grant a franchise to the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company unless the company agrees to reduce its rates was made to the city council today by A. E. Clark in a letter in which he declared a 15 per cent cut should be made. Colonel Clark contended that the regulation of the telephone company by the public service commission so far as the city of Portland is concerned, "has been inadequate and unsatisfactory." "In the main," he said, "proceedings before the public service commission in the past have merely served to give the telephone company a chance to dip in deeper on every occasion and secure findings and orders that further entrenched the company to the sacrifice of the interests of the telephone users." Clark declared that the city has the power to announce the conditions under which the telephone company may use the streets and suggested that the council make reduced rates one of those conditions. He said that if the company does not want to accept the franchise under such conditions it "can get out of Portland and make room for another company that would." He also said that the "relations of this company to the public are, and for a long time have been, unsatisfactory to a degree that does not exist and has not existed in respect to any other public utility operating in the city."

turn up all right at Guantanamo, Cuba, her destination, the navy department today ordered an intensive search for the submarine. The S-3, with its crew of 41 men, became separated from the control force, bound for winter maneuvers, in a gale 100 miles south of Cape Hatteras, one of the worst storm centers on the Atlantic coast. A report that she had lost contact with seven other submarines, the Camden, a submarine tender, and the new airplane carrier Saratoga, was received at the navy department early today. Three Cruisers Sent In addition to the ships of the convoy which have been on the outlook for the S-3, the department late today ordered the light cruisers Milwaukee, Raleigh and Memphis and a squadron of destroyers to proceed from Cuban waters in search of the missing craft. At the department, officers while plainly concerned, said they would have no grave fears for the S-3 until after Wednesday night when she is due at Guantanamo. The ship is in command of Lieutenant P. W. Warren of Springfield, Ill. The official report that the S-3 was missing came from Rear Admiral Frank H. Brumby, aboard the Camden as commander of the control force. Some officers here believed that the submarine's radio apparatus might have been put out of commission, a mishap which such ships frequently have in rough weather. Headquarters Not Alarmed The navy department announced that such disappearances were not unusual in small vessels during bad weather conditions which are existing. Admiral Hughes said that if the submarine had been in a collision the navy department would have heard of the mishap at least from the other ship. He suggested that any number of things such as dampness, the breaking of the antenna mast or engine trouble could have caused the craft to lose contact with its convoy. The sea where the S-3 was last reported is about two miles deep. Secretary Wilbur declined to make public the names of the crew other than officers.

3 CRUISERS SENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The navy department has ordered three light cruisers and a squadron of destroyers from Guantanamo bay to aid in the search for the lost submarine S-3.

than that, however—in fact for several years—the Salem chamber of commerce has foreseen this opportunity and has been preparing for it, so that the greater part of the data was already at hand. The purpose of the hearing, according to the official announcement sent out by Lt. Col. G. R. Lukosh, district engineer for the war department, is "securing expression of opinion as to the needs of commerce in relation to water transportation between Portland and Salem." Officials of the countries, cities and local associations and shipping interests concerned, were especially invited to make a showing.

passed on as truly a victim of the conflict as though he had fallen on the field of battle. Death came suddenly and unexpectedly at the home of his sister, Mrs. W. G. Jameson at Prince's Gate. Countess Haig was not with him as she was visiting friends. His youthful heir, 10 year old George Alexander, is ill at the Haig home in Bemerayde. This lad who now assumes his father's distinguished title, was a child of the war. He was born early in 1918 during that heartbreaking crisis to the British when the British armies, commanded by his father were retreating under the terrible German onslaught which for a time it appeared, might spell the downfall of the allies. Report Made The official medical statement on Earl Haig's death reads: "The cause of death was sudden heart failure, the result of the effects of the war and previous tropical and campaigning services on the heart muscles." A postmortem examination was conducted and it was decided that no inquest was necessary. The king's regulation for military burial requires that pall bearers shall all be of the same rank as the deceased officer. In Earl Haig's case therefore, the pall bearers must be chosen from the following field: Marshals—the Duke of Connaught, Lord Methuen, Lord Plumer, Lord Allenby, Sir William Robertson, Sir William Birdwood, and Sir Claud Jacobs.
