggestion. Many women who prefer something stronger than satin for walking and casual occupations of morning hours are adopting satin pull-overs for wear with skirts of kasha and flannel.

There is a fair-sized movement toward substitution of something newer for the knitted wool pull-overs that have been popular so long. Satin is not only predicted for this use but is expected to be popular material for blouses to wear under tailored suits next spring.

LITERATURE TREND SAID TO BE ELUIVSE

last year was Tender Horn. I think most of it is fiction, but it has enough facts to make it a great book, be it fiction or fact. I may seem to be knocking my own trade, but as I grow older fiction does not hold me as it did in my younger days. Youth must have fiction, for glamor and romance will be found there that can't be made to order in cold facts. However, I am convinced that there was an Alfred Aloysius Horn, for there is a photograph of him in the book, ambushed behind a magnificent set of whiskers.
