Students Must Work—A compilation of enrollment in the three classes at the senior high school shows that there are 56 more students this year in the junior class than last year, while registration in the sophomore and senior years has fallen off, 27 and 25, respectively. J. C. Nelson, principal, holds these figures to be sufficient proof of a theory he has held for some time: that more students are finding it necessary to remain out of school to work this year than last year. The lowered attendance in the first and last year classes at the senior high, Mr. Nelson believes, points to the fact that more students can not afford to enter senior high school, and that fewer are able to finish their course without seeking financial assistance. Total high school enrollment last month was 1196, only one less than last year but the number of students who should be attending high school is greater. Class enrollment shows: sophomores, 529; juniors, 371; seniors, 277; post graduates, 19.

Percentage receiving credit this year is better than last, when seven of the 14 writing received a passing mark.

BARN FIRE COSTLY

CAUSE OF BLAZE AT W. P. EMERY'S FARM NOT KNOWN

A Washington's birthday program will be given at the school Wednesday night. Pie, sandwiches and coffee will be sold for the benefit of the school.

W. P. Emery's large barn burned to the ground last Sunday, including hay, grain, machinery and five calves. No one knows how the fire started unless a tramp slept in the barn and was careless with matches, but none had been seen near the barn. Some spring plowing is being done. Cherty rafting will begin as soon as weather permits. Some clover seed has been sown but more will be sown soon. Fall grain is in a fine condition. Some land is being cleared for potatoes.

HONOR COURT HELD FOR SALEM SCOUTS

Twenty Nine Receive Advancement Badges At Supreme Court

All boy scouts are usually happy—it's part of their creed, but there were 29 of them last night who were, perhaps, happier than the rest, when they stepped forward before the court of honor to receive promotion badges.

The court was held in the state supreme court chambers with Justice Harry Belt as presiding judge. Court commissioners were L. P. Campbell and Charles Wiper, members of the Cascade council.

Second class, second class merit badges, first class, and first class merit badges were the steps upward for the scouts. There were 10 candidates for Eagle scout, the highest honor in scouting.

Jack Wilson, of Troop six, was the lone candidate for second class honors, and George Waterman, of Troop nine, was the only scout to be awarded a second class merit badge. He won his for firemanship.

Parker Gies, Troop 9, and Edward Burton, Troop six, were promoted to First Class scouts. First class merit badges were awarded the following boys:

Troop one—Robert Long, for firemanship, carpentry, and handicraft; Norris Kemp for bird study; Kenneth Jusa, for woodcarving, handicraft, and swimming; Ray Rhoden for pioneering, care of animals, and carpentry; John Beckey for pioneering; Frederick Edmondson for care of animals, and pioneering; and Vicar Wagers for bird study.

Troop two—Milton Taylor for signaling; Ronald Miller for signaling; Stanley King for personal health and athletics; Vernon Bushnell for cooking, bird study, and scholarship; Roland Hardman for personal health, and conservation of public health; Rodney Hardman for cooking and life saving; and Philip Ferris for first aid.

Troop four—Robert Marsh for cooking and scholarship; Ralph Ennor for athletics; Edwin Hoffmann for woodwork, personal health, and athletics and Maxey Langford for gardening.

Troop six—Jack Collins for basketry, bookbinding, and woodwork; Vernon McQuaid for life saving; Byron Peyton for electricity; Lewis Nelson for handicraft; William Campbell for bookbinding and Lewis Campbell for bookbinding.

Troop nine—Ralph Purvine for safety first, pathfinding, and cooking.

Officers of the court were: clerk, Scout Executive Payne; bugler, Eagle Scout Milton Taylor; orderlies, Eagle Scouts William Trindle and Kenneth Morris; color bearers, Eagle Scouts Lewis Campbell and Arthur Fisher; color guards, First Class Scouts Ralph Ennor and Fred Edmondson; sergeant-at-arms, Eagle Scout Paul Lafferty; and herald, Eagle Scout Maxey Langford.

Rapid advances have been made in Salem scouting since Mr. Payne took charge here some weeks ago. The goal is 20 troops and 400 scouts.

New troops have been organized at St. Vincent de Paul school under Scoutmaster Gordon Tower; near the county poor farm under Scoutmaster A. A. Nicholson; and members of the Cascade council, at Keizer school under Scoutmaster Ray Hertzog. The troop at Keizer was organized this week.

A show was staged in West Salem with a view to stirring up interest in forming a troop there.

Troop Nine is to have a bugle corps. This troop is sponsored by the American Legion. An all-scout band is being formed by W. R. Olsson, of the Sherman-Clay Music company.

Prices Pushed Skyward In Wall Street Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP).—The stock market turned "bullish" today, buying support forcing up prices, particularly of the specialty issues. Advances of $5 to $7 a share were rather common and in one or two cases there were gains of $15 and $16, the rise being inspired largely by reduced rates for call money, improved positions of the market and rumors of mergers.

Foremost among the merger rumors was one which was persistent, but without official confirmation, in linking Montana Power company with Electric Bond and Share company, through an agreement for exchange of stock on the basis of two shares of Electric Bond and share for one of Montana Power.
