INDIANA ELECTION SITUATION VIEWED

Interest Passes to Gubernatorial Race as Hoover Defeat Concede

INDIANAPOLIS, May 10 (AP)—With United States Senator James E. Watson's nomination in Indiana over Herbert Hoover for the presidency virtually assured on the republican ticket, interest in the primary now has switched to the muddled gubernatorial situation which confronted both major political parties.

The United States senatorial nominations had been determined quickly with Senator Arthur R. Robinson defeating two other republican candidates handily while Albert Stump of Indianapolis scored as impressive a victory over his opponents on the democrat side.

There was no chance for the republican governorship race to be settled until the state convention later in the month, since the combined total of the nine men who trailed Frederick E. Schortemeier of Indianapolis was much heavier than the plurality polled by the leader.

Followers of Frank C. Dalley, Indianapolis, held only faint hope that he would increase his plurality enough to exceed the combined total of the other six democratic gubernatorial contenders. Unless unexpected strength swings to Dalley in belated returns the democratic governorship contest too must go to the state convention in early June.

CHARGING THAT ROBERT E. CROWE, STATE'S ATTORNEY, IS DISQUALIFIED TO ACT BECAUSE OF PERSONAL INTERESTS, THE CHICAGO BAR ASSOCIATION HAS APPEALED IN THE CRIMINAL COURT FOR A SPECIAL GRAND JURY TO INVESTIGATE APRIL PRIMARY ELECTION IRREGULARITIES UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

A hearing on the petition, bristling with charges against the state attorney, was set for next Monday after the bar association in a surprise move, had presented the petition before Judge Harry B. Miller of the criminal court instead of Chief Justice William V. Brothers who had expected to receive it. Judge Miller said he had not expected the petition in his court and continued the matter.

The petition charged that Mr. Crowe, defeated in the April primaries, "has a personal, disqualifying interest which makes it inexpedient, unbecoming and improper," for him to act as prosecutor in the investigation requested.

The petition also referred specifically among the primary election day disorders to the slaying of Octavius Granady, a negro Deneen worker. It also was charged that Mr. Crowe opposed an impartial investigation of disorders in connection with the recent primary about which the petition said no action had been taken.

WINDOW DISPLAY ON MOTHER'S DAY

Renska Swart, at Her Place on North High, Shows Some Novel Features

(By E. G.)
A novel window display of exceptional interest, featuring Mother's day, is that of Renska Swart at 244 North High street.

A touching appeal is contained in the picture of George Washington, kneeling before his mother and clasping her hands as he bids her farewell. The Colonial tea-table and accessories; the antique chair and old fashioned footstool, with knitting dropped beside it; the white curtained, small paned window, and period armchair, all lend appropriate atmosphere to the setting.

There is also a striking likeness of Abraham Lincoln, together with an excerpt from his diary, with facsimile of his signature: "I am not bound to win, but I am bound to be true, I am not bound to succeed, but I am bound to live by what light I have. I must stand with anybody that stands right, and part with him when he goes wrong." Also his immortal words: "All that I am or hope to be I owe to my angel mother. Blessings on her memory."

"Madonna and Child," by Carlo Dolci, and "Slumberland" are charming depictions of ancient and modern mothers with babes.

A photograph of Colonel Lindbergh and his mother are shown. A poster featuring "The Pioneer Mother," prize winning statue by Bryant Baker, and used as frontpiece for cabin at "The Trail's End," by Sheba Hargreaves (Oregon author), and stanza of the poem "Oregon Pioneers," is of interest.

An art pillow bears an appropriate bit of mother verse.

Another photograph is that of a mother 89 years of age—Mrs. M. L. La Moreaux, a woman of distinguished Colonial ancestry, of high literary attainments, and life long interesting career; now a resident of Oregon, and who has recently contributed valuable historical data to the museum of Henry Ford. President Roosevelt presented her with an autographed set of his latest books, in recognition of her contribution to research in archeology and anthropology.

In connection with her picture is a hand written copy of her poem, "My House of Clay," commemorating her 88th birthday.

Other novel feature windows by Miss Swart have evoked much favorable comment.
