

SHIP ENGINEER HELD AS ARMS SMUGGLER

Peter Traetvik Charged with Illegal Plot To Aid
Nicaraguans

NEW YORK, Apr. 6.—(AP)—Peter Traetvik, second engineer of the steamer Lempira, was held in $15,000 bail today on a charge of attempting to smuggle out of the country ammunition officials believe was intended for the Sando rebel forces in Nicaragua.

Arrest of the engineer and seizure of 16,000 rounds of rifle munition found concealed in his cabin aboard the Lempira was brought about by the alertness of a customs guard.

Marshall was on the east river lock at which the Lempira was tied up preparatory to leaving for Honduras when he heard voices issuing from an open porthole. Listening intently he heard the officer of another ship upbraiding Traetvik for attempting to smuggle ammunition in violation of a presidential proclamation forbidding the exportation of munitions to Honduras.

Marshall notified his chief and three agents were sent to search the engineer's cabin. They found the boxed cartridges hidden in a locker under a bureau drawer.

Officials expressed the opinion that Traetvik had been engaged for some time in running American ammunition to the Nicaraguan rebels, some of it no doubt being used against the American marines now in that country.

BRITISH HAVE EYE ON FORD'S MONEY

Woman Mayor of Southampton Wants Plant
Located There

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., April 7.—(AP)—Henry Ford's visit to England will be a sightseeing trip, not a sightseeing jaunt, if Southampton's woman mayor and numerous industrial communities have their way about it.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford arrived here Friday on the steamship Majestic, and almost the first thing they heard about as soon as the ship touched the shores was the advantage of Southampton as a manufacturing center. This was related proudly by Mrs. Foster Welch, who wore the chain of the mayoralty office and was eager to set forth her arguments in favor of her home town at the earliest possible moment.

With regard to the removal of the rubber restrictions by Great Britain, Mr. Ford said it certainly was a step in the right direction, and he was very much pleased to hear the news. Thomas Edison, he remarked, was devoting much time to the question of rubber development, hoping to find some plant which would give a greater annual yield.

"Edison at $1," continued Mr. Ford, "is as active as ever and giving rubber a great deal of his attention. He has found a plant which yields a certain percentage of rubber annually, and his problem now is to find some means of propagating this plant to his satisfaction."

FARM HAND GUILTY

OKLAHOMA DISTRICT COURT
JURY ASKS LENIENCY

EUFLALA, Okla., April 7.—(AP)—A district court jury here Friday found Charlie Edwards, young farm hand, guilty of the murder of Sherman Thompson, farmer, and recommended sentence of life imprisonment.

The state charged that Edwards and Thompson's 17 year old wife conspired to kill Thompson so they might collect his life insurance and marry.

The widow, Reba Thompson, probably will go on trial tomorrow on the same charge.

New York police are hunting for a missing bricklayer. They will probably find him riding around in a Rolls-Royce.
