London Musician Knows 2,000 Scores By Heart

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 18—(AP)—Professor Willibaid Richter is said to have the best musical memory in England. He has memorized 2,000 classical compositions.

When 8 years old, Professor Richter gave his first piano recital. Liszt, the famous composer, then patted him on the head and made him his pupil.

Professor Richter came to England in 1881, and was music master at Uppingham School until 1887. He is the father of Miss Lilian Rushworth, the singer.

The professor says that no great composer will arise in the present generation. "There is too much noise," he said, "to much hurryscurry. A genius must develop his gifts in quiet and solitude. Beethoven was lucky because he became deaf. His best work was done while he was deaf."

Move Made In Washington To Abolish Fish Traps

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 18.—(AP)—First steps toward an initiative measure for the abolition of fish traps, fish wheels and purse seines, primarily to protect salmon and steel head in Washington, were taken here by the Fish Conservation league, Bremerton. Roy Hatfield, representing the league, submitted the proposed bill for a ballot title.

RULES COMMITTEE AVOIDS TINKERING

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK (AP)—The widely advocated policy of a minimum of tinkering with the football playing code appears to have been adopted by the national rules committee.
With the long period of shifting regulations, experimentation and balancing of offensive and defensive features at an end the committee now looks forward, starting in 1928, to an era of stabilizing and standardizing the game. Most of the committee's energies for the next year will be concentrated on recodifying and rewriting the existing rules rather than casting about for further changes.
This policy not only is expected to meet with the widespread endorsement of coaches and officials proval of gridiron fandom which has become dizzy in recent years keeping step with the changes.
This is not to mention the players themselves who, in the opinion of so prominent a mentor as Gil Dobie, are ready to quit college by the time they have begun to master the rules.

Game Now "Crystalized"
Few games anywhere involve as intricate possibilities of team play or as varied a collection of rules as football. The game's law-makers have recognized this while at the same time they have been wrestling with the problems of putting it on a firm basis, weighing criticism or dealing with the fruits of experience.
"We feel that the game in it present form has crystalized," said Edward K. Hall, chairman of the Rules committee, recently.
That the committee as a whole now shares this view is evident from its latest deliberations. Where the year before a half dozen more or less radical changes were decided upon, only three have been made effective for 1928. All three of these are designed more to clear up disputed point, or correct abuses than to effect any decided change in the code.
The screen pass, for instance has been pretty well outlawed but the new rules administer the death blow to what the committee considers unfair tactics by a passing attack. The lateral pass and muffed punt rules remain but in such form that they will serve only their main purposes and not be ambiguous or subject to controversy.

Safety First
The goal posts will stay where they were placed last season, ten yards behind the actual goal line. There was considerable agitation to restore the uprights to their time-honored position but the rules-makers feel that this came either from the reactionary wing of the game or from spectators who had found it difficult to determine the exact location of the ball without the goal-posts to aid them.
The prime argument in favor of the new location and one that likely will be convincing enough for some time to come is that it removes a menace to life and limb in scrimmages at the goal line. The game, its rules-makers feel has enough physical risks without needlessly making it more dangerous.
The possibilities of touchdowns on flukey recoveries are now reduced to a minimum. On muffed or fumbled punts as well as on grounded lateral passes the ball now may be recovered by the opposing side but in neither case can it be advanced beyond the point of recovery.

NAVAL PLAN FLAYED

ADMINISTRATION PROGRAM OF EXPANSION OPPOSED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP).—A vigorous assault on the administration's three quarter of a billion dollar naval construction program was made here in the senate by Senator King, democrat, Utah.
Reading a long prepared address, with occasional interpolations the senator declared that the American government is now spending on its regular military establishment more money than any other nation, and traced the rising tide of expenditures.
Adverting to recent remarks attributed to Rear Admiral Plunkett, who has just retired, Senator King said his utterances were "un-American, unwise, most foolish and calculated to mislead the people of America and arouse the suspicions of the people of foreign lands."

Canadians Favor Many Tariff and Tax Cuts

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Sharp reductions in taxes and tariff featured the budget presented to the house by J. A. Robb, minister of finance.
Tax reductions, which included a ten per cent drop in personal income tax and cutting of the tax rate on corporations to eight per cent were estimated to total $19,000,000.
The outstanding feature of customs tariff amendments in the budget was the revision of the textile group. The maximum rate on cotton is reduced, with one exception, to 30 per cent, and the duty on various forms of cotton is lowered. Yarns for the weaving of woolen cloths are made free and there are reductions in other forms of wool.

U. S. Shipping Board Goes On Record For New Policy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP) The shipping board today took a definite stand for a new policy, submitting to congress recommendations on legislation proposed to facilitate the carrying out of the merchant marine act of 1920.
Embodying the report compiled at a conference in January of the leading steamship men of the country, the board declared none of the proposed bills provide all the legislation necessary to meet the present requirements of the merchant marine act.
A combination of the best features of the Jones, Copeland, Wood and White bills was suggested.

White House Raccoons Riot After Christening

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Dissension broke out today in the cage of the two White House raccoons at the very time it became known that Rebecca's mate has been christened Reuben by President Coolidge.
Reuben broke loose and climbed a high tree in the south lawn of the White House and as evening came on he still refused to return to his home.
Reuben was presented to the president some time ago after having been caught by a White House policeman in Virginia and was dubbed by some of the unknowing ones as Horace. But it was made plain at the White House today that the president himself had given the raccoon a name and that he wanted him known hereafter as Reuben.

Hindu Temple Tentative Plan for New York City

BOMBAY, India, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Advices from Indore say that a Hindu temple may rise in New York in celebration of the initiation of Miss Nancy Ann Miller of Seattle, Wash., into Hinduism if it takes place at Poona. It is understood that the Maharajah Mission at Poona will erect the building in honor of the warrior Shivaji, who founded the Maharatta power in India.
The initiation would precede the marriage of the American girl to the former Maharajah of Indore. The youngest of his two wives is stated to be plunged into despondency over the approaching marriage.

Politics Grows Along New Lines In Germar

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—(AP)—German politics developed an entirely new angle here when the four parties constituting the present coalition-nationalists, people's party, centrists and Bavarians decided no longer to consider themselves as forming the government bloc. They approved however, leaving the respective ministers in the cabinet.
The members of the cabinet therefore, although originally designated by the parties, must hereafter act on their individual responsibility and do the best they can until absolutely essential budgetary legislation is passed by the Reichstag.
