1928 Music Week Fittingly Observed in Salem

National Music Week was elaborately observed in Salem May 6-12 under the capable direction of Mrs. Walter Denton and a well-organized committee of local music teachers.

The leading organizations of the city, educational institutions, individual musicians, churches, theaters, and newspapers cooperated with the committee in a fitting observance of the week.

Special musical numbers were given at the churches Sunday evening. The week formally opened, however, with the concert which Miss Dorothy Pearce, Miss Lucille Ross and Miss Iva Clair Love played at the First Presbyterian church Monday evening.

An outstanding event of the week was the final concert of the MacDowell club season which took place Tuesday evening at the Capitol theater. The MacDowell chorus of 35 voices sang Deems Taylor's "The Highwayman" assisted by the Florentine Trio and J. Scott M. Wee, both of Portland. A Schubert musical was given the same evening at the home of Mrs. Martin F. Ferrey.

Wednesday evening, the students in the piano department of Willamette university gave a recital of Schubert numbers under the direction of Miss Frances Virginia Melton which was attended by a large number of university students and townspeople. Miss Elizabeth Levy presented a number of her violin students in concert at the Boys' Training school at Woodburn. This concert was one of three which were sponsored by the Institutions' department of the Salem Women's club. Programs of vocal and instrumental music were also given Wednesday evening at the state school for the blind and at the state tuberculosis hospital.

Gilbert and Sullivan's interesting light opera, "H. M. S. Pinafore" was presented Friday evening by the music department of Salem high school, under the direction of Lena Belle Tartar. A musical program arranged by Joy Turner Moses was also presented Friday evening in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A.

As a climax to the week a grand community concert was given in the Salem armory Saturday evening, with more than 600 persons taking part. The leading musical organization of the city participated including Willamette University Glee club and quartet, MacDowell club chorus, the Sacred Heart Academy orchestra, a public school chorus of 300 school children, the high school orchestra, and the Drum Corps, Capital Post, No. 9, American Legion.

Each day of the week musical features were given at the four waters and the luncheon clubs. This was the most successful music week ever sponsored in Salem. Surrounding communities which actively cooperated with Salem were Woodburn, Silverton, Monmouth, West Salem, Stayton, Dallas, and Independence.

Mrs. Denton who has served as general chairman of the Salem Music week committee for the past two years, was assisted this year by members of the Salem Music Teachers' association including Miss Elizabeth Levy, Miss Frances Virginia Melton, Miss Lena Belle Tartar, Miss Gretchen Kreamer and the following members of Chemeketa chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution: Mrs. Homer Goulet regent; Mrs. W. MEMORIAL PARK WORK PROGRESSES

The Areas for First Development Will Be Ready Very Soon

W. A. Laidlaw, who has purchased land south of the city for the development of a memorial park, says the fine weather has allowed much to be done in the way of preliminary work which was delayed on account of the rain.

The preliminary survey has been completed by the engineering firm of Cupper and Simpson, and the contour maps are in the hands of the best landscape architects to be procured.

Prof. Arthur L. Peck, at the head of the department of landscape of the O. A. C. and Claire Heilmann, cooperating with him in the work, are enthusiastic over the natural features of the site selected, and their work has reached an interesting stage, promising much in the permanent beauty which may be developed.

The site is a high undulating plateau, a part of which is at present leased as the Franklin bulb farm of daffodils and tulips, which many have visited, on Browning avenue.

Work will soon begin in the drives which will give access to the areas where first development can begin, and from which may be seen the wonderful view over the beautiful valley with its background of the Cascades in the east and the coast range on the west.

FIRST METHODIST USED AS SAMPLE

Dr. H. Paul Douglass, who has surveyed hundreds of churches in this country, including one in Salem, Oregon, has just published through the Institute of Social and Religious Research, of New York, a manual of survey method and procedure, entitled "How to Study the City Church," in which ministers, church officials and others untrained in research are told how to conduct scientific studies on their own account.

Dr. Douglass describes, and explains in detail, methods of study and steps in procedure developed and tested in various institute surveys. He gives clear and precise instructions for making, without professional assistance, an all-round study of a church, or an intensive investigation of some one or more aspects of a church's life and work, or a study of the religious antecedents and affiliations of a particular area to determine the church's responsibility for it.

For the benefit of denominational executives, federation secretaries, and others, instructions are also given for the making of a more complex studies of groups of churches and their relations to the communities to which they belong. The First Methodist Episcopal Church was the Salem church studied recently by Dr. Douglass.
