

PETTY THIEVES OUT FULL FORCE AGAIN

Car Accessories Principal Prey; O'Malley Taken Back to The Dalles

Petty thieves were again out in full force last night and relieved a few local folk of car accessories. Every row and then lately, people have reported losing various articles from their cars while parked on the streets.

W. Kleen, route 6, Salem, reported to police last night that a motometer had been stolen from his automobile which was parked in front of Jason Lee church. It had only been parked a short time until the meter was found missing.

Roy Thillit, Salem, met with the same mishap. He reported that his motometer had been removed from his machine which was parked at 1530 Highland avenue. Only a few nights ago a couple of tires, rims and chains were stolen. Eddie O'Malley, who turned himself over to local police officers a few days ago, admitting that he had stolen the automobile which he was driving at The Dalles, was turned over yesterday afternoon to Officer John Stanley of this city, who took the prisoner back to The Dalles. O'Malley, who was on parole from the state prison, declared that it was harder to get along in the outside world than within the prison walls, and was anxious to get back to the penitentiary. His wish may be fulfilled.

HILL LINES SUPPORT LINN COUNTY ROAD

Backers of New Railway Near Albany Come Out Into Open At Last

PORTLAND, Apr. 6.—(AP)—Insistent rumors current here for several weeks to the effect that the proposed Linn County Logging and Lumber Railway company line in Linn county was substantiated today when formal request of the Oregon Electric railway to be substituted as applicant for the necessary certificate of convenience and necessity was filed with the interstate commerce commission in Washington, D. C.

It was stated here by F. Turner, president of the Oregon Electric, that the road had taken over the project as of April 1. Work on the new line, which is to tap the huge timber stands in eastern Linn county, will be pushed rapidly ahead, Turner said, once the certificate is obtained from the interstate commission.

The project, already outlined embraces 68.8 miles of road, a good portion of which will be of standard construction, between Albany and Foster and Cascadia, Ore., by way of Lebanon and Sweet Home. Four branches have been projected, and the route surveyed.

The main line as mapped by the surveyors cost about $1,000,000 and the branch lines probably $750,000 more. The length of the road may not be as great as the line now surveyed however. Between Albany and Lebanon the new line would closely parallel an existing Southern Pacific line. No one familiar with such affairs would be greatly surprised were the interstate commerce commission to dictate that construction begin at Lebanon instead of Albany.

Application of the logging road company for permission to build was filed with the state and interstate commissions on February 28. The timber to be directly tapped exceeds 20,000,000,000 feet, and out great extension of lines as still more might be reached with proposed.

ACTRESS RULED OFF STAGE AS PENALTY

Failure To Appear and Take Part In Plays Brings Suspension

NEW YORK, Apr. 6.—(AP)—The Actors Equity association today banished Jeanne Eagels from the legitimate stage for a year and a half, but the defiant star of "Rain," "The Garden of Eden," and "Her Cardboard Lover" announced that she would be back on Broadway during the coming season. Equity or no Equity, "No group of actors," she told reporters angrily in her apartment, "for whom with a few exceptions, I have no respect, can keep me from earning my living."

DEPEW'S BODY LIES IN NEW YORK HOME

Many Messages of Condolence Continue To Pour In To Relatives

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—In a silent brownstone house situated immediately around a corner from the speeding traffic of Fifth avenue, the body of Chauncey Mitchell Depew rested tonight, while leaders in the nation gathered to pay him their last tribute on the morrow.

Through an atmosphere of peaceful quiet that contrasted oddly with the noisy movements in surrounding blocks, vehicles moved silently and hundreds of white leaders in the nation gathered to pay him their last tribute on the morrow.

None in the steady stream of visitors remained in the house more than a few moments. None would talk to reporters, even to give his name. Shoppers from Fifth avenue, hoping for only a glimpse of some noted figure among the visitors, strayed into the street to wait idly and curiously as long as police would allow them.

Messages of condolence continued to pour in on the family today. Sir Esmo Howard, British ambassador to Washington, said, "I have received a cable from the Prince of Wales saying that his royal highness is deeply distressed to hear of the death of Mr. Depew."

Signs of mourning were displayed throughout the state. By order of Governor Smith flags on state buildings were at half mast. Grand Central terminal and other railroad stations were draped in black.

2 DROWN IN WILLAMETTE

Raft Overtaken Near Portland With Fatal Results

PORTLAND, Apr. 6.—(AP)—Two boys drowned today in the Willamette river in the Peninsula district, near Portland, when the raft on which they were playing overturned and threw them into the water. The boys were DeWayne Cochran, 11, and Wayne Bishop, 14. Bishop's father is in Eugene, but the boy has been living here with his grandparents.

The bodies were recovered only after an airplane had been called by the pilot, Beverly Clarke, sighted the bodies in the water, and by means of pre-arranged signals, communicated with Burt Thurber, telegraph operator, who was working near the place where they boys met death. A harbor patrol then recovered the bodies.

FALL GOES TO PASADENA

Occupant of National Scandal Spotlight in Sanitarium

EL PASO, TEXAS, Apr. 6.—(AP)—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, left here tonight on the Sunset limited at 1:45 for Los Angeles.

From Los Angeles the former cabinet officer will go to a sanitarium at Pasadena for an indefinite time. Fall's party consisted of Mrs. Fall, Mrs. B. F. Elliott, a daughter and H. G. Clunn, for many years Fall's private secretary.

Fall's trip to Pasadena was undertaken on the advice of his physician, Dr. H. T. Safford, who believed the lower altitude will be beneficial to Fall's heart. He has suffered from low blood pressure.

Fall appeared somewhat feeble but cheerful as he was assisted from his automobile to the train.

DALLAS GROUP COMING

Will Provide Program Monday at Chamber of Commerce

Representatives of the Dallas chamber of commerce will be the speakers at the Salem chamber of commerce luncheon next Monday noon, it was announced yesterday. They will include R. S. Kresson, president of the Dallas organization; Oscar Hayter, attorney; J. R. Beck, county agent; Earle Richardson, editor of the Dallas Itemizer-Observer; and Dr. A. R. Starbuck.

R. R. Turner, superintendent of the Dallas schools and former state superintendent, will introduce the speakers and officiate at the five minute bell. Mrs. Charles N. Bilyea, secretary of the Dallas chamber of commerce, will also be asked to speak.

Bits For Breakfast

Eugene celebrated yesterday—Celebrated the 75th birthday of Jean Straub.

Prof. John Straub, dean (emeritus) of men at the University of Oregon, has served that institution for 50 years.

And he is one of the youngest men in spirit on the campus there. He is on duty every day, with his famous smile and the twinkle of his eyes that the generations of students have known for half a century, and still know.

Time was when John Straub taught seven different subjects in the university—everything from trigonometry to French. And German. He learned German at his mother's knee; though he was born in Philadelphia.

What a fund of information Dean Straub has gathered all these years; what memories of the old days and the new days, of the row freshmen who have been greeted on coming and the sage seniors who have been speeded on their going.

Dean Straub has loved them all, and in turn has been loved and respected by every one.

He is still straight as an arrow; full of pep and vigor and hope and good will. He is one of the grand old men of Oregon. But no one regards him as old who knows him well, and he lives on joyously like the youngster he has appeared for 50 years.

Funeral services for O. K. Middleton, 52, will be held at 1:30 Saturday at Rigdon's Mortuary with interment in the Cityview cemetery. His wife, and four children, Donald, Jean, Keith and Kenneth, survive him.

DELAYING VOTE ON CITY MANAGER PLAN FAVORED

Charter before filing it for the election.

Then if the charter is placed on the ballot, the public will have 30 days in which to become familiar with it. That might be considered sufficient time, but in view of the misconceptions that have already arisen, it is certainly none too much.

Safeguards Ample It is reported for instance, that the city manager would have almost autocratic power; for instance, to fix the salaries of subordinate employees. This is not true; the charter says that the manager shall fix these salaries, subject to the approval of the council.

Another matter of fact, the manager's powers are in every way safeguarded against abuse; especially in the provision that he shall be chosen for no definite period, but may be removed by the vote of three members of the council at any time. He is entitled to a hearing if removed, but the council's subsequent decision is final.

Prejudice Observed In this respect the charter can scarcely be criticized adversely, but there is certain to be some prejudice against entrusting the entire business of the city to one officer, and a thorough campaign of education will be necessary to remove this objection, if it ever is removed. The manager plan works admirably in nearly every case where it is adopted; but Salem people will have to be convinced of this, and they will not be convinced over night.

One other objection to placing the charter revision on the ballot is the question that has been raised as to the legality of the filing 30 days before the election. This question may presumably be settled by securing competent legal opinion, but that should be done before the situation becomes hopelessly involved.

The proposed charter provides that it shall go into effect on January 1 following its adoption, so that a vote in November would cause it to be put in operation as

OMAHA CRIPPLED; NEWS SERVICE USES WIRELESS

Telephone lines out of Omaha were put out of service and nearly 1,000 city subscribers were cut off Irvington, Bellevue and other towns near Omaha, depending on that city for power and light reverted to predecessors of electricity.

WOW cancelled its programs today so that its reception of news would not be disrupted.

OMAHA, Neb., April 6.—(AP)—(By Radio to Des Moines)—When Omaha awoke to find itself isolated from the outside world today with wire service paralyzed by one of Nebraska's worst April snow storms in history, radio station WOW here filled the breach.

The World Herald from its offices through remote control went on the air at 8 a. m. to broadcast the first word of the severity of the storm to the outside world. WOW called Des Moines, asking listeners to notify the Associated Press and WHO there to tap on the air with news bulletins for the Omaha newspapers.

Stations in Lincoln and Kansas City also picked up the call and within an hour announcers at both points were on the air. The World Herald also broadcast a detailed story of conditions in Omaha which in turn was copied and broadcast through WIOU, Des Moines, and WDAF, Kansas City.

To Roberts Dairy at Lincoln was broadcast an appeal to rush milk here, the city fearing a shortage might be faced tomorrow.

The Northwestern Bell Telephone company also resorted to the radio to get in touch with its outside offices, one of its appeals being made to the Des Moines office for 250,000 feet of wire to be used in restoring communications in and about Omaha.

One thousand poles of the telephone company were down in Omaha and 1500 telephones were out of commission, with nearly that many out of operation in Council Bluffs. The Nebraska Power company reported 650

MANY FLIGHTS HEAD WEST OVER ATLANTIC

Plans being made by Maurice Drouchin, one time pilot for Charles Levine while the latter was in Europe last year. Reports from Dublin this week indicated Drouchin was negotiating with the Irish Free State authorities for use of Baldonnel airdrome as a starting point for a trans-Atlantic flight.

Germania Start Soon BALDONNEL AIRDROME, Irish Free State, April 6.—(AP)—The projected trans-Atlantic flight of the German Junkers plane Bremen which has been straining at the leash for the past two weeks awaiting favorable weather, became a German-Irish venture today.

Colonel Jas. C. Fitzmaurice, chief of Irish Free State air forces will be the second pilot in the Bremen, accompanying Captain Hermann Koehl and Baron Von Huenefeld. The colonel will take the place of Arthur Spindler who returned to Berlin several days ago after what was reported to have been a row with the baron.

Irishman Going Too The Irish army authorities today granted Colonel Fitzmaurice leave of absence that the Bremen's flight could be a German-Irish undertaking, the Germans being particularly anxious to have an Irish pilot accompany them.

Colonel Fitzmaurice will wear the Irish air force uniform as the flight has the official sanction of the Free State government and there is great interest here over the prospect of an Irishman taking part in the hazardous adventure.

Although snow, sleet and fog over the Atlantic have been patting a damper on the plans of the flyers to get away for the United States, weather conditions were reported improving today. The Bremen is fully fueled and can be ready for flight in two hours' time.

One of the conditions on which the Irish Free State authorities granted leave of absence to Colonel Fitzmaurice was that insurance be arranged for the benefit of his wife, and "Pat" his eight year old daughter. Late tonight negotiations for this insurance had not been completed. One company demanded a 75 per cent premium for the policy.

While this business is hanging fire, Baron Von Huenefeld is pressing both Captain Koehl and Colonel Fitzmaurice for an early start. The baron has lost confidence in the American and British weather observers who have been sending reports of unfavorable Atlantic conditions to Baldonnel.

That Tired Feeling

Is it caused by overwork—either mental or physical—or is it due to a condition of the system known as "over-acidity"?

Scientists claim the latter cause to be largely responsible for lack of endurance, and emphasize the vital importance of maintaining the "Chemical Balance"—that margin by which alkali exceeds acid in the blood.

This natural tonic is Alkaline in action—neutralizes the acid and supplies mineral elements which are absolutely essential to health.
