

SALLY RAND REAL STAR FOR F AND M

Sally Rand, star of Fanchon and Marco's "Sally from Hollywood" who comes in person to the stage of the Elsinore theater Sunday and Monday, and who has had a veteran's experience before the footlights before going into the movies, literally "dove" into the silent drama.

Some girls get into the pictures by winning beauty contests; some danced from the Polles; some rode in on Western bronchos—but Sally "dove" in from a 15-foot diving board.

It was on the Mack Bennett lot, and Sally was there still seeking the solution of the mystery of how to break into the movies. Bennett told her that if she would make a 15 foot dive into a pool he would give her a job in the picture. Sally asked no more questions. She dove.

Then followed small parts for Bennett after which Cecil B. DeMille selected her as a worthy member of his stock company and, until she decided to go back on the stage in a Fanchon and Marco show, she has been with DeMille ever since.

After a change in the family fortunes some years ago which made Sally the chief wage-earner, she tried out on the Orpheum circuit. Always a good dancer, she was given a job. This tour brought her to the eastern seaboard, and there had luck overtook her. Jobless, she went to New York—with exactly three dollars and fifteen cents in her pocket. Anyone who knows one phase of the show business from the actor's viewpoint knows the hardships that Sally went through during these trying days. Tiny hall bedrooms, insufficient food and all the rest.

Then came a chance on the Keith circuit and with a partner, she played two weeks at the Palace theater, New York, the dream of every vaudeville player. She toured the Orpheum circuit, coming west and ending in Sacramento, where she was stricken with appendicitis. It was while lying in the hospital that Sally Rand determined to forsake the footlights and make good in the movies.

How well she has done that all the world knows. But now Sally comes back to her own back to the footlights, the music and the glamor that surrounds the super-motion picture theater presentation.

Blonde, petite, whimsical-eyed and beautiful—Sally Rand stands alone today among the younger Hollywood stars, vibrant with youth and at the zenith of her ability as a dancer.

You'll see her on the stage of the Elsinore theater today and Monday.

INTERESTING PICTURE WILL SHOW AT ELSINORE TUESDAY

Richard Barthelmess as he is in real life, and as he appears in "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

John Greenleaf Whittier's classic poem, "The Barefoot Boy," which has been written into a play, is a barefoot girl in the opening scenes, also.

"The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" is an intensely human story of the Kentucky mountain boy in the First National picture, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," which comes to the Elsinore theater Tuesday.

Barthelmess, in the opening scenes of this stirring picture, appears as a barefoot boy of four, who is actually only 17 years old, is a barefoot girl in the opening scenes, also.

Patton Carries Oregon's Banner in Hoover Parade

When the republican convention at Kansas City "broke loose" at the mention of Herbert Hoover's name by John McNab, who made the nomination speech for the successful candidate, Hal D. Patton, Salem delegate, had the honor of carrying Oregon's banner. It was learned yesterday following Mr. Patton's return.

The local delegate believes that Lowden and some of the other candidates would have made a better showing against Hoover than they did, if short sighted campaign managers had based their arguments on the merits of these candidates and not on alleged shortcomings of the commerce secretary.

The Oregon delegation held its own with the best of them in the convention, Mr. Patton said. All of them acquitted themselves creditably in such phases of the convention's work as were entrusted to them.

"Patton of Oregon" put this state on the map at Kansas City and got his own name on the front pages in many parts of the country as well as in the convention city, through his work on the credentials committee. His advocacy of the Oregon method of direct action was heralded far and wide.

They have closed and their workers gone back to the paddy fields. The surviving bone workshops are supported by the domestic trade and small orders from Japan and Europe.

JOHNNY HINES VERY BUSY AS FUN MAKER

Johnny Hines, famous for his comedy screen characterizations, is said to surpass all previous performances in "Chinatown Charley," his latest First National picture, produced by C. C. Burr, coming to the Oregon theater today.

In "Chinatown Charley," which is from the pen of the prolific playwright, Owen Davis, the comedian is said to give an exceedingly realistic interpretation of a guide on a New York sight-seeing bus, a wax dummy, a Chinese mandarin, and a lover.

The last is not the least, for in order to win the hand of the heroine, portrayed by Louise Lorraine, Johnny puts up some fights worthy of a western villain, and performs the thrilling stunt of walking across a human bridge—the bodies of five acrobats swung together from a second story fire escape to the balcony of the mandarin's palace, 25 feet across the street.

The comedian is assisted in this riot of fun by Louise Lorraine, Anna May Wong, Edna May Oliver, Scooter Lowry, Harry Gibson, Fred Kohler, George Kuwa, Jack Carlyle, Jack Burdette, Betty Egan, Joy Lynn, and a score of other funmakers. Charles Hines directed the offering.

HEALTH SUPERVISOR ACCEPTS NEW POST

Miss Anne Simpson to Assume Similar Work in Teachers' College

Miss Anne Simpson, supervisor of health with the Marion county child health demonstration, will assume the office of supervisor of health education in all the state teachers' colleges in northern California on September 1, according to announcement yesterday from the county health center here.

Miss Simpson, who has resigned her position here after working with the local unit since 1925, will teach health education methods at the Oregon State college summer sessions, following which she will leave for her new headquarters in San Francisco.

In her new position, Miss Simpson will work under an advisory committee of leading California university professors, including Dr. Edna Bailey, University of California at Berkeley; Dr. C. I. Hunter, of Pomona college; and Mrs. E. Tate Thompson, executive secretary of the California tuberculosis association.

Miss Simpson holds a master's degree in biology from Columbia university, New York City, taking her bachelor of science degree in sociology and zoology at the University of Washington. She was for ten years employed in the department of health and physical education in the Portland schools, and while working there was awarded a scholarship from the American child health association in 1923, which she used in doing advanced work at Columbia university.

She came to the Salem center after studying at Columbia.

POLISH STEEL COMBINE

WARSAW—(AP)—Formation of a new steel syndicate, in which considerable German money is invested, has centralized the iron and steel industry in Poland. A number of works in Upper Silesia have been combined by the Oberschlesische Eisenbahn Bedarfs A. G. to form a powerful organization employing 12,000 workmen and controlling iron ore and coal mines, foundries, rolling mills, coke ovens, by-product factories and electrical power plants.

PICTURE OF NEW YORK LIFE VIVID

The popular idea of Broadway's life comprises bright lights, cabarets, gay parties after the show, staid door johnnies, and indolent lives of ease for the chorus girls. Lynn Shores, FBO director, went to the Great White Way itself to secure true-to-life material for "Sally of the Scandals" coming to the Elsinore theater, today for a two day run, and as a result this picture gives an accurate representation of back-stage life, and corrects some wrong impressions of the theater as it is.

Here is a picture of New York night life which does not contain one picture of a giddy night club! The chorus girls are shown as they actually are—as hardworking wage earners and home makers. They foregather with other members of their profession, and their joys and sorrows are very much akin to those of everyday persons in other walks of life.

Strangely enough, this does not lessen the romance of the world of make-believe behind the curtain, but rather emphasizes it and brings home even more sharply the poignant experiences of the little chorus girl heroine who is brought to life by the inimitable Bessie Love.

BIBLE SCHOOL ENDS FIRST WEEK'S WORK

Interdenominational Classes Taught at Jason Lee Memorial Church

A three weeks Dally Vacation Bible school has been launched by the Jason Lee Memorial M. E. church in the north section of the city. At the close of the first week in operation it was found that 66 young people had been enrolled. Of these 17 belonged to the kindergarten group; 28 to the primary; and 23 to the junior.

Miss Edna Jennison, a graduate of Willamette, and at present a student in the department of religious education at Kimball School of Theology, has been secured as principal.

There are nine teachers with Miss Jennison. Miss Emma Mohr, Robert Witty and Miss Genevieve Mulkey have the Junior group; Miss Ellen Carrin, Mrs. DeVore and Mrs. W. L. Wilson have charge of the primary group; while Miss Leah Fanning and Miss Beulah Graham share with each other the honors in the kindergarten group. Miss Thelma is director of music.

Though under Methodist auspices the enterprise is on a community basis. Both Free Will Baptist and Baptist workers are sharing the task with the Methodists. The fine spirit of cooperation prevails. Children may still register and are invited to do so. Sessions from 9 to 12 daily, Saturday excepted.
