PORTLAND BANKS WOULD DODGE TAX

Action Begun in Federal Court to Get on Par With Competition

PORTLAND, May 28.—(AP)—Advancing the contention that more than one hundred million dollars of tax-free capital is employed in Portland in competition with the taxed capital of the banks of the city, the seven national banks of Portland today opened their suit in federal court, attacking the validity of the tax imposed by the state of Oregon upon the capital, stocks and undivided profits of these institutions.

T. M. Hurlbert, sheriff and tax collector of Multnomah county is defendant in the suit, as the banks seek to enjoin him from collecting the tax which has been certified by the county assessor as being due.

Testimony given by witnesses called to the stand today for the plaintiffs tended to show that the finance and brokerage houses here are dealing in bonds and mortgages and other securities at rates by the tax-free standard, and re-discounting and borrowing money from banks upon these same securities.

The rate of interest which they can get, the banks contend, is regulated by the rate earned by the tax-free capital, yet the capital is subject to the state impost.

HOOVER ENEMY UNDER INDICTMENT SHADOW

$30,249 up to May 1, and had received contributions totalling $34,944.

Tells of Campaign
Hill said he had supplied "boiler plate" and other free matter to many newspapers in support of the Hoover candidacy and was questioned concerning the Robert W. Satterfield "illustrated life of Hoover" strips which he had put out. Hill said this had been furnished to all of the Scripps, Howard newspapers, which had published them after the New York editor of the Scripps-Howard organization had endorsed them.

While the committee was going into these details, the senate broadened its authority by adopting a resolution by Senator Bease, democrat, South Carolina, directing an investigation into the handling of the Cuban and Porto Rican sugar supplies by Hoover as food administrator during the World war. The resolution set forth that Cuban and Porto Rican sugar was alleged to have been purchased for 5¢ cents a pound and retained in Cuba and Porto Rico for months, while the American people were paying 28 cents a pound for the commodity.

Finances Suspicious
In telling of the investigations of Hale's record and his endorsement by Chamberlain, Mrs. Willebrandt said Chamberlain's financial condition showed an almost immediate improvement.

She testified that his bank deposits jumped from $300 a month to from $1,000 to $5,000 a month. During a little more than a year, she added, he deposited $90,000 in one bank and $65,000 in another.

Information had been obtained, Mrs. Willebrandt went on, that after one all-night visit with Hale, Chamberlain exhibited twenty $1,000 bills.

Determined to make a second investigation of Hale's activities, Mrs. Willebrandt said that in 1926 she went direct to Secretary Mellon, as she regarded it useless to appeal to General Andrews. Mellon ordered the inquiry into which, she said, came information that Hale had accepted $5 a case from two rum runners for permitting the landing of liquor. This was back in 1922 and 1923 and when the information was obtained, the statute of limitations had become effective.

MUSCLES LESS, BUT LEAD APRIL DISEASE

There were 227 cases of communicable diseases reported in Marion county in April, of which 191 were measles, according to the monthly report of Dr. Vernon A. Douglas, county health officer, which was read Monday at the luncheon meeting of the executive committee of the county health unit.

The report states that measles were just about half as prevalent during April as in the month of March. In April, 1928, there were put two cases of diphtheria as against eight a year ago, and no cases of scarlet fever. In April, 1927, seven cases of scarlet fever were reported.

Other diseases recorded for the month of the report: Chickenpox 19, pneumonia 10, mumps 1, gonorrhea 1, syphilis 1, and septic sores three.

April deaths numbered 65, one less than a year ago. There were 82 births, 36 male and 46 female.

Ten inspections of auto camps were made; 234 school children vaccinated for smallpox and 563 given the toxin anti-toxin immunization.

Report of J. E. Blinkhorn, sanitary inspector, included: survey completed, showing 102 cows in the city from which is sold an average of 206 quarts of milk daily; 105 tests on as many samples of bacteria, sediment, butterfat and in most cases flavor and odor, and specific gravity.

Mr. Blinkhorn had made preliminary

FIND MRS. KNAPP GUILTY

Former New York Secretary of State Misused Funds

ALBANY, N. Y., May 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state for New York was found guilty of misappropriation of state census funds by a jury late Saturday night.

Two women spectators screamed when the foreman announced the verdict but Mrs. Knapp answered the formal questions of the clerk in a firm tone of voice. It was the second time that the former state official had gone on trial for the alleged theft of the pay check, drawn to the order of Clara Blanche Knapp. The first trial terminated about three weeks ago when the jury disagreed and was discharged.

In both trials Clara Knapp, Mrs. Knapp's stepdaughter, declared she had done no work on son, Worcester, Mass., who spoke the New York census and did not on "The Development of the Con-

KENTUCKIAN WINS MEET

James R. Moore, 17, Captures Oratorical Contest

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—A 17 year old son of the southland, James R. Moore, of Somerset, Ky., Saturday won the national contest with an address on "The Development of the Constitution" in which he termed that paper the "noblest inheritance brought by the blood of our ancestors." Justices Van Devanter, Butler and Stone of the United States supreme court were judges of the contest in which six other high school youths, vying for the honor of representing America next fall against the chosen speakers of nine foreign countries, spoke on the constitution.

Elliott Norquist, Kansas City, Mo., was second with his oration "The Present Significance of the Constitution," and Charles J. O'Leary of Worcester, Mass., who spoke the New York census and did not on "The Development of the Con-
