

GRIP OF THE AIR
CALLS ALL PATRONS

"The Legion of the Condemned" Attracting Packed Houses This Week

Salem theater patrons are talking continuously of the remarkable picture "The Legion of the Condemned" which is showing at the Elsinore theater.

The grip of the air. Flying night and day—fighting all the time. Such is the thrilling story being told on the screen at the Elsinore and which is causing people to flock to the theater in ever increasing numbers.

Briefly, it is a wonderful picture. "The Legion of the Condemned" is filled with the romance, the daring and the excitement which surrounded those birds of war for which no mission was considered too dangerous. It is chock full of unique thrills taken from the cockpit of the airplane.

Here is a tale of a young American newspaperman who, believing that his sweetheart has passed out of his life forever, plunges into the "Legion of the Condemned" whose personnel consists of men who want more than anything else to die. Each and every one of them have pasts, and according to their philosophy their sins may be expiated only through death.

He is torn between two fires, however, when he is confronted with the problem of transporting the girl he loves over the German lines as a spy.

Poincare's Jazz Tax
Impeding Night Life

PARIS (AP)—The mills of the tax machine operated by Premier Poincare are grinding the night life of Paris exceedingly thin. Even the celebrated Cafe de Paris—as well known in song and story and the books of memoirs as Delmonico's and Churchills and other restaurants were in New York—has given up music and dancing after midnight.

Newer and still higher taxes that became effective on New Year's Day snuffed out the supper dancing there, as it did in many lesser known places. If there is music after midnight, an extra 27 1/2 per cent must be added to all the bills. Even before midnight there is, in the better more expensive places, a luxury tax and a music tax and several other taxes to pay. The new "wee small hours" tax fell too heavily on customers' pocketbooks in places that depend upon an old clientele, so they imposed a curfew on themselves.

"Oh, sir," said the head-waiter as the musicians picked up their instrument cases and slipped away at twelve—just the shank of the evening, really—"it's sad, isn't it? Why it seems only yesterday—before the war—when everybody was singing 'If I were a man I'd be, not President but he, who plays the violin in the band, in the Cafe de Paris—e-e-e.' And now he can't play after midnight."

Paris Finds Real Need for Colony of Lepers

PARIS (AP)—A leper colony, abolished centuries ago, is to be re-established in Paris.

At the old Hospital Saint Louis built under Henri IV in 1607, a wing is to be fitted up for the unfortunate. Some authorities say leprosy is on the increase and the city has taken the situation seriously as to appropriate a million francs for the new leper home.

"Unclean, unclean," the biblical warning of the lepers as they wandered about, had its equivalent in France in the sort of wood rattle which the lepers, obliged to wear a distinguishing costume, shook as they walked to enable people to get out of their way and keep at a safe distance.

For centuries there was a leper colony at the present Prison Saint Lazare, 800 years old, not far from the downtown district of Paris. It was abolished when the place became a monastery 400 years ago.

Modern Etching Mixed with Those of Insane

PARIS (AP)—A modernist etching, palmed off on the public among a lot of queer drawings by inmates of insane asylums, has stirred up a tempest, much as it was intended to do.

"The Bad Physicians," by the Belgian artist, James Ensor, was published by one newspaper, along with many strange art works by the insane, which recently were collected and exhibited by Doctor Marie, head of one of the principal asylums.

The public, apparently, accepted the bit of modern art as an asylum product, or at least said nothing. Friends of Ensor, however, raised a fuss and denounced the joke.

Humorous critics had repeatedly suggested there was a strong similarity between some of the new art cults and the untrained "expressions" of the insane but the modernists saw no humor in the situation.

The judges awarded Clarence Shabb first, Troy Crabb second, Roy Crabb third on cookies.

Arthur Franke first, Roy Crabb second and Raymond Wallace third on biscuits.

Troy Crabb first, Arthur Franke second and Raymond Wallace third on toast.

Five articles, a sample of darning and a sample book were required in each exhibit of sewing.

Alice Franke received 99 per cent on her exhibit, Margaret Magee 98 per cent, Reatha Hager 94 per cent.

All articles exhibited by ten year old Loyal Sheridan, except a hot dish holder, were hand made.

The sample books were all exceptionally good, carrying out original ideas of the making. One member made her samples into flowers while another dressed napper dolls with her materials.

The sample darn was shown by a darn on the knee of the silk hose of one doll.

One book was very attractive having the articles used in sewing drawn on the cover.

Mrs. J. Crabb was club leader for the cooking club and Mrs. M. M. Magee for the sewing club.

JAIL CELL FLOODED

PRISONER ON RAMPADE SEVERERS WATER PIPES

The city jail proved to be anything but a dry place yesterday afternoon, when William Lang, who also was wet to the gills, after being arrested by state traffic officers charged with driving a car while under the influence of liquor, was lodged in the city jail.

After standing in the middle of the prison ward for a few minutes Lang went on a rampage and tore off the window screen, tore up the beds, and made a sudden leap for the water pipes which run parallel with the ceiling of the ward. As a result they were broken, and water spouted out for several minutes before it could be stopped.

The entire floor was well covered. Lang was again nabbed by two officers who placed him in the "keg" where he could rave and rave and do no harm.

He was found in an overturned auto along the highway by state traffic police who brought him into the local station. He was so affected by the liquor that he had to be escorted between two officers in order to stand on his feet.

Officers believe that he had attempted to drive the machine down the ditch where his wife was granted a divorce from him complaining that he mistreated her and was usually drunk, never holding a steady job, working in the hop yards during the fall and doing little work in the winter and summer. Mrs. Lang now resides in California.

Lang resides at 915 Electric avenue. Later he had been confronted with considerable trouble. Only a short time ago he was granted a divorce from him complaining that he mistreated her and was usually drunk, never holding a steady job, working in the hop yards during the fall and doing little work in the winter and summer.
