

DILLONS CONDUCT REVIVAL CAMPAIGN

Evangelist Former Movie Actor; Services at Full Gospel Tabernacle

Charles R. Dillon and Helen I. Dillon, well known evangelists, have arrived in Salem and are holding an evangelistic campaign in the Evangelistic Full Gospel tabernacle at 13th and Ferry streets.

Charles R. Dillon

Evangelist Dillon is a converted movie actor, who has spent many years back of the camera and up-stage American stage. Helen I. Dillon is known as "The soul stirring evangelist."

These young people are unusual workers in the Lord's service whom the public is invited to hear.

MINT INDUSTRY HERE IS ASSURED GREAT FUTURE

Peppermint oil has been increasing, says Mr. Lyon, and so has the interest in and consumption of our product. It has a good reputation and a number of others; and these are many roots and leaves in the drug garden field that we can grow here to advantage and at a profit. There is a great future for this section in the drug garden field, Mr. Lyon says.

Our competitors are Michigan and Indiana. Our more or less stable climate is in our favor, as compared with the conditions in those states.

This Is Very Important

Is an increased acreage of mint in the Oregon field justified? This is an important question here, Mr. Lyon says. Our increased production here is justified. Our peppermint oil is used principally in the candy, tooth pastes, and in medicines.

More Than Mint

Mr. Lyon says we can produce more articles in the line of essential oils than peppermint oil, and should do so. We should supply spearmint and tansy and catnip and a number of others; and there are many roots and leaves in the drug garden field that we can grow here to advantage and at a profit.

FOUR VITAPHONE ACTS ON PROGRAM

Four exceptional vitaphone vaudeville acts have been scheduled for the Capitol Theatre today force will be offered by the Vitaphone corporation to the audience of the Capitol theatre. "The Lash" presents the problem that has caused more legal arguments than any other, to wit—"Is there such a thing as a justifiable killing?"

phone to be heard anywhere in the world after the opening at the Warner Theatre in New York, was the act of "The Four Aristocrats." It fairly brought down the house at the Colony Theatre, where a select group of critics saw the initial performance.

DRESSED TO KILL POWERFUL DRAMA

Though the crook of today is an immaculate dresser, drives high powered cars, maintains expensive apartments and frequents the opera and the night clubs he is a "brother under the skin" with the crook and "thug" of other days in the matter of coldbloodedness and heartlessness.

"Dressed to Kill," Fox Films ultra modern story of the underworld and its master mind which opens at the Capitol theatre today, has received acclamation all over the country.

Edmund Lowe, of "What Price Glory" fame, is the star in the role of "Miles Away" Barry, brazen and immaculate leader of the underworld and Mary Astor, "the patrian of the screen" plays the leading feminine role. Ben Bard heads the brilliant supporting cast with Charles Morton in a featured role.

MENARY AGREES TO DROP EQUALIZATION

ment of the equalization fee, but is willing to have the farm relief plan as passed at the last session tried out without such a provision.

"If this really were tried out and found to be ineffective or only partly effective," he said, "in my opinion the administration and the congress would unite upon an effort to devise some other remedy that would prove to be sound, sane and successful."

McNary expressed the belief that the republican party would keep its pledge to the farmers as contained in the agricultural plank in the platform adopted at Kansas City, declaring that it committed the party to the enactment of legislation that would place agriculture on a basis of economic equality with industry.

The McNary-Haugen bill, which would create a federal farm board, abundantly financed to make loans to cooperative associations and farmer controlled stabilization corporations for the purpose of preventing violent price fluctuations and of controlling agricultural surpluses through the process of orderly marketing.

"The time is not far distant," McNary said, "when we will consume our entire farm surplus at home, but in the meantime, and at the earliest possible date, we should do all that can be done legislatively to remove agricultural depression which has weakened the whole economic national structure."

PLAN FOR HIGH STREET BRIDGE FACING COUNCIL

The new ordinance calling for a change in the handling of garbage in accordance with the requirements of the new incinerator, will come up for first reading.

Action may also be taken on the request of the West Salem city council for an arrangement for disposing of its garbage in Salem's incinerator.

Program for Willamette Exercises 60 Years Ago

The Statesman of last Sunday published the program of the graduating exercises of the Willamette university 60 years ago, in June, 1878. It was not known at that time that there was available a program of the exercises of 60 years ago. Through the courtesy of Mrs. F. J. Babcock there is published below the program of the commencement exercises of Willamette university sixty years ago.

In the early days each graduate was required to deliver an oration or an essay. As will be noticed, there were fifteen graduates in 1868, five of whom are still living, viz: Miss Ellen Chamberlin, Miss Ida M. Pratt, now Mrs. F. J. Babcock, Jos. L. Carter, former superintendent of the blind school, Miss Angie Grubbe, now Mrs. Engle, and Miss Emma Freeland, now Mrs. Dashiels.

James Chambers distinguished himself as a legislator from Benton county. J. D. Dennison was a brother of the late John N. Dennison, former pastor of the First M. E. church in Salem. W. Galloway was for several terms a legislator from Yamhill county and later a circuit judge of the land office at Oregon City. Miss Jessie DeVora, the Christmas following her graduation, became the wife of Judge W. Carey Johnson. Geo. E. Strong, the brilliant journalist, for a brief time editor of the Oregonian, perished in a blizzard in southern Oregon. E. J. Waller was the youngest son of Father A. F. Waller, the founder and patron saint of Willamette.

Marion County Credit Board

Part of a permanent State wide organization of merchants and Professional men and women to improve credit conditions, now operating in a number of counties in Oregon with new counties and members being added very rapidly.

These Credit Boards are organized by the Pioneer Service Co., which is incorporated under the laws of this State, with a State office located in Eugene, Oregon.

The Pioneer Service Co., a responsible concern has been operating for more than four years, whose business has now extended to 18 other states, making it the largest retail credit concern in America.

This company supplies merchants and professional men and women with a state wide credit rating and collection service including an exchange of credit information between its members, and an exchange of credit information between county credit boards and between state organizations.

Credit Reports Issued

In the operation of these boards, each month a delinquent list is issued and mailed to every member of the county credit board. This list gives the debtors names and addresses and the amount they owe to members, and shows up those who do not properly respect their credit by payment of their accounts within a reasonable length of time. All debtors are notified and given ample time to settle their accounts before their names are listed and it is not the purpose to embarrass any one, rich or poor who does his best to meet his obligations.

Names once on the delinquent list are not removed for any reason until the account is PAID.

Unpaid Claims Are Advertised

Where payment is persistently refused, unpaid claims are advertised for sale from time to time, but not without the consent of the creditor.

This system reduces losses and enables merchants to operate at less cost and to sell at lower prices and enables them to extend credit to those who deserve and respect it, and takes care of the collection of slow and bad accounts without charging any commission or percentage for this part of the service.

The Marion County Credit Board is being organized from Salem, and every business man in every city and town of the county is urged to cooperate toward making the entire county credit proof, Marion County Credit Board now consists of approximately 50 members and new members are being added daily.
