Local Product Being Exhibited At Better Homes Exposition, Armory

Elsinore canned goods, which are mostly home grown products are being exhibited by the Willamette Grocery company at the Better Homes exposition at the Armory this week. Pet milk and Princess flour is also being displayed. A very attractive display has been arranged in this booth.

Princess flour which is being used at the Statesman cooking school this week at the armory is manufactured from Montana and Idaho hard wheat. The flour is wholealed here by the Willamette Grocery company and sold by a large number of grocers in Salem and Salem territory.

Volmer Clearwater, Ltd., of Lewiston, Idaho are the makers of Princess flour.

N. J. Blydenstein, Portland representative of the company is in Salem during the week and assisting at the booth and also with the cooking school. Each day after the school samples are given away at the booth and coffee and cakes are served.

Three competent and experienced demonstrators are present each afternoon; Mrs. H. M. Cummins, noted all over the northwest as an authority on bread and pastry cooking, Mrs. Maud Henning, featuring Pet milk and Elsinore canned goods and Miss Ethel Murdoch, experienced demonstrator and factory range instructor. Their program will be found interesting and instructive.

HICKMAN-HUNT TRIAL STARTED YESTERDAY

er's trial for the killing of Marian Parker and yesterday he had heard that brother sentenced to hang April 27 next.

The opening session resolved itself into a round of dreary questioning of witnesses, unbroken by a clash of alienists.

Judge Craig took over the work of questioning the witnesses by groups to speed up the trial, after which defense counsel began their interrogations. Jerome Walsh and Richard Cantillon, attorneys for Hickman, put but few queries to the burden of the questioning being taken by A. Gray Gilmer, representing Hunt.

Gilmer centered his queries around the proposition of whether the prospective jurors would give his client a fair trial unprejudiced by his association with Hickman.

Objection to enforcing the death penalty for murder and fixing opinions as to the guilt of one or the other of the defendants kept the chairs in the jury box filling and emptying during the day.

The two prisoners sat side by side behind their attorneys, but there association seemed to end. Neither one spoke to the other.

Hunt, slight and tall, fair haired, with shifting eyes and a scared expression on his face, seemed unable to get at ease. His hands worked almost continuously, a handkerchief rolled into a ball, in one of them.

short and slender, pallid skinned, in his surroundings. He looked in everything that happened in the courtroom, sized up each witness as he or she came into the jury box and often smiled, but toward the end of the day he seemed weary of the ceaseless, incessant witness questioning.

Hunt blames Hickman for the predicament in which he found

THIEF ESCAPES IN WOODS AFTER RUNNING IN DITCH

WOODBURN, Ore., Feb. 15.—(Special).—Monday night some tourists traveling through Oregon, parked their car in front of Knight's Rest and went into get a lunch. In the meantime some one came along, stole their car and proceeded on their way to Portland. They immediately gave chase and when the thief saw that he would be overtaken he wrecked the car by running it in the ditch, and escaped in the nearby woods.

A. H. Anderson, a recent arrival from North Dakota, spent several days visiting friends and relatives near Brush Prairie, Wash.

R. C. Brown of Falls City was in Woodburn Tuesday. He has traded for the apartment house on North Corby street which he will occupy in the near future. He intends to make extensive repairs and convert it into a model apartment house.

Peter Delborg of East Young street spent Sunday with his nephew at Vancouver, Wash.

Among those attending the mid-winter gathering of the Minnesota club at Salem Monday were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dickenson, John Freeman and family, J. P. Farmer and family, and Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Haugen.

A. B. Chalk, piloting a plane of the Caseway Airways, saw the crash from the air and landed his plane near a ship dock and enlisted aid of a speedboat which proceeded to the scene of the accident and picked up the passengers and crew of the wrecked ship.

The plane was making a test flight for carrying capacity and the passengers had been selected at random from a group of spectators at the municipal seaplane base.

Leo C. Wilson, United States district aviation inspector, who was in the party, exonerated the pilot of blame.

All those present signed their name to a paper advocating the election of Hoover as president because of his high character, wonderful achievements, and unequalled ability. Similar papers will be available for additional signatures pending formation of the permanent organization.

Oregon Theater

When the feature picture "Are You Fit to Marry?" which is coming to the Oregon theater for four days starting this coming Sunday, February 19, was being made the director, Mr. Stafford, found that he would have a hard time to get a character good enough to portray the leading part, that is the hopeless cripple.

The picture was being made for the cause of the Eugenists and they had the willing cooperation of the medical societies as well as the hospitals. So Mr. Stafford in visiting the Chicago psychopathic ward for material as well as characters for the picture was introduced to one of the inmates. He asked the unfortunate man for his story and found that it was very similar to the story that he was to put in his picture. Mr. Stafford then requested the inmate if he would consent to take the leading role for the sake of humanity. The inmate willingly agreed and in the picture "Are You Fit to Marry?" gave such a wonderful portrayal of his part that it was thought that he was a professional actor.

The entire cast is made up of the same, that is from true life. Adults from all walks of life find in this picture an appeal that is not meant or any certain class but to every one. A lesson that can only be learned from experience is brought forth with exceeding daring and yet with due restraint by this picture "Are You Fit to Marry?"

himself today, facing a judge on trial for murder.

His attorney has announced that his defense will be that the elder youth, experienced in crime, led the younger astray.

Hunt also remembers that it was Hickman's confession in the county jail here that led to Hunt's arrest for the killing of the druggist in the Christmas eve holdup.

The Hickman defense, his attorneys have announced, will rest mainly on the prop that already has failed it once in the Marian Parker case, a plea of insanity.

They also assert that it was a bullet from Hunt's gun, not Hickman's that killed Thoma.

DURBIN PRESIDENT STATE ASSOCIATION

Holstein Breeders Meet At St. Helens; Oregon Records Shown Best

Frank Durbin, of Salem, was elected president of the Oregon Holstein Breeders' association, at a meeting yesterday at St. Helens. Mr. Durbin and E. A. Bhoton represented Salem at the meeting.

Jean Warren of Forest Grove was named vice-president, and Paul Adams, of Warreha, secretary.

Representatives from all parts of the state were present.

The sending of delegates to the national meeting at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in June was discussed. Two will be sent, the men to be selected by a ballot taken by mail. Frank Durbin will probably be one of them.

That the outlook for Holsteins in the northwest is very encouraging, was stated by R. E. Everly, field representative for the national association who attended the meeting. He said that the northwest had only five per cent of the total Holsteins in the United States but that the northwest did have:

The first cow to produce as much as 35,000 pounds of milk and the only cow to have produced that amount twice.

The first and only cow to have produced as much as 37,000 pounds of milk in one year.

The first cow to have produced as much as 33,000 pounds of milk.

The first cow to have produced 30,000 pounds of milk two different years.

The first cow to have produced 1,000 pounds or more of butter for four different years.

The only cow to have produced as much as 1400 pounds of butter for two different years.

Of 118 Holstein cows which have produced 1,000 pounds or more of butter in one year, the Northwest has produced 27 of them.

ASSOCIATION VAUDEVILLE

ment in the next Association Vaudeville bill at Bligh's Capitol theater Friday. There is plenty of excellent music, very clever dancing and singing and a keen spirit of jollity making this a brand of variety that will please young and old.

This bill is headlined by Nick Sault and his Russian Cosacks. Their act is a splendid native musical, singing and dancing presentation and is certain to be enjoyed by audiences every where.

Donahue and Boyne, that well known musical comedy team, have entered the ranks of vaudeville. They have a very neat arrangement of music-and dialogue which help to make this a very enjoyable comedy act which no doubt will create many hearty laughs.

The comedy remarks that are hurled back and forth by Clair and Meroff in their offering "The Sap" which were especially written will cause their performance to be long remembered by everyone.

Cates and Marie one of the most pleasing musical teams in vaudeville offer a delightful xylophone act. This team brother and sister, started at a very early age and are now one of the few to create such unusual arrangements on this rarely played instrument.

Stuart Barnes, monologist and singing comedian harvest shrieks of laughter from his audiences when dealing with those who have been targets for General Daniel Cupid. Barnes is a well known laugh producer and is a desirable asset to this Association Vaudeville unit.

VICTOR ARTISTS COMING TO SALEM

"Tonto Rim" Showing At Elsinore Today and Real Thriller Provided

He stood in front of the most beautiful theater in the Pacific northwest. He had some right too. He put one-third of a million dollars in constructing it.

Savagely, but neatly, he bit off the end of a cigar.

"You say I can't?"

"You can't."

"But it isn't possible!"

George B. Guthrie, owner of the Elsinore, sunk his molars so far into the wood that his rules seemed imminent. His friend avoided a stampede.

"Slip around here on February 19 or 20, and see if the eight Victor artists—all of them—are not playing in my house," advised Mr. Guthrie.

It is a fact.

The other day a prominent Salem architect was told that the eight Victor artists—including the renowned Billy Murray, were to appear on the Elsinore stage. Immediately he forgot his eighth grade grammar.

"Tain't possible," he insisted. "Any one of 'em would draw a packed house. And, by the way, I was brought up—to speak—on Bill Murray."

Nevertheless the Elsinore has secured the eight artists for February 19 and 20. Money back if you don't see and hear 'em.

The cast—which is bound to bring a hoard to the theater—comprises Billy Murray, Henry Burr, Monroe Silver, Frank Banta, James Stanley, Carl Mathieu, Stanley Baughman, and Sam Herman.

"Of course," Mr. Guthrie went on to explain what is obvious to everybody, "it will be necessary to raise, somewhat, the prices for the eight artists. Surely no one would expect to see such an array of talent for the usual amount."

Few great theaters in the Pacific Northwest have been able to get the eight Victor people.

It is probably unnecessary to remark that Zane Grey's latest picture, "Under the Tonto Rim," is showing at the Elsinore—and will show until Sunday. It is a "western" and the critics have spoken well of it.

family is made by filling a cream puff shell with ice cream and topping with a hot chocolate sauce.

The cream puff recipe which Mrs. Cummins gave was as follows:

Dissolve 1/2 cup butter in 1 cup boiling water and raise mixture to boiling point again. Stir in 1 cup Princess flour and continue stirring briskly until mixture clears the sides of the pan.

When slightly cool, add 4 un-beaten eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly following each addition.

Drop onto a baking sheet, having each puff slightly rounded on top, and bake for 10 minutes in a 425 degrees oven. Later decrease the heat to 325 degrees.

Cream puffs are often a failure, according to Mrs. Cummins, because they are not sufficiently cooked in the center and collapse when cold. The large puffs should bake for about 45 minutes in a rather slow oven. They should not be removed from the oven until they have ceased to "whisper."

A custard filling for the puffs:
1/2 cup sugar
6 tablespoons Princess flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon vanilla or almond flavoring.

Method: Combine sugar, flour, and salt in the top of a double boiler. Add beaten eggs to the milk which has been scalded. Combine milk and egg mixture with dry ingredients and cook for 20 minutes over hot water. Add flavoring, and cool before filling puff shells.

A recipe for a simply prepared but most delicious little cookie was given by Mrs. Cummins. These cookies are very similar to those which we all have bought from the baker and have liked so well.

SAILORS TO APPEAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Sailors of the Pacific coast who for eight years have been trying to abolish present unemployment bureau systems in San Pedro and San Francisco, carried their fight into the federal court here again today.

The suit is that of Cornelius Anderson, representing 10,000 seamen, members of the International Seamen's Union, against the Ship Owners' association of the Pacific Coast and the Pacific American Steamship association.

The complaint, which was first taken to trial in 1922, charged that the shipowners, through combination, discriminate against some of the sailors. The seamen charge specifically that the present meth-
