STUDENTS WILL GET CLARION TOMORROW

High School Yearbook Offers Innovations, Despite Late Distribution

bring in. It has been known for happen. some little time that the book will be a financial success, and that Salem high annuals will be on paying basis in the future.

The Clarion of 1928, as it is officially known, differs but little in general tone from those of former years. Its size is the same; but it contains fewer pages than its predecessors. The motif used throughout the book is Mother Goose characters; the art work. which carries out this motif most effectively, was done by Milo Ross. a high school artist of no maen ability. The cover used on the Clar ion is entirely new to Salem high school annuals; it is of paper, chosen especially by the editor for its beauty and newness. Original plans called for the book to be issued on May 18. bui unforseen complications precluded the possibility of its being issued before tomorrow. No finan cial loss will be suffered because of the delay in issuing the Clar ion, for the entire issue was subscribed for early in May. But the sees udents themselves are disappointed because the annual was of ready before the end of school. or custom demands that the stu lent's copy of the annual bear the ignatures of as many of his lassmates as possible.

Phe sum of $1297.78 was expended by the "Butler for Con- gray to harmonize with the cover. g ess' club in behalf of R. R. Butler club.
