Mrs. J. A. Norwood Celebrates 80th Birthday

Mrs. E. C. Apperson entertained Tuesday afternoon, March 6, in her home at McMinnville with a delightful birthday luncheon in honor of her mother, Mrs. J. A. Norwood, the occasion being her 80th birthday anniversary.

The long table arranged in the dining room of the Apperson home was very lovely with a centerpiece of pink roses and fern in a crystal bowl and tall rose tapers in crystal holders.

A feature of the attractive luncheon was the large birthday cake on a silver tray which was cut and served by the honor guest. The cake was beautifully decorated with a wreath of delicate flowers in pastel shades and pink candles, arranged to form the numerals, 80.

The guests included five daughters of the honor guest: Mrs. Homer Goulet of Salem, Mrs. William F. Belschneider of McMinnville, Mrs. Hugh Williamson of Portland, Mrs. Elvin Arnold of Portland, and the hostess, Mrs. E. C. Apperson of McMinnville; two daughters-in-law, Mrs. J. W. Norwood of Portland; and four granddaughters: Mrs. Charles Robertson (Mildred Apperson) of Portland; Mrs. Richard Gray (Audrey Belschneider) of Portland; Mrs. Cortus Shipley (Aileen Belschneider) of Portland; and Mrs. Norwood Apperson (Retha Coles) of McMinnville.

Three grandbabies were also present, Mary Patsy Apperson of McMinnville; James Coles Apperson of McMinnville; and Charles Robertson, Jr., of Portland.

Two other daughters of the honor guest were unable to be present. They were Mrs. J. R. Justice of Seattle, and Mrs. Carl Elret of Oakland, California.

Mrs. Norwood's four sons are J. W. Norwood of Salem, W. R. Norwood of Seattle; T. A. Norwood of Portland, and James Norwood of Sunnyside, California.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Norwood came west from Hayesville, North Carolina, when the family was very young. Mrs. Norwood died 18 years ago. Mrs. Norwood is still very active although 80 years of age. She is one of the most prominent of the older residents of western Oregon. Mrs. Norwood has made her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Goulet, for some time.

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physical and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation for a laxative to be used by practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management, this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also like it.

Mrs. F. G. Franklin gave a report of the last meeting of the Northwest Poetry society and also read newspaper clippings concerning the recent death of Miss Ina Coolbrith, poet laureate of California.

An original poem, published in the last issue of the Sunset Magazine, "Old Folks" was read by Mrs. W. F. Fargo.

Mrs. Blanche M. Jones read a lyric, "February." John M. Clifford gave some information concerning the origin of the name, "Oregon."

Dr. Franklin read a short sketch of the recent anti-war activities in England and Scotland.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Others present who did not contribute to the evening's program were Mrs. C. J. Lisle, Mrs. Robert C. Paulus, Mrs. Elizabeth Sherwood and Miss Orma McIntyre.

SUSPECT CAPTURED

MAN TAKEN AT LOS ANGELES MAY HAVE KILLED GIRL

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 7.—(AP)—A suspect was arrested today in connection with the unexplained disappearance last July of five year old Lucille Davenport in the Bull Creek redwoods near Eureka, Cal. The suspect, Charles S. Laverne, 40 year old cook, was found by deputy sheriffs at Oceanside, about 50 miles south of here on the coast, and brought to the Los Angeles county jail. He was being held incommunicado, charged with suspicion of murder, pending the arrival of Sheriff John W. Runner of Humboldt county who was reported to be enroute here late today.

The arrest ended a long search by the local deputies who said they were advised three months ago that the suspected man had been living at a Los Angeles hotel. The tip at that time came from the Humboldt county sheriff, who received information from Oregon that Laverne had admitted attacking and killing a small girl in Humboldt county. Runner reported the girl's body was hidden by her murderer.

Laverne told the deputies he had a wife working in a Long Beach cafe, but made no comment concerning his arrest.

WEDDING AD WRONG

WIFE DIDN'T LIVE UP TO ADVANCE NOTICES

PORTLAND, Ore., March 6.—(AP)—An echo of a wedding resulting from a marriage bureau advertisement was heard in divorce court here today when Ward H. Jacobs, 57, opposed an action by his wife to collect $75 a month alimony, $150 court costs and $350 attorneys' fees.

Jacobs set forth that he answered an advertisement in a marriage bureau publication in which Elizabeth French, 45, declared she was a real home lover and good cook, and that she was well educated.

Jacobs maintained that his wife, a month after they had met, began laying plans to get his money and that she was not a home lover as advertised.

The court allowed the wife $50 monthly alimony pending the suit, which was filed several weeks ago, and $25 suit money. Attorneys fees were fixed at $100.

BABY OUTANG DIES

MOTHER NOT GOOD NURSE, POST MORTEM SHOWS

BERLIN, Mar. 7.—(AP)—Because his mother hadn't the faintest idea how to take care of children, the only orang-utang to have been born in captivity is dead at the Berlin zoo at the age of only one month.

The keeper and the veterinary surgeon were much puzzled at the gradual wasting away of the baby orang-utang. The diagnosed insufficient feeding, and supplemented his mother's efforts to nurse him by giving him the bottle. He took to it readily and the danger seemed averted. But one morning he was found dead in the cage.

A postmortem revealed new facts: practically all his ribs were broken and his lungs crushed. It was then recalled that the mother repeatedly had bounced her baby on the floor as she would a ball or other plaything, and dragged him about as though he were a piece of wood. In each case the keeper had interfered immediately, but as there were no outward signs of harm, he had done nothing more about it.

Experts believe that it was solely lack of experience that led the mother to act thus toward her child. And as there are no other orang-utang mothers around, they could not teach her how to take care of her first baby.

Says French Envoy Foreigners "French"

PARIS.—(AP)—Foreigners' French is pleasant to the ear, says Maurice Bedel, author of the novel that won the last Goncourt prize, one of the most coveted awards in French literature.

Not for anything would he discourage the foreign accents, the errors of grammar, the odd phraseology of those who do their best in French.

"I would have a chair in the Sorbonne for the French of foreigners," he says.

He quotes many of the peculiar phrases used by those who flounder a little in the language and he finds the sound droll. Widely travelled, he has gained a knowledge of the characteristic mistakes of phrase and sound, by various peoples, all different, and he hopes these people will keep them, not ceasing to speak in French because they halt a little.

Paris City Pawnshop Has 150th Anniversary

PARIS.—(AP)—The Paris "Mont de Piete," or city pawnshop, is 150 years old but there will be no birthday party.

It is, officially, the credit municipal and unofficially "my aunt," merely a change in gender from the American appellation.

Private pawnshops are forbidden in France and the public loan institutions are supervised always by high authorities to insure honest and efficient administration.

Pension claims are accepted as collateral for loans at only 1 percent a year but other loans are 8 percent. At Toulouse and other cities, loans are made without interest.

The only innovation of recent years has been the acceptance of automobiles "in hock."

The pawnshop as an public, well-regulated, philanthropic institution was introduced into France by Theophraste Renaudot who founded the first Paris pawnshop. He loaned at 3 percent. He also established the first free clinics, free employment bureaus and other similar public services.

Shy Stones At Autos That Flaunt Wealth

PARIS.—(AP)—Automobiles that flaunt their owners' wealth must run a gauntlet of stone throwing throughout the "red circle" of extremists who live all around the city.

Humorous observers suggest camouflaged bodies or armored cars. Serious ones advise drivers to avoid routes through suburbs such as St. Denis and Pantin and certain city gates where communists congregate. Rocks that seem to come from nowhere break windows and mar paint but the police have had little success in their efforts to protect cars.

Highway blockades also are becoming popular with hold-up men. Stones or poles are put across the road and cars are signalled to stop and then the occupants are asked to contribute.

Men Hold Majority In University of Oxford

OXFORD, Eng.—(AP)—Oxford university, although possibly the best known educational institution in the world, has a much smaller student enrollment than the scholastic cities known as American universities. The university year book for 1928, which has just been issued, gives the number of undergraduates as 6,053, the matriculation for this year being 1,503.

Unlike American universities, however, the proportion of women to men students is very small, the enrollment being divided into 5,126 men and 927 women, which means women are less than 20 percent of the whole student body.

The number of women students has decreased in the last several years, although the university authorities have suddenly become alarmed at the number of women students to the extent of passing a regulation forbidding their number to increase beyond a certain proportion.
