LOAN INVESTIGATEDGRAND JURY CONDUCTS PROBE INTO HILL DEALS

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(AP).—Federal grand jury investigation into a loan of $15,000 to W. S. Hill, former member of the shipping board, by Joseph L. Bley, representative of west coast shipping interests and the opposition of Hill and Commissioner P. S. Teller to the board's program for the sale of Pacific coast lines is being made to determine if there was a conspiracy to defraud the government.

The grand jury action became known today when Assistant District Attorney Connolly obtained the signature of Justice Frederick L. Siddons in the District of Columbia supreme court to an order impounding 89 telegrams that passed between Bley and persons outside of Washington. The government's petition for the order said that the grand jury was investigating the shipping board controversy on allegations that the conspiracy section of the criminal code had been violated.

Miss Crowley At Work On Course At Nashville

Salem friends of Miss Carlotta Crowley, elementary supervisor in the Salem schools now on a leave for study at Peabody Institute, will be pleased to learn that she has recently written her associates at the high school saying she is well into her course at the southern school. Her address is 1610 B. 19th avenue South, Nashville, Tenn.

She reports the weather there is much like that in Salem, except not conducive to so much pep. Concerning her work, she writes that her morning hours are spent at the demonstration school, observing the different rooms and helping with the measurement and checking of children in standard physical tests.

She mentions two studies, one on supervision of a school health program and another in early childhood education, the latter from a Miss Gage, president of the national Primary Council. A visit to the health demonstration conducted by the Commonwealth Fund at Murrensboro is called for in her weekly schedule.

Miss Crowley writes that her trip south was delightful and that she particularly enjoyed the old French quarters in New Orleans, where she stopped for a day.

Malheur Railroad Given Delay As Common Carrier

An application of the Malheur Railroad company to suspend until June 30 its operation as a common carrier between Seneca and Burns was approved by the public service commission here Thursday.

Approval of the application was based on a showing made by the railroad corporation that it lacked equipment sufficient to meet the demands of the common carrier law and that a portion of its line was not completed.

Under the order of the public service commission, the railroad company will be compelled to handle livestock shipments in five or more carload lots.

The original order making the Malheur Railroad company's line a common carrier was issued last December.

GIVE PLAY TONIGHT

"TOO MUCH MARRIED" AT MIDDLE GROVE SCHOOL

MIDDLE GROVE, March 8.—(Special).—The community club meeting will be held tomorrow evening, Friday, in the school building. Members and friends will be entertained by a play entitled "Too Much Married." The cast includes Mildred Nummenaker, Mrs. Myrtle Cheatham, Edwin Cheatham, Frank Crane and Owen Crane.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Hogan, comedians now engaged at the Capitol theater in Salem, have moved into the community. Their three children will be enrolled in the primary room at the Middle Grove school.

The advanced pupils of the Middle Grove school are planning a baseball game with Central Howell school Friday.

Mrs. Frank Crane and daughters Laura and Lucille, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schraft and daughter Genevieve, were callers in Portland Sunday.

Sunday visitors at the Victor La Due home were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Manley and Mrs. Manley, Sr.

Miss Ella Fendrich is now employed in the home of Mrs.

REBEKANS TO GIVE PLAY ON THURSDAY

At Monitor 100F Hall; Aurora Boy, Woodburn High Student, Dies

WOODBURN, Oregon, Mar. 8.—(Special).—The Rebekahs of Monitor will present a play, "The Path Across the Hill," at the Odd Fellows' Hall in Monitor Thursday evening, March 15, at 8 p. m. The receipts will be used in improving the hall. Everyone turn out and help to make this program a success.

Christina Nelson, wife of Hans Nelson, of Monitor passed away at her home on Monday, March 5. The funeral services were held at Woodburn on Tuesday, interment being at Belle Pass cemetery.

Captain Albert Johnson, who was captain of the Texaco Oil company's ships plying out of Port Arthur, Texas, departed on Monday for Port Arthur. He is a heavy stockholder in that company and went down to attend the annual meeting of the stockholders and to attend to business there.

Joseph Evans of Aurora died at his home on Tuesday night. He was a member of the Senior class of Woodburn high school. The funeral services will take place in Aurora Thursday afternoon at which the senior class will attend in a body. School will be closed in honor of this boy who was much loved and was the high school's activities manager.

C. R. Brown of Clackamas county has inherited a farm near Detroit, Michigan, valued at $30,000, also $10,000 in government bonds from a former friend of his named Sam Watts who died recently in Michigan. It appears that Watts and Brown had been old time friends and both had been employed at the Oregon City Paper Mills. Brown, who has been a laborer all his life, expects to make good use of this unexpected windfall by going and securing an education.

BASIN BILL FAVOREDSECOND MILE POST PASSED BY COLUMBIA MEASURE

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(AP).—The Columbia river basin project passed the second committee mile post today when the house irrigation committee ordered the Summers bill, to provide for adoption of the vast reclamation project in the state of Washington, favorably reported to the house.

The committee attached the Borah amendment which the Idaho senator has announced he would offer when the companion bill, reported by the senate committee reached the floor of the senate.

His amendment provides that no appropriation shall be made for construction of irrigation works for the project until a compact has been concluded between Montana, Idaho, Oregon and Washington governing the distribution of waters. The change carries a further proviso designed to protect property rights of the people of Idaho and Montana.

MISS SCHROEDER NEW SUPERVISOR

Salem Teacher Fills Vacancy Left By Miss Carlotta Crowley

Miss Lillian Schroeder, in charge of the general part time continuation school since it was established at the high school two years ago, Thursday morning assumed the duties of elementary supervisor in the Salem schools. Miss Schroeder is carrying on the work of Miss Carlotta Crowley, who left last month to do advanced study in health education at Peabody Institute, Nashville, Tenn., under a Commonwealth Fund scholarship.

Miss Schroeder contemplates no change in the program as outlined by the absent supervisor. She will be in charge until the end of the present school year. The elementary supervision work covers the first six grades of Salem schools, including the 70 teachers in charge. Miss Schroeder made her first school visits in the new capacity yesterday.

Miss Lillian Holloway, who has been teaching in the Mill City schools, has come to take immediate charge of the part time school work, directorship of which has been retained by Miss Schroeder. Miss Holloway assumed charge Wednesday afternoon.

The new elementary supervisor, a graduate of the normal school at Monmouth and who has studied at the University of Oregon and Oregon State college summer sessions, has been with the Salem schools four years, first as sixth grade teacher at Englewood and then at the Parrish high school two years.

The part time school, conducted for anyone who wishes to continue with school studies and for any length of time desired, has been a marked success under the retiring teacher. Miss Schroeder not only developed the class room interest and work until this year there has been a 20 per cent increase over last year, with a good glass of people taking more and more interest, but she has made it a point to become acquainted with the business concerns and enlist their aid in giving work to pupils in the school. Once students are placed in jobs, every effort is made to keep a check on the work they are doing.

At the present time many of the students, especially the boys, need part time jobs and are willing to do any odd work, such as wood cutting, spading and hoeing gardens, trimming lawns or anything that is offered. If those who have an odd job or steady part time employment would get in touch with either Miss Holloway or Miss Schroeder at the high school a dependable boy or girl will be sent to do the work.

2 PHILADELPHIA CLUBS DEFEATED

WINTERHAVEN, Fla., Mar. 8.—(AP).—The Boston Americans nosed out the Philadelphia Athletics today, 4 to 3. It was the second straight defeat for the Phillies, who lost yesterday to the Philadelphia Athletics.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Mar. 8.—(AP).—The Philadelphia Athletics suffered a 14 to 4 defeat at the hands of the Baltimore International today. The Baltimore team pounded three Macken pitchers for 17 hits and took advantage of the Athletics' five errors.

Tris Speaker, recently signed by Manager Connie Mack, roomed around centerfield for five innings and made a single and drew a base on balls on three trips to the plate.

Metropolitan Staff Here Goes To Seattle Banquet

John B. Hunter, district manager of the Metropolitan Life insurance company, and his entire staff, will attend a banquet which will be given by the Metropolitan company in Seattle on Saturday evening, March 10.

Local agents who will make the trip are Soton Shinkle, C. W. Snyder, G. A. Biary, Raymond Saunders and John B. Hunter.

The Salem company has met all requirements in writing and placing business during the month of February.
