

THE OREGON STATESMAN

Issued Daily Except Monday by THE STATESMAN PUBLISHING COMPANY 215 South Commercial Street, Salem, Oregon

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news published herein.

BUSINESS OFFICES: Pacific Coast Representatives—Daly & Sypas, Inc., Portland, Oregon; Bldg. 3, San Francisco, Calif.; Los Angeles, Calif.; Commerce Bldg. 3, New York, N. Y.; Chicago, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo.; Cincinnati, Ohio; St. Paul, Minn.; Kansas City, Mo.; Denver, Colo.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Portland, Ore.; Seattle, Wash.; Tacoma, Wash.; Eugene, Ore.; Astoria, Ore.; Medford, Ore.; Coos Bay, Ore.; Astoria, Ore.; Medford, Ore.; Coos Bay, Ore.

TELEPHONES: News Dept., 24 or 100; Circulation Office, 542; Advertising Office, 23 or 582; Job Department, 582; Society Editor, 106.

March 29, 1928 And the high priest arose, and said unto Him, Answerest thou nothing? What is it which these witness against thee? But Jesus held his peace. And the high priest arose, and said unto Him, I adjure thee by the living God, that thou tell us whether thou be the Christ, the Son of God. Matt. 26:62 and 63.

WHY YOU SHOULD BUY AT HOME

Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Oklahoma, known to chamber of commerce circles in Salem, sends out the following, quoted from the Ennis, Texas, Daily News and its four associate weeklies:

"Why should you buy at home? Because in buying at home you are building up your home town rather than its competitors, and when your home town grows your property values increase.

"Because if you build up your stores they will be enabled and justified in carrying larger and more varied stocks of goods so you may have the variety to choose from that those who trade away from home give as their excuse for trading in the city. By trading away from home you tear down rather than build up your own town.

"Without prosperous merchants no town can grow, and when the town goes down your investments in that town shrink in value. No town can have prosperous merchants when a good percentage of its people trade away from home.

"Because by trading at home you make it possible for more people to secure employment. You build up a place for the coming generation to work without leaving home and being subjected to the temptations and hardships of getting a start in a city.

"Because the supposed saving in price away from home is a myth, and costs you much more than the few cents you might occasionally save on a purchase which the out-of-town customer gets as a bait. Your home town merchant can and will sell you cheaper than the city store will.

"Because your home merchant is your friend and helps you in time of need, helps you care for the needy about you, helps you have better churches, schools, and other necessities and conveniences. There is every reason why you should trade at home, and only flimsy excuses why you should not."

OREGON MORTALITY, AND PROHIBITION

"The death rate from alcoholism and cirrhosis of the liver in Oregon is lower than the average for all registration states of the United States," according to a statement just issued by the board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church.

After a complete survey of statistics furnished by the United States census bureau, the board of temperance has issued "The First White Book of Prohibition," which deals with the relation of prohibition to vital statistics.

Oregon did not enter the registration area until 1918 and consequently no comparison can be made with conditions in the state prior to the advent of prohibition. It is interesting, however, to note the lower rate as compared to all other states. The death rate each year from 1918-1926 per 100,000 population in the state of Oregon from alcoholism was: 0.9, 0.8, 1.0, 2.6, 3.1, 1.8, 2.5, 2.4 and 2.9. In all registration states during the same years it was: 2.7, 1.6, 1.0, 1.8, 2.6, 3.3, 3.2, 3.6 and 3.9.

The death rate per 100,000 population from cirrhosis in all registration states was: 2.5, 7.9, 7.1, 7.4, 7.5, 7.2, 7.4, 7.3 and 7.2. While in Oregon it was: 4.7, 7.6, 6.3, 6.6, 5.8, 6.2, 6.6, 6.6. This of course, has had an effect on the death rate from all causes. The death rate from all causes in registration states per 1,000 population from 1918-1926 inclusive, was: 18.0, 12.8, 13.0, 11.6, 11.8, 12.3, 11.8, 11.8 and 12.2; while in Oregon it was: 12.8, 11.4, 11.7, 10.4, 11.5, 10.9, 11.4, 11.2 and 11.2.

It would seem high time for the federal authorities to take over the task of suppressing what amounts to a state of civil war in the city of Chicago. The federal authorities would be, or should be, impersonal—amenable to no political faction and to no particular set of gangsters.

"Business in the United States is on the up grade, with unemployment on the decrease," says the New York World, after a nation wide survey of conditions. There is too much unemployment yet, however. What this country needs is a survey by health and secretaries Herbert Hoover, with power to act.

With all unemployment in this country; but he is nearer to accomplishing that end than any other man in the public eye at the present time.

A message from Will Rogers to the Los Angeles Times from Omaha, Nebraska, says: "I have just been prowling around in this district with the farmers. They have about given up hope of getting farm relief and have decided to fertilize instead."

Cure for 'Bronzed Skin' Found By German Prof

BERLIN.—(AP)—A remarkable cure of suppurative disease, or "bronzed skin," was recorded at the meeting of the Berlin Medical Society by Professor Erich Lasker, who presented a young woman who had been suffering from this disease for several months. The patient's skin was covered with a thick, yellowish crust, and she had lost all her hair. The cure was effected by the use of a special ointment which Lasker had discovered.

By a tubercular infection of this capsular gland surrounding the kidney her health had been completely undermined. The skin had become so thick and crusty that she was unable to walk. The cure was effected by the use of a special ointment which Lasker had discovered.

disintegration of her blood had led to a state of such bodily exhaustion that death was imminent. Prof. Lasker now conceived the idea of excising the patient's sick organ and sewing merely under the skin of her breast a normal suprarenal gland which promptly resumed the interrupted work of secreting the requisite stimulating fluid for the proper functioning of the alimentary system.

The patient's bronzed appearance rapidly changed to a normal tone and in an incredibly short time she was cured and regained her full working capacity.

Read the Classified Ads

SWEETHEARTS

AUTHOR OF 'MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS, CONFESSIONS OF A WIFE, ETC.'

REAL THIS FIRST: Lynda Fenton, a singularly innocent and lonely girl, is private secretary to Ralph Armitage.

Her father, a drunkard, has spoiled her life because he continually tells her that her mother deserted them, and that all women have their price.

Lynda meets Emily Andrews, who cherishes a secret fondness for David Kenmore, Lynda's companion from childhood. The rivalry against Lynda from the very beginning. David tells Lynda he loves her, but she decides she doesn't want to be in love with any man.

Lynda's father, too, deserts her, and she is left to live with her mother. Claire tells of innocent love for Fred Blaque, a married man.

Ralph Armitage pays Lynda artful compliments. Lynda adopts the use of a lipstick to hide her "innocence."

Lynda and Emily Andrews have been invited to June Challer's big party, and Emily comes in to entice Lynda away from her work.

In Ralph's absence, to go shopping with her in preparation for the fair.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY Chapter 21 Enhancement for Enchantment

"I sometimes wonder, Lynda, whether you're as good and as innocent as you seem," Emily continued. "But whatever you do, my dear, don't try to high-tail me. Surely you're not such an idiot as to think that Armi doesn't think that you are good looking."

"You are good looking, but I don't know that he admires you."

"Besides, you have got 'IT,' as they say in Hollywood. You must have learned that by this time. I've been watching you for the last few days, darling. You stack up pretty well, but your technique is still rather faulty. I am going to enlighten you to a few things, my dear, by which you can enhance your attractiveness one hundred per cent."

"In the first place, you never use perfume, do you?" Lynda shook her head, while she wondered what that had to do with being a successful stenographer.

"I never thought much about it, Emily," she said, "except once in a while I have become once sickened by the conglomeration of smells in the outer office."

"I know it," acknowledged Emily. "There isn't one girl in ten who knows how to use perfume properly, and besides, you know, good perfume is expensive; but I've noticed, dear girl, that most men are fond of a subtle fragrance hovering about any woman."

"Is that so, Emily?" I thought they hated it. David has always told me so.

"David was telling you something that was not true, Angel Child. He was either lying to you or to himself. You know there is nothing in the world that men like to do more than to kiss someone and they usually begin with themselves. If I get out of perfume, I always take some man of my acquaintance when I shop for it. He'll buy the most expensive at the counter and I will usually walk away with one of those lovely perimeters as well."

"That is a nice name for it whatever it is," interrupted Lynda.

"That is what I like to call them," explained Emily. "A man, my dear, likes to think the girl he admires has red lips, and would not be guilty of using a lipstick," continued Emily. "He wants to think that her bobbed hair is naturally curly even when her permanent waves it rather frizzly, and he always tells her when his lips touch her neck just behind her ear, that her fragrant skin entices him, denying even to himself that the elusive perfume that pleases him is made by some French perfumer and liberally sprayed over her hair, whenever she dresses to go out."

"Every man, my dear, likes to think that he has picked out the one perfect girl in all the world, except that it was Claire Stanton, who suggested you use lipstick, and having begun it, you'll have to live up to it. I bet Armi noticed it the first thing when you came in this morning."

Lynda could not help smiling, but she said nothing. She blushed a little, however.

"There, I know he noticed it," said Emily. "Probably told you he didn't like it, but if you pay any attention to Ralph Armitage's likes and dislikes, and compare them with what he says are his, you will see that he differs from each other quite a bit; and I begin to feel a little sorry for you, if you try to follow them. Indeed, I, myself, kept out of the mess, and let him see early that I didn't want to be his secretary. I knew that any girl that Armi wants, he is very apt to get. He has had so many, that he has come to believe he has but to stretch out his arms, and the nearest girl walks into them; in fact, June Challer said the other day that he is the man that puts 'arms' into 'Armitage.'"

Just then the telephone jangled, and the same impatient woman's voice that had called before, commanded that Mr. Ralph Armitage should come to the phone immediately.

"Mr. Armitage is not in. Will you leave your name? Can I deliver any message to him?" Lynda answered, politely.

"Have you any idea that he will be in this afternoon?" "I can't tell. If you will leave your number, I will have him call you."

"Will you please send for Miss Calla?" (the voice was more impatient than before.) "Miss Calla is not here any more. You are talking with Mr. Armitage's present secretary. Can I do anything for you?"

Emily Andrews was giggling. "That's Pamela Sheston, Lynda. She is the girl with the worst disposition on the American stage. Armi rushed her pretty hard at the beginning of last season, but I think he is now tired of her temper. She raised Merry Hader with him whenever he looked at another girl. If she ever catches a glimpse of you, Lynda, then good night. You will be the excuse for another diamond bracelet or a terrible scandal. You see, Armi thinks any girl can be bought off with a diamond, but I am sure it will take more than that to shut off Pamela Sheston."

"Come on, Lynda, I want your opinion on a gold cloth evening dress, that has just been reduced from one hundred to thirty-five dollars. I can't afford even the thirty-five, but it is such a bargain. I'm out on dinner with John Calhoun two or three times a week this month, and save on my meals; besides, he will send me flowers that I can immediately turn into money at a little florist shop. They will take orchids at half price any time. He is an awful bore, but that will help me, and I think you'll say the dress is worth it. What are you going to wear to the party, Lynda?"

(To be Continued.)

PICK PORTLAND MAN POULTRYMEN'S HEAD

E. J. Dixon Elected President of Oregon State Cooperative Council.

EUGENE, March 27.—(AP)—E. J. Dixon, Portland, manager of the Pacific Cooperative Poultry Producers' association, was elected president of the Oregon Cooperative Council at the close of a two day session here today. Other officers were J. O. Holt, manager of the Eugene Fruit Growers' association, first vice president; M. J. Newhouse, manager North Pacific Cooperative Fruit Exchange, Portland, second vice president; and George O. Gatlin, marketing specialist of Oregon State Agricultural college, secretary.

Decision to appoint an committee to study existing Oregon legislation governing cooperative marketing and suggest reforms desirable to the state's cooperative organizations, 30 of which were represented at the meeting here, was reached today. This followed a discussion of the recent action of the supreme court, upholding the Hingham law in Kentucky, which makes it unlawful for any individual or corporation to induce a member of a cooperative organization to break his contract with the association. Some such legislation was considered desirable for Oregon.

The council went on record to-day requesting a ruling by carriers operating in the Pacific northwest to allow shippers the privilege of shipping both canned goods and dried fruits in single cars, which, it was stated, is not at present allowed.

197 TUITION PUPILS MANY FROM OUTSIDE SALEM ATTEND HIGH SCHOOL

Students at the senior high school who come from Marion county districts where there are no high schools total 197, according to figures compiled by J. C. Nelson, principal. Polk county districts close to Salem send an additional 36 "tuition" students, two come from Hamilton county and one each from Benton and Lane, bringing the total to 237, the statistics further reveal.

These students do not pay their own tuition fees; if such were the case, it is a safe guess the number of out-of-district boys and girls who are receiving a high school education would be materially reduced. Their fees come from the county tuition fund, provided for high school students of those district minus a high school.

But four students who pay their own tuition fees are now attending the school, although there have been as many as nine. Of the four are: Filipino, one comes from Valsec and two from Gervais.

Thirty-six Marion county districts furnish the 197 pupils, with Keizer leading with 21 and Auburn next with three less. Liberty and Prineville lead for third place, each sending 16 students.

Representatives from other rural school districts number: Hayesville, 13; Salem Heights, 11; Pratum, 10; Fruitland, 10; Buena Crest, 8; Labish Center, 7; Middle Grove, 7; Rosedale, 7; Fairview, 6; Roberts, 6; Clear Lake, 6; Pleasant Point, 5; Ricker, 4; Sunnyside, 4; Wacoona, 4; Brooks, 3; Swoleg, 3; Oak Ridge, 3; Looney, 2; Mission, 2; North Howell, 2. One student comes from each of the following: Battlement Creek, Illihee, Rock Point, Willard, Hazel Green, Shaw, Centerville, Crooked Finger, Perkins, Abiqua and Bethel.

Ten Polk county districts are represented, with West Salem in the lead with 17 students. Brush College and Lincoln have four apiece, Eola three, Spring Valley and Popocora two each, and one each from Smithfield, Greenwood and Mountain View.

RHEUMATISM Cannot Exist in the Human Body

It is now absurd and preposterous to suffer rheumatic pains from muscular, inflammatory, sciatic, neuritis, lumbago or other ailments.

Trunk's Prescription does not depress the heart nor ruin the stomach, and no dieting is necessary to make it effective. Trunk's Prescription contains no harmful drugs, and contains ingredients that are positive, aversive, any kind of rheumatism. It is impossible to get something better. What more can be said? Ideal Uric Acid Solvent and Liver Medicine anyone can use with safety and satisfaction. Trunk's Prescription is sold by reliable druggists everywhere—the Druggist's Drug Store, 115 So. Commercial St., Philadelphia, Pa.

CHILD'S PROBLEMS OUTLINED IN BOOK

Work by Douglas A. Thom, M.D., Presents Practical Guide To Direction

(The following review of "Everyday Problems of the Everyday Child" was written especially for The Statesman by Beatrice Crawford-Newcomb.)

A prize winning new book by Douglas A. Thom, M.D., director of the Habit Clinics of Boston, published by D. Appleton and company, New York, $2.50. This book has been selected by the editors of Children, the Magazine for Parents, as the most outstanding work of its kind during the past year and of the greatest help to parents.

A handsome medical has been awarded Dr. Thom, one of the leading authorities in the field of child training and management.

The world is filled with everyday children of everyday parents. If these parents can secure a little more knowledge of the motives that make children act and feel the way they do, many children may be saved from developing a neurotic attitude toward life and its problems. It is to fill just this need that Dr. Thom's book was written.

The responsibility of training the child and providing him with a suitable environment in which to grow up, belongs to the parents and should be assumed by them.

If they are to meet this obligation adequately and successfully, it is necessary that the task be taken seriously, and that they give the subject of child training the thought and consideration that it merits.

Certainly there is no problem more worthy of the parent's time and efforts than that of helping to shape the child's personality, so that he may be a happy and efficient adult.

Being a helpful parent involves more than loving the child and being interested in his welfare. Knowledge is required for this job just as it is for any other important task.

In every case, and under all conditions, the child's physical health should be carefully investigated under medical supervision and every attempt made to correct any defects that are found. It is necessary, however, to keep in mind that the physical, intellectual and emotional aspects of the child's life never operate independently of one another for a very long period of time.

The book contains 20 chapters and 340 pages of the most practical and down to cases information on "what is the matter with Johnny," that parents have been privileged to have in such readable truly scientific style by an authority on the subject of child training. For it is only within recent years that conduct behavior has been scientifically studied. Much has been learned; there is more to learn. Parents can begin no better than by a careful study of "Everyday Problems of the Everyday Child."

GERMAN PLANE POISED TO FLY OVER ATLANTIC

runway was being built, was the young German nobleman. He carried a monocle screwed in his right eye. His slim figure was garbed in a navy blue yachting suit and he wore a German student's cap. The suit he said he does not intend to take off until he reaches Mitchell field, Long Island.

Two Flyers Different Von Huenefeld is as superstitious as the ordinary sailor who sails the sea in ships; his pockets are filled with trinkets, omens of good luck and pieces of all kinds. Today he fled like a scared rabbit from a photographer who attempted to take movies of him.

Contrasted with the monocled nobleman, the chunky, quiet, steady Koehl, chief pilot, watched preparations for the getaway with most disinterestedly. To him, flying the Atlantic isn't luck but science and nerves. He has a copy of Lindbergh's book and from it he says he has learned the lesson that ice and sleet on the wings of the plane are likely to be his greatest enemy.

May Veer to South To avoid this he plans to shoot direct for New York, if necessary turning south whenever he encounters cold winds and rain.

ROTARY NOMINATES

NO CONTEST FOR OFFICES; BISHOP TELLS OF TRIP

Officers for the coming year were nominated at the Rotary club luncheon Wednesday, and no additional names were added to the list as presented by the nominating committee, it is presumed that this group will be chosen as officers when the election is held April 25.

The list included: William McGilchrist, Jr., president; Walter Jenks, vice president; Eric Butler, secretary; William Walton, treasurer; Walter Wimer and Rev. Fred Taylor, directors.

C. P. Bishop, attired in the

FIRST BOTTLE HELPED HER

Keeps On Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I always use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It includes poison before and after childbirth. I am a mother of three children—two little girls and a baby boy. I would get run-down, nervous, dizzy and weak sometimes so I had to lie in bed. I would take the Vegetable Compound as a tonic and after taking the first bottle, I found it to be a good tonic. I always recommend your medicines to my friends and I cannot speak too highly of them."—ALVA LOUGHRAN, 1607 S. Front Street, Phila., Pa.

ROTARY NOMINATES

NO CONTEST FOR OFFICES; BISHOP TELLS OF TRIP

Officers for the coming year were nominated at the Rotary club luncheon Wednesday, and no additional names were added to the list as presented by the nominating committee, it is presumed that this group will be chosen as officers when the election is held April 25.

The list included: William McGilchrist, Jr., president; Walter Jenks, vice president; Eric Butler, secretary; William Walton, treasurer; Walter Wimer and Rev. Fred Taylor, directors.

C. P. Bishop, attired in the

FIRST BOTTLE HELPED HER

Keeps On Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I always use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It includes poison before and after childbirth. I am a mother of three children—two little girls and a baby boy. I would get run-down, nervous, dizzy and weak sometimes so I had to lie in bed. I would take the Vegetable Compound as a tonic and after taking the first bottle, I found it to be a good tonic. I always recommend your medicines to my friends and I cannot speak too highly of them."—ALVA LOUGHRAN, 1607 S. Front Street, Phila., Pa.

ROTARY NOMINATES

NO CONTEST FOR OFFICES; BISHOP TELLS OF TRIP

Officers for the coming year were nominated at the Rotary club luncheon Wednesday, and no additional names were added to the list as presented by the nominating committee, it is presumed that this group will be chosen as officers when the election is held April 25.

The list included: William McGilchrist, Jr., president; Walter Jenks, vice president; Eric Butler, secretary; William Walton, treasurer; Walter Wimer and Rev. Fred Taylor, directors.

C. P. Bishop, attired in the

FIRST BOTTLE HELPED HER

Keeps On Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I always use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It includes poison before and after childbirth. I am a mother of three children—two little girls and a baby boy. I would get run-down, nervous, dizzy and weak sometimes so I had to lie in bed. I would take the Vegetable Compound as a tonic and after taking the first bottle, I found it to be a good tonic. I always recommend your medicines to my friends and I cannot speak too highly of them."—ALVA LOUGHRAN, 1607 S. Front Street, Phila., Pa.

ROTARY NOMINATES

NO CONTEST FOR OFFICES; BISHOP TELLS OF TRIP

Officers for the coming year were nominated at the Rotary club luncheon Wednesday, and no additional names were added to the list as presented by the nominating committee, it is presumed that this group will be chosen as officers when the election is held April 25.

The list included: William McGilchrist, Jr., president; Walter Jenks, vice president; Eric Butler, secretary; William Walton, treasurer; Walter Wimer and Rev. Fred Taylor, directors.

C. P. Bishop, attired in the

THE MORNING ARGUMENT

AUNT HET By Robert Quillen

"I reckon a woman don't never get too fat to wish some handsome feller would pick her up an' tote her the way the hero does in the movies."

"Ma was afraid the children would catch my poor uncle's cold but when her rich uncle was here with a bad cold she said she didn't believe colds was catchin'."

Phil Eiker has filed as an opponent to have little effect on the campaign. Although Mayor T. A. Lively Wednesday announced that the proposed council-manager charter would be submitted to the council next Monday for submission to the voters, the usual routine of selecting a council will be to go through, as the new form of government is by no means a certainty, and in any case it will include provision for a council, although its composition may be somewhat different from the present ward representation plan.

The charter revision committee has been called to meet Friday evening to take final action upon the proposed charter before it goes to the council Monday.

LINDBERGH BUYS SELF BRAND NEW AIRPLANE

Colonel Lindbergh will leave early tomorrow for an unannounced destination, said to be in the west.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP)—The state department has something up its sleeve in connection with Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's future plans, and because of its reticence a lot of speculation is going the rounds, including a report that the trans-Atlantic flyer is to be sent on a "good will" trip around the world.

Another rumor is that Lindbergh is concerned with mapping out a definite program for airplane service to Central and South America.

Some of the reports has been confirmed. All of them arose from a brief conference the aviator had yesterday at the state department with Acting Secretary Olds.

Lindbergh spent his first day in "retirement" yesterday by taking some more members of congress, diplomats, and White House guests, for aerial taxi rides.

BLASTING NEAR DAM RECOUNTED AT PROBE

house that housed the clock and called himself up the remaining way to the top of the 185 foot dam. The chart shows the first break in the dam came at 11:57 p. m. March 12—the pencil line turned downward at an abrupt angle and then plunging to the bottom of the chart, showing the dam was wide open at 12:02 a. m.

By this record and the record of the power station below it was shown that the flood traveled at a rate of 18 miles an hour.

CITY POLITICS LACKING AS FILING TIME NEAR

ate wants him to run. A good many of the planks of the platform on which he was elected have been put into effect, and there remains nine months in which to clean up the rest of them, so the mayor presumably thinks the matter of a second term is of little moment.

As for other candidates, it may be that there are some men who would jump into the race but if so they are waiting for Mayor Lively to declare himself, just as leading republicans waited until President Coolidge said the "ten famous words." At any rate none of them has made an appearance on the political horizon.

The race for places on the council has shown a little more life, but here is no congestion of traffic as yet. Only two definite contests have developed, that in the second ward where Hal D. Patton is running to succeed himself and

RED PEPPER HEAT ENDS RHEUMATISM

Red Pepper Rub takes the "ouch" from sore, stiff, aching joints. It cannot hurt you, and it certainly stops that old rheumatism torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red pepper. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any good druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

Your Fishing Hole

We have been asked why we talk of outside stores in our ad.

Well, it is a good deal like you with YOUR FISHING HOLE.

You have selected the hole, and are pulling out nice shining beauties when here comes Jim Bunkum and casts his line in your hole.

We are now leaving you and Bunkum to your fishing and get back to our store.

Here are Values Not Baits

4 lbs of Good Broiling Onions 10c

8 lb pail Jewel Shortening $1.35

Best Quality Margarine 19c

Solid Head Lettuce 5c

New shipment Fresh Roasted Coffee, 35c lb., 3 lbs. $1.00

1/2 sack 24 1/2 lbs. Snowfall Hard Wheat Blend Flour 89c

1 lb Lipton Coffee 49c

1 lb Choice Dried Apricots 19c

7 bars Citrus Washing Soap 25c

1 can Sunbrite Cleanser 5c

HOSIERY

The guaranteed line