

Crop Early On Spinach

The first offering of local spinach was received at local wholesale houses yesterday morning, when 10 crates were unloaded. This is pretty early for local spinach, but the crop delivered is fully as large as that coming from outside. A good supply of local spinach is anticipated in about two weeks. Price of the Salem-grown greens approximates that of the outside crop. The Dalles and Portland are both now offering a fine quality of spinach, wholesalers quoting it at from $3.50 to $4.50 per crate. Spinach from California has also been more plentiful this week.

JUST BECAUSE I LOVE YOU

PLAYED TO THE TUNE OF YOUR JINGLING DOLLARS

Some Chain Stores would like you to infer they are doing business "Just because I love you." So long as your dollars keep jingling to the tune of the song—all goes merrily along. Then perhaps you need an accommodation for a few days. The song then changes and is played not quite so jazzy entitled "O how hungry am I and the kids." The moral is: Trade with your merchant who is willing, if you are worthy, to help you should necessity arise.
