

ALL SATISFIED TRUSS WEARERS

Are wearing an Akron Truss with the famous Sponge Rubber Pad. These Pads positively Cannot Slip and are therefore most satisfying to the wearer as he doesn't have to keep adjusting to its place. This Pad is cellular and acts somewhat similar to a series of suction air cups, therefore holding it in place without regard to the body bends. The tissues are strengthened by being supported and constantly held together.

FIRST REVIEWER TELLS OF HELEN

Troy.

The reviews are beginning to arrive and herewith is printed the first which was received yesterday:

First National has had the courage to invest a small fortune in "The Private Life of Helen of Troy"—the screen's first attempt at satire. A satire on classic history, even as bright young men are now satirizing the late belle-gerencies in Europe makes it a new and intelligent step in the movies. Nothing like it has ever been put into pictures.

The sets are magnificent, the acting superb, the titles beyond words. The title-writer certainly had his fun, and each wise crack topped its predecessor. Countless 20th century touches have been injected into this 3000 year old tale, and the result is side-splitting. There were excellent performances by all employed, and they proved by their playing that they realized that here were no usual ancients. Maria Corda proved an amazingly attractive young woman, gifted with grace and poise. Lewis Stone is, of course, one of the greatest of all light comedians in pictures, and Ricardo Cortez one of its most popular leading men. The Elmore more theater is to be complimented upon securing this unique film.

You can't go wrong if you spend your money for a good time as "The Private Life of Helen of Troy."

Time For Active Work
The time to secure your votes is now, while each subscription counts for so many more votes and while the field is not being worked by many contestants.

The contest department would, indeed, appreciate very much if those who have not reported and really want to be active would signify their intention by reporting to the contest headquarters at their next opportunity.

NOT ALL EXPLAINS JUSTICE RAND, BUT MANY

Attorneys who make the law a business, not a profession, who are out merely to gather in money, are to blame for the present state of delay by the courts in dealing with criminal cases, Chief Justice John Rand, of the supreme court, told Salem Kiwanians at the luncheon yesterday.

A hundred years ago, said Justice

Rand, there were three recognized professions, all of which merited the greatest respect. They were law, medicine, and the ministry. Today, a fourth has been added, that of engineering, but unethical attorneys have lowered respect for law as a profession and brought it more into the realm of business, big business.

The courts themselves are not to blame for the present day laxity in dealing with criminals, declared Judge Rand, and there still are many high-class attorneys who seek primarily to protect their clients, who never trifle with the courts, and bring them into disrepute.

The Oregon supreme court is about 15 months behind schedule in handling cases before it, the judge said. This is the fault of the system under which the court now operates, a system put into effect years ago when there were only three judges to handle the few appeals. A new system will be inaugurated by the court soon which will speed up the procedure. All criminal cases before the court have been disposed of, however, and also those on which a judgment may be made from briefs submitted. The judge predicted that the end of 1928 would see the calendar of the court cleared.

Mrs. Gladys L. Collier, of Independence, sang two numbers, with Mrs. W. H. East at the piano.

BIG THREE WEEKS PERIOD UNDER WAY

The Best Time to Work Is Present; Honor Roll To Be Published

For the three weeks period ending Monday, February 20, The Statesman is going to give away to the candidate in the auto contest who turns in the most subscription money on new or old business, or both, a splendid Trego radio, value $200.00. This set is complete with a mahogany console table, with a built-in-magnifying loud speaker, also B batteries, wet storage battery, five tubes, C battery, aerial and ground wires, insulators and full directions.

These next few days mean everything to you. Now is the time for new candidates to enter and win this extra special prize. The votes that you secure on subscriptions during this special period when you are working for the radio count in your favor and help you win a grand prize.

An Honor Roll

We are also going to start an honor roll. To the candidate who turns in the most money each day, we will give a write up in the paper. This write up will mean many subscriptions to you; for the public reading the paper will become interested in you, thinking that you are trying hard to win one of the valuable prizes. For the outside territory, I would suggest that they mail their subscriptions every evening. That will give them also a chance at the honor roll. Now is the time for every one to get busy; for this extra special prize is one worth working for.

Remember, candidates, this is for the one who turns in the most subscription money during the three weeks ending Monday, February 20.

It is indeed puzzling to the contest editor why so little progress has been made by some of the contestants who have signified their desire to enter and compete for the prizes offered by The Statesman by bringing in their nomination blanks and accepting their receipt books. Although the contest department has many nominations entered, but few have shown their desire to win by turning in subscriptions.

Time For Active Work
The time to secure your votes is now, while each subscription counts for so many more votes and while the field is not being worked by many contestants.

The contest department would, indeed, appreciate very much if those who have not reported and really want to be active would signify their intention by reporting to the contest headquarters at their next opportunity.

Let us get busy at once and show our friends that we mean business. Surely there should be as many active contestants as there are prizes. Surely the prizes are big enough to interest any of us. Taking all things into consideration, there are several live wires in Salem who are missing the opportunity of a life time. Just remember one thing, all of these prizes will be awarded and the biggest vote offer of the entire contest is in effect now during the first, all-important period. There will absolutely be no vote offer at any time during the life of the contest other than outlined at the beginning.

Spend Time Profitably

How could any one spend his or her time more profitably than securing subscriptions among your friends to The Statesman, and at the same time accumulate an enormous vote total toward these fine new cars to be awarded to the beginning.

the hustlers in the next few weeks.

The Statesman contains the full leased wire of the Associated Press news, embracing national and international news, as well as local happenings. In addition to the above mentioned, it contains each day the very latest market quotations.

It is only necessary to read one issue of this up-to-the-minute paper to realize that its aim and ambition is to serve the people in this section in the most able manner possible.

It is the Statesman's aim to reach every home in this section with a message of progress and stories of opportunities yet untouched and undeveloped. Surely it is the duty each citizen owes his family and himself to keep abreast of news and tidings which The Statesman today sends forth.

Let us go. Let us make this the real banner week and Monday, February 20, the "red letter" day.
