Covers were placed for sixty members and guests of the Salem branch of the American Association of University Women at the luncheon meeting at the Gray Belle on Saturday afternoon.

Dean M. Ellwood Smith of the Oregon State College faculty, was the speaker of the afternoon. He gave several reasons why he considered the following ten books the best produced by writers of this country: "The Scarlet Letter," Hawthorne; "Huckleberry Finn," Mark Twain; "Java Head," Hergesheimer; "Portrait of a Lady," Henry James; "My Antonia," Willa Cather; "Red Badge of Courage," Stephen Crane; "Moby Dick," Melville; "Age of Innocence," Edith Wharton; "Arrow-smith," Sinclair Lewis; and "The Rise of Silas Lapham," William Dean Howell.

Each of these books, said Dean Smith, was written as a protest to existing conditions. The speaker also said that one's list of best books would vary from day to day depending on one's mood.

Readings given by Miss Carol Dibble were other features of the interesting program.

Miss Mozelle Hair of Eugene, state president of the association, was a special guest at Saturday's meeting. She announced the state A. A. U. W. convention which will be held in Portland on February tenth and eleventh, and also the North Pacific Sectional convention in Spokane in early April.
