Paintings of Twenty Oregon Artists Now on Display in Salem

Twenty Oregon artists, all well-known throughout the United States and many of them in Europe, are represented in the interesting display which is being shown this week in a Court street room of the Senator hotel building. Other interesting features of the exhibit are eight paintings shown by Ralph Gilbert, a local artist who is winning prominence in other parts of the country, block prints made by Dr. Mary C. Rowland of Salem, and tapestries, painted by Miss Gertrude Savage, also of Salem.

A table of excellent photographs shown by the Kennell Ellis studio is the subject of much interest. The Drake studio of Silverton and Gunnell-Robb studio of Salem also have displays.

A portfolio of water-color sketches of Florence Clarke of Portland are one of the loveliest features of the entire exhibit. These eight charming sketches are very similar to her quaint illustrations in Theodore Harper's "The Mushroom Boy" and others of his books. Mrs. Clarke is particularly interested in children, but she is equally successful in other branches of art. Her series of pictures illustrating Indian legends are published in the Sunday edition of the Oregon Journal.

Another interesting artist, Melville T. Wire of Pendleton, has two canvases, "Morning on the Dunes" and another eastern Oregon scene included in the exhibit. Dr. Wire was a student in the art department of Willamette University, under the tutelage of Miss Marie Craig from whom he received his first encouragement in oil painting. After moving to The Dalles in 1908 he began painting out of doors. Sand dunes and the sagebrush country of the eastern part of the state have always had great appeal for this artist.

Dr. Wire has had paintings hung in exhibitions of art in Portland, Seattle, and San Francisco. He is pastor of the First Methodist church at Pendleton.

Two other usually attractive paintings of the First Methodist church are "Eucalyptus" and "Montigny Sur Loing" painted by Alfred Schroff, head of the Fine Arts Department at the University of Oregon. Mr. Schroff has a diploma from the Beaux Arts at Fontainebleau for frescoes. He was awarded the first prize at Seattle and in Springfield, Utah. He also won the medal for stained glass at the World's Columbian Exhibition.

These are only three of the 20 talented artists who have beautiful paintings hanging in the exhibit.

Mrs. Alice H. Dodd gave an interesting talk yesterday afternoon on the successive steps that an artist must make in painting a picture. She said that unless an artist has the divine gift study will be of little use.

The six steps which Mrs. Dodd gave as necessary for the completion of a picture are selection of a subject, rejection of unnecessary objects in the picture, careful subject, idealism, emphasis of the subject, idealism, and interpretation.

Mrs. Dodd considers painting the most difficult form of artistic expression. She feels that the modern paintings lack emphasis. Every picture, according to the speaker, is painted from one of three geometric plans, a circle, a triangle or the letter S.

Mrs. Carl Gregg Doney, Mrs. A. N. Moores, Mrs. Henry J. Bean, Mrs. Guy O. Smith, Mrs. Walter Spaulding, all members of the Salem Woman's club, assisted by Mrs. Clifton Mudd and the members of her section of the Salem Arts League, were in charge yesterday afternoon.

Members of the music section of the Salem Arts League, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Thomas Larkin Williams, composed the hostess committee Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Martin F. Ferry, Mrs. Gustave Ehsen, and Mrs. Morton Peck are members of the hostess committee for this afternoon. Mrs. John L. Rand is chairman of the committee which will be in charge this evening.

This exhibit which is being shown in Salem under the sponsorship of the Salem Arts League and the Salem Woman's club, is open to the public from two-thirty to five o'clock each afternoon and from seven-thirty to 10 o'clock each evening.

ANTI-HOOVER FIGHT TO BE CONTINUED

Willis Supporters May Join Forces of Dawes, Coolidge, Lowden

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 2.—Deprived of their first choice for the republican presidential nomination by the sudden death of Senator Frank B. Willis, candidates for delegate who were pledged to the senator may throw their support either to President Coolidge, former governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois or Vice President Charles G. Dawes, it was indicated at Willis' headquarters here tonight.

Possibility that the Willis delegates may seek to draft Mr. Coolidge notwithstanding his repeated declarations that he does not "choose" to run was admitted by the followers of the late senator.

Mr. Lowden is now the second choice of 34 of the 51 candidates and there was said to be sentiment in favor of him for first choice, while expressions of friendliness toward Mr. Dawes, a native Ohioan, likewise were heard today. Mr. Dawes was born and reared at Marietta, Ohio, and by many is looked on as an Ohio "favorite son."

Final decision will rest entirely with the delegate candidates who will hold a meeting tomorrow night at Delaware, Ohio, following the senator's funeral.

AIRPORT HELD VITAL NEED FOR THIS CITY

Airmail Expert Visits Salem In Interest of Fast Transportation

The increase in amount of business and an adequate landing field which can be used the year around are the two main coggs for the promotion of a direct air mail connection between Salem and New York, declares Scholer Bangs of Seattle, traffic representative for the Pacific Northwest division of the United States transcontinental air mail, who is spending several days in this city to arouse interest to establish an air mail service here.

Either Seattle or Portland will soon become the terminal of air mail service, with the volume of business being the determining factor, he asserts.

"Though Salem should develop the volume of business necessary to warrant our extension of service and the landing of a ship here, the present field would prevent the service, for we cannot land on such a field as exists at the fairgrounds," Bangs declared after he returned from a visit to the grounds. "With such a field the pilot would face possibility of an accident every time he landed and if he landed safely it is doubtful if he would be able to stake off the wheels being mired too deeply."

He stated that he was very much surprised at the fact that the capital city had not as yet taken any steps toward the promotion of building a permanent field. He declared that before his concern would consider this city on its route, an all-year round landing field must be assured.

That Tired Feeling

Is it caused by overwork—either mental or physical—or is it due to a condition of the system known as "over-acidity"?

Scientists claim the latter cause to be largely responsible for lack of endurance, and emphasize the vital importance of maintaining the "Chemical Balance"—that margin by which alkali exceeds acid in the blood.

This natural tonic is Alkaline in action—neutralizes the acid and supplies mineral elements which are absolutely essential to health.
